STRICTLY FRESH EGGS

HOW FRESH ARE FRESH EGGS?

(From the Bel Air Aeger)

An egg story which lan run rings around any fish yarn we have ever eard has just been divulged by a young Bel Air matron. It seems that nearly fourteen years ago two young ladies and a young man were packing eggs for shipment in the store of E. Tucker & Co., at Forest Hill. As a joke the gentleman wrote the names and addresses of his two girl companions on two eggs and sent them aff with a consignment which ultimately landed at a cold storage plant.

As might be expected a postal or two soon came in response to the names and then the incident was forgotten. Since then a great deal of water has run over the mill—the young man having long since married one of the young ladies, while the second girl married eleven and a half years ago.

One can readily imagine the astonishment of this second lady a few days ago when she received the following letter from a Baltimore man bearing her maiden name and address:

"Dear Miss————

"The egg on which your name was written was bought with others from the ————store here in Baltimore about a week ago. I om rather curious to know when you sent it away, because we buy eggs here as "strictly fresh, that sometimes have been in cold storage for a long time.

Nevertheless, the egg was eaten and I am sending this to let you know that it finished its journey at my home." Immediately eleven and a half years were accounted for by the name and the letter brought up fresh memories so that the total career of the egg was pretty definitely fixed at fourteen years. Th story was so incredible the young woman could not resist the temptation to reply to the letter. Two days later she received a telephone call from a rather irate gentleman who wanted to know whether he was being "kidded." When assured that he was being told the truth he went on the war path after the seller who had slipped such a swift one over on him.

Upon second thought, however, it must be admitted that any system is really good that can keep an egg whilesome and patatable for fourteen years. After all there are some advantages in living in the country where an egg ceases to be "fresh" after it is a few days old.

Honorable William W. McCabe on Monday was re-elected Mayor of Ocean City for the sixth consecutive term of two years. He had no opposition—164 votes were polled.

BELLE M. CRANE UPSETS

ON WAY FROM CHESTERTOWN TO TALBOT COUNTY

The log canoe, Bell M. Crane, which took part in the Chester River Regatta, upset off the Raskob estate this week, while it was on its way back home to Talbot county.

Mrs. Searles Rose, the owner, is an expert sailor. After the races last Saturday the boat was towed down to the home of Mr. Kellogsmith and anchored. Mrs. Rose was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Barroll during the regatta. This week Mrs. Rose came up with a party of friends to sail the boat home. It was a windy day and Mrs. Rose had a rather young crew but they were good swimmers.

When the boat upset the crew swam ashore and the canoe is now anchored off the Raskob estate.. The Bell M. Crane sailed by Mrs. Rose, won the cup at the Chester River Regatta two years ago.

SPEED BOAT SINKS

z A Criscraft, owned by the Catholic Priest at Centreville, ran aground ofifi South-east Creek while on its way on Chester River to the regatta on Monday. When it hit bottom, the scag was torn off, smashing a number of planks and driving the propella up through the stern. The boat sank in about five feet of water and the two occupants were rescued by a yacht from the Tri-state Yacht Club which happened to be passing at the time. The boat is now being repaired at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hines.

SEEK TARIFF ON CRAB MEAT

A hearing of vital interest to the crabmeat industry throughout the United States and especially on the Eastern Shore waters and the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula was held in Washington by the U. S. Tariff Commission, on August 4th, for the purpose of considering a requested increase in the tariff rate on foreign crabmeat.

According to the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, this hearing was of interest not only to those engaged in the crabmeat business but all interests of the seafood and fishermen throughout the peninsula. The Commission, under Senate Resolution No. 122, was directed to investigate the cost of production of crabmeat, fresh or frozen, whether or not packed in ice, or prepared or preserved in any manner, including crab paste and crab sauce. This investigation was for the purpose of obtaining definite facts regarding the industry in the United States and foreign countries, upon which action might be based to increase the tariff rate on foreign crabmeat if found that the American producer is at a disadvantage in completition with them.

WAGE SCALE ADOPTED ON STATE ROADS

As a result of an investigation recently into the wages being paid by contractors for road construction in Maryland, the State Roads Commission this week put into effect a minimum wage scale for both skilled and unskilled labor and at the same time announced a maximum working day of ten hours on all its road projects, as will be seen by referring to the two advertisements sent in by the State Roads Commission and appearing in this paper today.

The Commission has set the minimum rate for unskilled labor at 25c per hour on the Eastern Shore and has added 25 per cent. to the unskilled labor rate for truck and tractor drivers and teamsters, and 50 per cent. to the same labor base for skilled workers such as shovel and crane operators, blacksmiths, carpenters, steel erecters and cement finishers.

All contracts in the future will carry the minimum wage stipulations and the commission reserves the light to terminate any contract where there is a violation of the agreement. The commission may check contractors' pay rolls at any time.

According to Harry D. Willar, Jr., chief engineer of the roads body: "We have been investigating reports that laborers are not receiving a living wage in many sections of the State and have found that some contractors are working men twelve and fourteen hours a day. For this they get as little as 15 cents an hour.

"The State Roads Commission also has studied the rates reported by contractors in all adjacent States and groups of adjacent States. As a result the commission has decided to limit any working day for any man on future State contract to ten hours per day.

RELEASED DUCKS SEEN IN COUNTIES

Eastern Shore sportsmen will probably benefit from releasing of Mallard ducks from the State hatchery on the 10,000 acre reserve in Dorchester, it was pointed out by gunners this week.

Already a number of the ducks released by the State have been seen in Talbot waters, it is reported and it is believed that the natural feeding grounds of the Eastern Shore will attract a comparatively large share of the birds turned loose.

The birds were banded when they arrived at the migratory game preserve and it is hoped that anyone out of the State shooting them will notify State or government officials of the band number. In this way, the migration of the mallards can be checked.

Another plan for the preserve. suggested by E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, is the purchase of an incubator for the hatching of eggs. J. F. Van Husen, superintendent of the Government property reported to Mr. LeCompte that at least fifty per cent. of the eggs laid by ducks inhabiting the marshes were destroyed, many of them by crows. Mr. LeCompte then put forward his plan, to be begun next year. The eggs found in the nests will be taken to the preserve headquarters and hatched out artificially.

The young then would be placed in the marshes and left to their own devices. Young mallards, it is said, have plenty of devices to pull them through their babyhood.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Newspaper advertising keeps your business before the buying public.

The political, economic and financial upsets and confusions into which the world has been plunged for many months have led to a bewildering series of suggestions and plans for reconstruction and recovery. In most cases the ideas put forward have resulted in nothing. We are still bewildered and living in hopes.

The future growth of any city depends upon a program for developing a continuous, adequate improvement in business.

A lot of fellows nowadays seem to be intoxicated with the sound of their own voices and, to make matters worse, most of them never say anything worth saying.

You should stop and think what kind of a city would your city be if every citizen were just like you. Would it be a live, busy city or would it be like a living cemetery?

A lot of politicians temper their words to the spirit of their audience. They usually tell not what they think, but what they think their hearers think they ought to think, never meaning a word of it.

I have always noticed that officers and employees of public service companies are real "go-getters." You can always find them performing a true double service; serving the companies they represent and serving their home city well.

The Curbstone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

(The following letter was addressed to another newspaper in town. As no name was signed to the letter it was not published, it not being the policy of the paper to publish anoyomous letters.)

Chestertown, Md. Aug. 8, 1932.

A fair minded consumer of water, electricity and gas in Chestertown replys to the wise cracks of the so-called curb stone Diplomat in last week's Transcript, regarding private owned and public owned utilities. where he states that Chestertown's public owned water company gives good water and good service.

I do not wish to criticise the water Company but if the Electric Company or Gas Company should cut their supply off as frequently as the Water Company, how long would the people stand for it.

I admit that the service of neither of these utilities is 100 per cent perfect yet I believe they are as good as the average small town utility.

I am informed by good authority that the junk on the gas tank which Mr. Collins refers to, is serving the purpose more efficiently than a booster pump would do.

I do not believe the people of Chestertown would care to be without even the jumping jack electric current or the boosterless gas.

Mr. Collins should change his name as such articles are far from diplomatic.

(The article to which the letter refers is reprinted below).

Are we easy? Is the Public Service Commission worthy of existance?

Our mails are crowded with propaganda about how well private owned utilities supply the needs. These private owned utilities are protected by law so that they have a monoply.

In Chestertown we have a public owned water system. We have a very good quality water and get good service at a reasonable rate. The system is getting pretty well worn and we have been bothered several times this year with the water being shut off.

However we have plenty of water and plenty of pressure.

Our Electric Light Company which is privately owned gives us uninterrupted service. We have plenty of electricity of the "Jump-jack variety. Up she goes and down she comes. At that it answers our needs very well.

But boy, this Gas Company is the one that has us down. Its lungs are too weak to stand the gaff and its breath is bad. Often times the quality is not so hot and the pressure low.

The complaints about pressure was made some time ago. We were promised a booster pump. What we got was a load of junk on top the gas tank. It helped at that.

Somebody kicked about the price. A representative of the company came to Chestertown and met with members of a civic organization and told them the price could not be reduced.

He must have left here with a smile, thinking, "My, them countrymen was easy," and probably got a smack on the back from the big boys when he got to headquarters with a remark, "That's the boy, Charlie, this company needs more men like you."

Whether the gas company can reduce prices or not we are not prepared to say. We would like to see them, of their own accord, or else have the Public Service get after them and have a couple of more bricks thrown up on the tank, or anything else to get more pressure.

Well, here is somebody that has had no trouble getting gas, Many people, however, have been having trouble although it is much better this week. If the writer of this letter had to work until 10.30 p. m. due to lack of gas pressure he might not have been so sweet either.

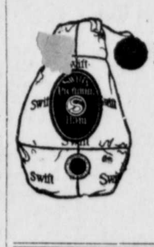

If the junk on top the gas container is remedying the situation, put more of it up and make it still better. Many of us have put our dependence in gas for heating and cannot operate without sufficient pressure.

As for electricity, it is great. The biggest improvement possible is when you shift to electricity for power. However, it is wavy, but as I said before, it answers our needs very well.
