Most of Us Owe Debt to Same Imp of Work

Sir Berkeley Moynihan, president of the Royal College of Surgeons in London, in the course of a speech was quoted as saying:

"Fairies, I am told, preside at a man's birth, bestowing gifts. Upon me they bestowed the gift of desiring leisure, so ever since I have longed for the paths of dalliance.

"But into the company of languorous desires bestowed by these fairies there intruded a most mischievous imp who made it his task to see that I should have no spiritual peace except through toil.

"I have often hated that imp and have been rebellious, yet I hardly know what I should have done without him. Perhaps he has been my best friend. He has kept me, tyrant that he is, to a high standard of attainment."

In the Circuit Court for Kent County
In Equity No. 2762

The object of the Bill filed in the above entitled case is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate therein mentioned and for the distribution of the proceeds thereof to those entitled.

The Bill states:

1. That Emma A. Carey who later married and became Emma A. Crittendon, was in her life time and at the time of her death, seized and possessed in fee simple of the following real estate situated in Kent County, Maryland.

All that lot, piece or parcel of ground situated in or near the village of Chesterville in Kent County, Maryand, upon the southern side of the public road or street leading through said village to Urieville from Millington, and adjoining the lot purchased by John A. Schwatka of William T. Spry, and which is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the center of said public road or street being also the point where the northwest corner of the said Schwatka lot is located and running thence with the third line of said Schwatka lot reversed by magnetic bearings south twenty and a quarter degrees west nine perches and ninety six hundredths of a perch to a stone on the said Spry lands; thence with said Spry lands the two following courses and distances North sixty nine and a quarter degrees west twenty four and fifty two hundredths of a perch and north twenty and a quarter degrees east nine perches and sixty two hundredths of a perch to the center of said public road, then with the said public road reversed south sixty nine and three quarters degrees east twenty four perches and five hundredths of a perch to the place of beginning containing one and one half acres of land more or less, being the same tract of land conveyed to the said Emma A. Carey by Henry C. Layman, et al., by deed dated October 3, 1887, and recorded among the Land Record Books for Kent County, Maryland, in Liber S. B. No. 10, folio 143 etc., a certified copy of which deed is filed herewith and marked Exhibit A.

2. That the said Emma A. Crittendon being possessed of the above real estate departed this life on May 26, 1930, testate, leaving the above described real estate to her brother, Thomas Burris in trust during his life time, and at his death to Nora Bedell, the heirs of her brother, Charlie Burris, and her brother, John D. Burris, and certified copy of said will is filed herewith and marked Exhibit B.

3. That Nora Bedell whose husband is W. James Bedell resides in Darby, Pennsylvania. That John D. Burris whose wife is Beulah Burris resides in Kent County, Maryland. That the heirs of Charley Burris are his son, C. Franklin Burris, who, with his wife, Mary H. Burris, resides in Wilmington, Delaware; a son, Harry R. Burris with his wife, Evelyn Burris, resides in Wilmington, Delaware; and Clifton A. Burris, a son and his wife, Ruth D. Burris, reside in Wilmington, Delaware; Ebbie Cooling, a daughter and her husband, E. Nelson Cooling, reside in Cecil County, Maryland. That a daughter, Cadie V. Becht and her husband, Frederick Becht, reside in West Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. All of said parties are over 21 years of age.

4. That the said Thomas Burris departed this life on November 4, 1930, in Kent County, Maryland.

5. That said real estate under said will is now the property of the said Nora Bedell, W. James Bedell, John D. Burris, Beulah Burris and the heirs of Charley Burris as above set forth.

6. That the said real estate is not susceptible of partition without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to an interest therein as above stated, and that, in order to make division of said interest, it will be necessary that the said real estate be sold, and the proceeds thereof divided among the parties according to the several interests.

It is thereupon, this 1st day of August, 1932, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent County, in Equity, that the plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Kent County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 5th day of September next, give notice to the said Nora Bedell and W. The Last Card

By DUFORD JENNE

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service)

MAISIE was certain she recognized him the moment she saw him, quietly studying the crowd that poured into the doors of the great city station.

She felt, for a moment, as if all hope had gone. She had brought her father safely through the net that was closing around him, only at the last to have escape seem impossible.

"Almost free, dad," she said cheerfully, patting his hand.

"I know, honey, but I feel as if I ought to return and—take what comes."

"Return? Never! There's just one thing to do, and we are going to do it! You know that Steinert group wrecked your bank, and that if they get their hands on you, you will be the one to suffer. You are not guilty, father, but you know they have you cornered in technicalities so that you will have to suffer. If we can get away, they will have to make good the bank's losses, and then in a year or two we can bring out the truth, perhaps. To return is to play into their hands."

Again she comforted him as she had many times since the dark hour when his supposed friends had wrecked the bank to which he had given a lifetime of devoted care.

"Now, look, father. I want you to go on to New York alone—"

"But—"

"Please. I am your guardian now. Go to the hotel we picked out. I'll join you tomorrow, and we'll sail the next day."

"I'll go," he said simply, with the quiet assent of one who has ceased to plan for himself.

"And now, Mr. Detective, here is where I play my last card with you," she said to herself. "I know you were sent here to catch us. I saw you with those lawyers."

She went swiftly toward the tall form she had seen. As she drew near he turned gray eyes upon her that widened with sudden interest.

"So it does pay to be beautiful," she thought with mixed feelings. "I shall make him forget his business if it can be done."

"Can you tell me if the 7:15 west has pulled out?" she asked anxiously.

"I am sorry, but they just closed the gates," he said with interest.

"I wonder what the next train will be?" she asked.

"I don't know," he answered readily. "But we can find out."

With a glow of triumph she followed him to the information window, where they learned that the next train was at eleven o'clock.

At her cry of dismay, he spoke quickly. "You're out of luck, and so am I. I've got to meet every train from the east until midnight. And I'm as hungry as the traditional bear. What do you say we hustle over and punish the viands?" he said smiling.

"I am with you!" she answered heartily, almost ready to do a little dance at the success of her scheme.

They settled themselves comfortably at a secluded table, and he ordered a small feast with skill and anticipation.

She had been able to get a mere glimpse of him at the conference in her father's home, and she knew he had not seen her. Her intention to flirt with him died soon. His gray, fine eyes, clean-cut manly face in some way or other made it impossible for her to try such tactics.

The repast appeared, and as they disposed of it they chatted. She kept her eye on the clock, and saw the hands creep around the minutes to the moment when the express would bear her father away to the safety of a mighty city where one could lose himself as if in an unpeopled solitude.

He leaned back. "Hang it, I wish I knew where a certain chap is—"

"Do you?" she said mildly.

"You bet," he answered. "I'm a cub lawyer in the office of Mixer & Browne. A bunch of high flyers in finance wrecked a bank up country. President is a fine chap, and they got him in a bad fix, no fault of his, where they could jail him and grab his bank. He trusted 'em too much. Best thing about it is, one of them got sore at the rest, gave out the whole story, and Mixer telephoned me to rush down to the station and see if I could catch Harms, the president, who had tried to get away. Don't blame him a bit. Best thing he could have done. They traced him to the four o'clock train . . . why, what is the matter? Don't you—"

"You mean the truth has come out! That—that—you mean President Harms will not be prosecuted?" she gasped.

He stared at her. "Sure! One of the gang—but what it is—"

"He is my father," she said brokenly—and then told him the whole story.

As she finished, he leaned over and patted her hand. "This is a queer situation, but you played your last card in great shape, Miss Harms—and to be honest, I'm glad you did." His gray eyes were smiling and gentle. "Now, I suggest we send a telegram to his hotel—make him sleep better tonight, you know, and we'll go to the best show in town. What do you say?"

Thrilling with the sudden change of the dark clouds to silver, she tried to speak but failed, so she nodded; and he seemed to find the nod very satisfactory.

Mother of 7—Still Young

THE woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old.

Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down, or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.
