Women's Page

BY A WOMAN

We read a debate, the other day, between W. E. Woodward and Faith Baldwin, as to whether this world is a man's world or a women's world. Mr. Woodward trying to prove that the women have decidedly the best of it says in part. "If a man takes a woman out to dine, he, of course, is expected to foot the whole bill no matter how much she earns.

"The law still protects women in many ways. For example, when a man dies, his wife is entitled to one-third of his estate, no matter what happens. They may have been married for only a day and no longer living together. Nevertheless she gets one-third of his property. That's the law. Now, on the other hand, when a woman dies, her husband has no claim on anything that she possesses. She can will the whole thing away if she wants to. This gives a woman a distinct advantage." And he ends up by saying: "I would love to be a woman to be protected and cherished, but as a man, I have to do the thinking and hard work while she can take it easy and luxuriate."

Miss Baldwins retaliates thus: "While women are as capable as men yet they have to fill the smaller places with much less salaries, and are looked upon as encroaching on men's work.

"When men felt women were dependent upon them and needed their protection, they gave them their veneration and homage. When that dependence was taken away from them, they began to feel humiliated. It was all tied up with sex pride, you see. Hence the dropping of the mantle of chivalry and the resentment that men showed toward women. Hence the reason why women's freedom has come back at them like a boomerang.

"But there are other things which put women at a disadvantage and make this still a man's-world. Just take the matter of birthdays. Do men have to fear middle age the way women do? It's really the best time of their life. A man isn't thrown into a panic at the sight of a wrinkle or gray hair. He doesn't have to worry about the loss of his beauty or his figure. No matter what he looks like or how old he gets to be, he can still have his adventures. He'll always be able to get some woman to be his sweetie. Let a woman of his age try to go out with a younger man and the world thinks her silly. Her experience and years count against her. But with a man, they are in his favor.

"A man can go to a dance or to the theatre alone and no one thinks anything of it. But if a woman does it, every one naturally assumes she's a flop.

"When a man meets a girl the first time and wants to invite her out, it's perfectly proper for him to do so. Only a very daring girl, though, would ring a man up and say she'd like to see him again. And even she would have to be subtle about it. With all the rights the modern woman has, she still can't directly propose to a man. She can encourage him and lead him on. But after that she just has to spend sleepless nights hoping.

"Yes, there are lots of things men don't have to worry about that enable them to make an adventure of life. Women may no longer regard man as the lord of the universe, but they can't get away from the fact that man is and always will be Nature's pet!"

What do you thinks. "Is it a womans or a man's world."

TAKE CARE OF YOUR EYES

"Take care of your eyes," says a noted oculist, and when old age comes you may still be able to enjoy what is going on."

"In the first place give them muscular exercise by holding the head still and making them look right and left a number of times then look above you the same number of times.

Take a card turn edgewise and draw it slowly up to your nose then draw it slowly away your arms length bring it up to our eyes again slowly repeat this execise several times, try, too, to find a distant view and look at it for a little while. Also keep your eyes clean by bathing them often but being careful that the water or eye wash is entirely free from motes of any kind. By being careful your eyesight will last many years longer

LA MODE

Jumper Dresses For Girls Appeal

The jumper dress is one of the most engaging and practical of youthful fashions. For the very young they come with comfortable pleated skirts, the "jumper" part often made with little shoulder tucks that give a modified broad shoulder effect, exactly as in adult types.

Little dimity and batiste blouses, with a touch of handiwork, look fresh and adorable with them, especially with Peter Pan and Buster Brown collars.

Good For School

The suspender skirt, with a youthful blouse, is an excellent choice for the girl of junior high age or the boarding school girl. Then there are little frocks with short capelet sleeves worn over guimpes, with long, contrasting sleves, an especially good choice for the girl in the long and gangling age. Blue serge is very smart for the tots this year, and often is used in combination with Scotch plaid.

Flowers of Velvet Used as Garlands

Velvet flowers in garland and semi-effects are one of the accessories that will do much to vary and transform evening and dinner gowns. They are used as shoulder straps to widen the shoulder line. Sometimes they pose diagonally down the bodice.

For daytime dresses and suits small clusters of velvet flowers with nickel or gold motifs for centers, very stiff lookin, are a smart addition.

Scarfs Finger-Wide

Paris, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Finger-width scarfs are a novel accessory in fall sports wear. The new designs, which vary from one to two finger widths, are made of knitted wool to match a scarf, and are worn tied closely to the throat.

RECIPES

Cottage cheese lends itself especially well to salads, whether Frnch, mayonnaise or boiled drssing is used. The cheese may be formed into balls or siced. It may be molded in small cups or passed through a pastry tube. Lettuce is the favorite base or bed for a cottage cheese salad, but other crisp, fresh green salad materials can be used. You can make a salad that consists only of cottage cheese on lettuce, or you can add cottage cheese at the side of a plate of vegetable fruit or jellied salad.

A tempting hot weather luncheon plate consists of a cottage cheese salad, sprinkled wih paprika for color, a half slice of pineapple, potato chips, olives and a roll. With a beverage this is a sufficient lunch for most people, but if a dessert is desired any of the summer fruits would be good, or a fruit ice or sherbet.

Peach Dainty

1 quart sliced peaches
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter
1 pint whipping cream
A few grains salt

Crea m the sugar, butter and yolks together. Add the whipped cream and sliced peaches. Serve over angel or sponge cake.

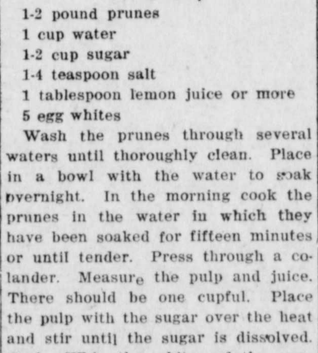

Prune Whip

1-2 pound prunes
1 cup water
1-2 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice or more
5 egg whites

Wash the prunes through several waters until thoroughly clean. Place in a bowl with the water to soak overnight. In the morning cook the prunes in the water in which they have been soaked for fifteen minutes or until tender. Press through a colander. Measure the pulp and juice. There should be one cupful. Place the pulp with the sugar over the heat and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Cool. Whip the whites of the eggs until very light.

Add the salt and the prune pulp in small quantities until all of it has been mixed with the whites of eggs, whipping always in the same way. Pile the mixture lightly in a greased baking dish surrouided by water and place in the oven. Bake at a temperature from 250 to 275 degrees, Fahrenheit, for 50 to 60 minutes. When baked at this low temperature for this length of time the pudding should not fall after cooling. Serve with custard sauce made from the yolks of the eggs.

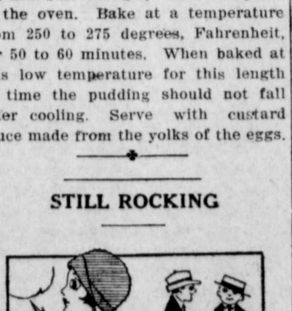

STILL ROCKING

"Before they were married, when he'd take her out rowing, he used to like to rock the boat."

"He's home rocking the cradle now."

TRULY A WONDER

"She's a wonderful woman."

"Yes, indeed. She can adapt her meals to extra inning ball games."
