POULTRY THIEVES, BEWARE

It is difficult to estimate the amount of poultry that has been stolen in Kent County this past year. The State of Minnesota made a survey and estimated their losses to be in excess of $2,000,000 a year. The good roads, fast automobiles, and trucks have made it easy for the crooks to reach the city almost before the farmer learns of his losses.

In spite of the fact that Kent County has one of the most efficient sheriff's in the state and an organization of deputies working day and night to intercept the gang of thieves working in this section and the alertness of the farmer night and day to protect his property, almost every night new reports are received of heavy losses. Even when the thieves are intercepted or when the poultry is alleged to have been located, it is almost impossible to identify the birds. Consequently, it is most difficult even if the thieves are brought to court to obtain conviction.

A national organization has been formed to protect the interests of the farmer and to enable the sheriffs and law enforcement offices to immediately identify each farmers property. This is accomplished by tattooning a private code mark on each bird. This official brand is registered nationally with all sheriffs, poultry and stock buyers, and other law enforcing agents. It is also sent to all commission merchants and poultry and livestock dealers. The instruction on the brand registration sheets, which are sent out at frequen interals throughout the year, briefly are as follows: The names on these registration sheets are the owners of one of our poultry markers. Each one is the exclusive owner of the initials which appear ahead of his name. Poultry marked with these initials belong to him. If offered for sale by anyone else it should not be accepted unless a satisfactory explanation can be given.

If you are a poultry dealer and poultry is offered to you by a stranger or under suspicious circumstances, examine several birds for marks. If you find an initial on the wing look up on your registration sheet and you will know at once whether he owns the poultry or not. If he does not own them and can't answer satisfactorily as to where he got them, hold him and call the sheriff or the police department or pay him by check and haev the sheriff pick him up when he goes to cash the check.

Charles Miller and W. H. Miller, of Kennedyville, have subscribed to this service. All their poultry and livestock bears code No. 668. On the gate leading to the farm is a large metal sign which reads:

Thieves Beware

The poultry and livestock on this farm are marked and registered with the sheriffs and various buyers. It will prove ownership by law.

American Poultry And Livestock Association

$25.00 REWARD

A reward of $25.00 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one stealing from these premises poultry and livestock marked with our registration brand.

Thieves knowing that Mr. Miller's poultry is marked, will not take a chance on this farm as they know the sheriff would have little difficulty in locating the birds. By telephone he could immediately notify the police in Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York to look out for poultry bearing the official brand register No. 668. Furthermore, dealers seeing this brand number would immediately notify the police. Failing to do this the court would probably hold them as a party to the crime.

Truslow Poultry Farm, desiring to protect the interests of the poultrymen in this section, have investigated this service carefully and are in a position to give complete information regarding membership to the Association.

The Arundel Corporation, Baltimore has completed the work of dredging 125,000 yards of material from the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal between St. George's and Summit. The company started on the project June 15th. The dredge will now be moved to Chesapeake City. where it will dredge 225,000 yards near the bridge spanning the canal. This work is expected to start shortly. The Arundel Corporation was low bidder on the project.

Wicomico taxpayers may save 3 per cent on their 1932 tax bills by payment of same during the month of August. This applies to county taxes only—not to the State impost which is also collected by the County Treasurer.

SERIES OF UNION SERVICES

For the past three weeks St. James Christian Endeavor Society has had the privilege of uniting in worship with other societies.

The first union meeting was on July 24 when the Christian Endeavor Society of Christ M. P. Church, of Chestertown joined us in evening worship, filling the church to capacity, and giving us a fine spiritual service.

On the following Sunday evening it was our pleasure to have with us, the Epworth League of Rock Hall M. E. Church. Again our church was filled and the hour of worship a profitable one to all who attended. Although planned as a union service of St. James and Roik Hall we noted two other churches well represented.

The first Sunday evening in August found the Christian Endeavor Society of Kennedyville M. P. church uniting with us in worship and inspiring all with the service of the evening.

It is quite helpful to unite with others in worship, as these union services bring to us a fuller realization of the unity of purpose of Christian Societies.

According to the records kept at the local auction block, nearly 100,000 bushels of cukes were sent to the city markets through the local station during the past six weeks. Although this was considered a bad year for the farmers and few of them expected to realize much from this crop, the cukes netted the farmers as much or more in a normal year.
