ROCKS BEING BLASTED OUT OF C. & D. CANAL

Several hundred tons of rock are being removed from the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, beneath the surface of the water at Bethel, about a mile north of Chesapeake City. Dynamite is being used to blast the rock loose, which projects from the side of the waterway out toward the channel so that it can be removed as it is a menace to navigation.

The diver on the job is Edward Bennet, of Port Penn. Bennet was formerly in the U. S. Navy on a submarine. He plants the dynamite for blasting which loosens the rocks. Derricks on the U. S. E. D. Derrick Barge No. 37 hoist the rock from the bed of the canal to barges and it is being transported from there to Reedy Point, the Delaware river entrance, where it is being placed back of the stone jetty.

Several boats, it is said, have had holes torn in their sides by projecting rock at this point, the water washing away the earth from around the rocks, leaving them exposed. There is 14 feet of water where the blasting is being done.

Government employees are also straightening out old markers and placing new markers in the canal this week, more clearly outlining the main channel of the waterway.

STRANGE CANDIDATE

Detroit News

A journalistic investigator the other day, interviewing candidates, ran across a distinct phenomenon. He found one who thinks he ought to be sent to Congress but who has no platform.

Never having been a member of Congress, this political oddity said he didn't feel qualified to lay down a program for the United States Government. He had a feeling that being a congressman is a tremendously big job and one a man ought to take very seriously.

"If I am elected," said he, "there is just one thing that I am determined to do: I am going to jerk off my coat and go to work and learn the business. I shall try as hard as I can to find what ought to be done and help to do it."

IMPRESSIONS OF MARYLAND

TO APPEAR IN SUNDAY SUN TOMORROW

Beginning with an article on Maryland generally, which will be published in the Sunday Sun of September 18, Henry M. Hyde, special writer for The Evening Sun and on the staff of The Sunpapers Washington Bureau, fill tour the state and record his impressions, which will be published each Sunday until the series has been completed.

Mr. Hyde, whose life has been spent in a type of writing peculiar to himself, came to The Sunpapers from correspondence for The Chicago Tribune back in 1919, and special articles for The Saturday Evening Post. Takington from the soil his love of nature, and broadened with the acres of his farm in Virginia, Mr. Hyde is peculiarly adapted to the pleasant assignment he has been given by the Sunday Sun.

On his journeys he will study every aspect of life in the counties he visits, and will overook no part of Mafyland however small, no human interest however remote from the boiling fever of city life and the noise of great population.

To Henry Hyde there is a story in the chirping of a cricket as in the turning of industry's wheels or the grind of legislative bodies in Washington. And he will concern himself with all the diversified interests of the people as he finds them, wherever they live, whatever their problems. And not least important will be his observations on the environs which make Maryand life, from the mountains of Western Maryland to the sands of the Eastern Shore.

Following the general article on Maryland to be printed Sunday, September 18, the state tour will take him through Western Maryand as far as Garrett and Washington Counties, including a view of the Middletown Valley from Braddock Heights, recalling the historic significance of it all from the Heights to Antietam. No definite schedule for the articles to follow has been announced, since the journey is a free lance, go-as-the-spirit-move affair, but no part of Maryland life will be overlooked.

HEALTH NOTES

WATCH YOUR STEP

"When you see what the 'Safety' compaigns in the schools have accomplished in reducing the number of fatal accidents among children of school age, you wish that something equally effective could be done to reduce the number of fatal accidents that occur in the older age groups," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said in commenting on the report recently issued by the National Safety Council, under the title, "Accodent Facts."

"The safety education program in the schools became national in scope about 1924. From 1922 to 1930—the latest year for which such comparisons are available—the general death rate for accident for people at all ages, increased 16 per cent. During the same period, th general rate for accidents for children from 5 to 14 decreased 11 per cent, and there is good reason to believe that a large part of this may be attributed to the habit of taking care, that is being developed among children by the safety drills.

"It is not surprising to find that the greatest increase in the deaths from fatal accidents at all ages has been due to automobile fatalities, but even here, the influence of the safety campaigns in the schools is noticeable. From 1922 to 1930, the rate doubled for auto accidents for persons at all ages; the rate for children from 5 to 14, increased only 4 per cent.

"Our records for Maryland for 1931 show that out of a total of 21,768 deaths from all causes, there were 1407 from accidents of some sort. Autombile accidents were responsible for 467 deaths; railroad accidents, 74; railroad and automobile collisions, 14; street car and auto accidents, 14; and other land transportatiin, accidental deaths were 15. Accidents due to machinery caused 19 deaths, water transportation, 3, and air transportation, 2. There were also 279 deaths from falls, 141 from drowning, 131 from crushing, 88 from burns, and 81 from excessive heat.

"Out of 99,300 deaths due to accidents in the United States in 1930, 18,166, or nearly one-fifth, were due to falls. Of this total, 13,009, almost three-fourths, occurred among people 55 to 75 years old or older; 7,709—42 per cent of the total—occurred among men and women 75 years old, or older.

"We have had much the same experience in Maryland as that reported by other States. Approxifately one death out of every five due to accidents was caused by a fall, either indoors or out-of-dors. Since the greater number of injuries, fatal and otherwise, of this sort occurred aming persons who have reached middle age, or who were older, it is apparent that the advice particularly needed by all in that age group is, 'Watch your step."

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.
At fifty, you can be in your prime.
Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?
There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.
This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.
Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.
