WAR ON SNAKES AND TURTLES

FOUND TO BE DESTROYERS OF FISH AND WATER FOWL

A double-barrelled campaign to rid waters of turtles and snakes injurious to fish and wildfowl and at the same time furnish turtle meat to the needy has just been started by the Connecicut Board of Fisheries and Game, according to announcement of the American Game Association here. The Association advocates the inauguration of a similar campaign with the twofold objective in every state in the union.

Connecticut, in the first week of its campaign, caught and turned over several tons of live turtles to the unemployed and other needy citizens. Recipes on how to prepare turtle were given with the turtles. Forty small black bass have found in the stomach of one water snake, and more than sixty-seven fingerling brown trout one and one-half inches long in another. Remains of ducklings as well as fish are found in the digestive tracts of water snakes and turtles.

Prize money is being awarded by the Connecticut department for size and number of catches and kills of turtles and snakes. The unemployed are making money, and getting food too, in the campaign.

Game wardens and others are taking advantage of the insatiable appetite of the turtle and also his propensity to sun himself often. Several kinds of turtle traps are used, some with bait and some without.

Turtles are enticed into hoop nets with bait, and others are caught by a cut and balanced plank upon which the turtle crawls to sun himself. A net or wire box trap is set below. If the plank is balanced, Mr. Turtle drops in when his weight disturbs the balance; if the net or box trap is placed beneath a stationary object, Mr. Turtle is scared off the object and falls into the trap. Turtles always plunge off of sunning logs upon the approach of humans. Directions for making turtle traps can be procured from any state game department; the family cookbook has excelent receipes for preparing the meat. Mr. Turtle has vicious jaws, so be careful in handling him, the Association cautions.

FEWER DEATHS IN MARYLAND

SLIGHT DECREASE IN BIRTHS

There were 670 fewer deaths reported in Maryland during the first six months of the current year than during the corresponding peiod of 1931. The decrease was especially marked in Baltimore City where 618 less were reported than during the first half of 1931. There were 52 fewer deaths in

A report prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health shows that 11,061 deaths were reported in the State from January 1 to June 30 of this year, 5,687 from Baltimore City and 5,374 from the counties. In 1931, the total for the same period was 11,731, of which 6,305 were reported from Baltimore City and 5,426 from the counties.

Over 5,700 deaths—51 per cent. of the total reported in the State, from all causes, since the first of January—were due to what are known as the degenerative diseases, or diceases of middle life and of old age, that is, diseases of the heart, of the kidneys, cerebral hemorrhage or apoplexy, cancer and diabetes. Heart disease was responsible for 2,314 deaths; diseases of the kidneys for 1,244; cerebral hemorrhage for 976; cancer 968 and diabetes for 231 deaths.

The pneumonias and tuberculosis were responsible for 1,828 deaths—pneumonia for 1,033 and tuberculosis for 795—or 16 per cent of the total. The deaths from the diseases mentioned—the degenerative diseases, the pneumonias and tuberculosis —were responsible for two thirds of the total deaths from all causes. The remaining third was scattered among all other causes.

There were 14,480 births reported during the half year, 7,036 in Baltimore City and 7,444 in the counties, in comparison with 14,606 during the corresponding period of 1931, 7,147 in Baltimore City and 7,459 in the counties. There were 954 deaths under one year, 430 in Baltimore City and 524 in the counties in comparison with 1,104 during the first six months of 1931 when 515 were reported in Baltimore City and 589 from the counties.

June with 1,639 deaths had the lowest number reported in any one month and March, with 2,165, the highest number.

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

When a history of Maryland is written covering the years 1931 and 1932, it should give much space to Bernard Ades, of Baltimore. No doubt, the major portion of this period will be taken up with the chance Governor Ritchie had of being the Democratic candidate for president, and will go into much detail describing his demonstration at Chicago. Included in the pages will probably be found extracts from the Governor's famous "States Rights" speeches.

The man who has really accomplished something during these two years is Ades. In his handling of the Lee case he has had few set-backs. He is probably the first lawyer to have a cheering squad working for his cause, to stage a demonstration at the right time. There demonstrations seem to have obtained more results than those of the Governor's. Ades one set-back was given him by the court at Towson, but it looks as though he is not licked yet. With everything against him he has upset traditions and as done what would have been considered the impossible three years ago.

There seems to be no one that can stop him and he is becoming a big factor in Maryland.

What we would like to hear now, is a speech from our Governor on "States Rights in reference to selection of Juries"; also we would like to know how, according to the Constitution, Maryland has segregation in schools, Churches, etc. Maybe Ades will give us a test case.

We, who would like to hold fast to our traditions are licked. The only way to forstall it for awhile is to be sure of the officials we elect. It should be possible to elect Democrats who hold fast to the unwritten principles which the party has adopted since the Civil War. Democrats that sacrifice the party to roll up big personal majorities are not wanted. By being true Democrats we will have the respect of many Republicans.

The following letter on the Depression was given us for publication. This fellow is not guilty of hoarding anyhow.

"THE CAUSE OF THE DEPRESSION"

To his home paper, a man in west Tennessee writes:

Holler Rook Junction, Tenn.

Dear Mr. Editor: There seems to be so much talk about our so-called Republican prosperity, I believe 'tis my duty to write my views on the same, and help analyze the situation as far as possible, so's we can make up our minds we had auto change our ways of living and so forth.

I have taken my own case for instance. I see my mistakes, and many others have acted likewise. I bought a Ford instead of a farm and it is worn out, but the farm I figured on is still o. k. I invested in a radio instead of a cow, and the radio gives static instead of milk.

I am feeding five nice hounds which answer to the names of Red, Red Wing, Slobber, Jake and Bayrum, instead of five pigs. I had our piano tuned instead of the well cleaned out. I spent all my cash in 1928 and used my credit in 1929 and traded up my future wages on installments in 1930, so hard times caught me in bad shape last fall.

If I had spent my last ten dollars for flour and meat instead of gas and oil, I would have been o. k. I built a nice garage last year instead of covering my barn, and I loafed in a mountain two weeks instead of being in the pasture fixin' it so's my cow won't get out, but she is dry and mortgaged to boot for two blankets my wife bought from an agent instead of paying the preacher.

I'm on a cash basis now, but ain't got no cash. I am tied to the end of my rope and the man I am working for is busted on account of nobody wouldn't pay him and his cotton won't sell, 'cause nobody won't buy no cotton clothes; all the gals wear slick, silky underwear right here in our cotton patches. I had $4 saved up for a rainy day; it turned dry and I spent the $4 for two inner tubes.

I tried hard to make both ends meet with a turnip patch, but when I get turnips ready to sell, everybody was selling turnips for nothing, and the market was glutted. I am worried plum to the bone as my wife's kinfolks are coming over next Tuesday to spend two weeks.

Write or phone if you hear of any relief from the government coming down my way, and I am willing to be either a Democrat or a Republican for a few days if that will help out any.

That the Japanese beetle is again infesting Cecil county and seriously damaging food crops and flowers is being called to the attention of the public by County Agent J. Z. Miller. Private citizens from practically every community in the country are reporting grave damage to grape vines and garden plants.

Extensive quarantines conducted by various states comprising the infested area in past years had controlled the spread of the beetle to the point where it was considered unimportant, but recent investigations show that it is again becoming a problem. Produce farmers in Cecil county, it is said, fear that their entire crops may be wiped out by the pest.

TALBOT COUNTY POULTRY ASSOCIATION TOUR

The annual tour by the members of the Talbot County Poultry Association was held July 28th. Above 50 members visited the Richard Tilghman and Mr. E. D. Prince turkey farm. Truslow hatchery was visited and a picnic lunch was eaten in the shade on the Chester River shore. Mr. Neal Truslow explained their experimental work in disease control and showed the experimental pens. Most interesting results are being obtained.

The next stop was at Haselberg's between Crumpton and Millington where hens are kept in batteries of individual wire cages. Hen's have been in these cages since November of 1931. Complete records are being kept. It is an interesting sight. The hens have no roosts, eggs are laid on the wire. Feed and water are available at the front of the pens.

The Bourne's baby chick farm nearby was also visited.

The group was enthusiastic and happy in spite of the heat. There is much of inspiration in visiting such interesting places. Many practical ideas are picked up or exchanged.

Mrs. W. W. Hopkins, of Cordova, is president of the association. Mr. Ivon T. Morton, of Easton, is secretary. County Agents Grubb and McVean, of Queen Anne's and Kent Counties respectively, joined the tour at Truslows.

NEW BEE CATCHING CHAMP

Harry Vance, of Ruthsburg, Bee-Catching Champion of Maryland for the last twelve months, lost his crown last Saturday at Denton when E. A. Andrews, Jr., of Govans, caught and bottled 27 sting-toters while his nearest competitor, Clarence J. Kern, of Denton, caught 19.

The occasion was the annual State Beekeepers' Association Convention held under the direction of State President A. Howard Johnson, of Centreville, who each year since his ascendency to the leadership of the state group, has sponsored a keenly contested bee catching contest.

Vance last year, at the convention on the farm of Capt. F. Bennett Carter, near Centreille, defeated Andrews for the state crown. The scores last year were high because standard varieties of bees were used. This year contestants did their picking from hives of a hybrid varieties. These bees are much more vicious in attack, and as a result fewer were successfully bottled.

LOCAL ANGLERS HAVE GOOD SPORT

Messrs. Arthur Culver, Fred Robinson, and Edward Wilkins, of Chestertown, had some good sport one day this week at Tilghman's Island.

They caught twenty-one blue fish and trout, the blue fish weighing from 2 to 5 1-2 pounds and the trout from 2 to 8 pounds.

A storm drove them off the grounds when the fishing was at its height. Mr. Culver claimed the largest fish, an 8 pound trout.

The fish were caught by trolling with artificial bait.

—Mr. Merrit Sutton, of Betterton, won two races at the Havre de Grace Regatta last Saturday. Mr. Sutton's boat is powered by 40 H. P. Gray motor.

—Square dances are proving popular at Betterton.

PENINSULA NEWS

Famed throughout the Eastern Shore Country, and all over the State, for its Camp Meetings, Shiloh Camp grounds has added another claim to fame and consideration, and in this particular case, will probably attract the largest throngs in history.

Beginning Sunday, July 31, and continuing throughout the coming week, Shiloh Camp has secured the services of the famous evangelist, Billy Sunday. Sunday will fight the devil in his usual strenuous manner all next week at Shiloh Camp, and his call to sinners to "hit the sawdust trail" will probably be heard by the largest crowd ever assembled at Shiloh Camp.

An ordinance was passed by the City Council, of Easton, requiring a $100 license be paid by any firm doing a transitory business in Easton. The ordinance is designed for the purpose of keeping bankrupt stock sales and other such merchandise being thrown on the Easton market by out-of-town concerns. It will not affect sales held by the local merchants.

The peddler's or huckster's license ordinance, which has been before the Council several times was passed at the session with an annual charge of $25 instead of the $40 as first proposed. These taking out the license have the privilege of taking it out for a year or paying $5 for each day goods is sold in the town.

Farms in Wicomico County in 1929 produced on the average more sweet potatos per acre than the farms of any other important county in the United States, according to a study made by Richard C. Ross, agricultural statistician for the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.

Wicomico County, in the eleven most important sweet potato producing counties, ranks highest in the order of yield per acre, third in the order of total production, and sixth in the order of acreage, figures of the Bureau of Census, recently issued for the 1929 crop reveal.
