GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT'S WESTERN TRIP A SUCCESS

"So Far, Very Good" is the caption of an editorial in the New York Times on Governor Roosevelt's Western trip. The editorial says:

"When Governor Roosevelt set out on his Western journey the Republicans piously hoped that somewhere he would stub his toe. The trip is not over, but there has been no toe-stubbing. On the contrary, the Democratic nominee has borne himself well. He has not promised too much, declaring plainly that recovery must be slow, but that he is determined to see, if given power, that improvement be spread over all the country. He has disappointed all who tried to picture him as a 'radical' and a man who would give pledges he knew he could not keep. In his contacts with Democratic leaders and other citizens, and his amiable exchanges with people in the crowds which have greeted him, the Governor has been singularly happy. . . .

"He has been asking questions, and undoubtedly he has been finding out a good deal about the thought and feeling of people west of the Hudson River."

Alleging that Governor Roosevelt's Western trip was taken against the advice of some of his counsellors, the Times adds:

"But he has a keen instinct in these matters and was certain that his travels would prove a political success. So far they appear to have been."

THE "URGE" TO WRITE

I feel an "urge" to write!
Now what shall it be?
A sonnet of love,
With blue skies above,
Or, a tale of destiny?

While contemplating,
And meditating
On what my subject shall be;
The "urge" disappears,
And brings one grave fears;
I'm only a "Nut", you see.

"COMMUNICATED"

Dear Editor:

We have read with joy of the delightful depression dresses made by our town country sisters for wearing by the school children. We have read with great interest, that the State College is reconizing this form of penny saving and is awarding high marks for the best dresses so made.

We have read with great sorrow that there are children in the county who do not have shoes for their feet and so are deprived of getting the education they might have even in the so-called "cheese box" in Chestertown. We are helping all we can by giving away every thing we can spare in the form of clothing, but the fine company repairing shoes in Chestertown certainly coaxes us to wear out all of the shoes we possess.

On the farms, we are using old clothes, old shoes, old flour sacks and feed sacks, old implements, old fashioned homemade bread and corn meal mush, in fact everything we can do, we are doing, to try to get enough cash ahead to pay taxes on everything we own. Is there not some way in which some farm brains could be used to prevent over crowding of the Chestertown High School Is there not some credit for the county, that no Banks have failed? Would not the folks able to buy the tax free bonds needed for the erection of the school, be those who are paying little if any taxes on the farms of the county?

Why not take a few lessons from the women making dresses from flour sacks, and make a few High Schools out of the buildings already erected and the rooms not now in use, Take a few hints from the farmers using five to ten year old cars, (and getting there too) and make the brains of the men in charge work on plans for using what we have at present, and get the tax rate down for the folks compelled to pay from 6 to 10 per cent. for the money that they must use in farming. It will not be a wise move to try to add more taxes now—but to try to reduce them.

There are some folks who know how to get along with very little, simply by using what they have around the place. But they are willing to think about what they have around the place and are not content to say "it can't be done."

We can't buy shoes for the unemployed and build new High Schools at the same time! We are asking the county to look in the scrap bags and attics and find clothing and shoes for the children of the unemployed men, as so few have the cash with which to purchase them from the Chestertown merchants who really need the business. So why not ask the county to look around and see how inexpensively two or three of the unused high school buildings can be put in shape to relieve Chestertown If the men cannot see how it can be done, why not ask their wives?

"A FARMER."

ATTENDS W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

Mrs. J. Leonard Price, Pres. Kent County W. C. T. U., Mrs. Edgar R. Pennington, Treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Sexsmith, Mrs. John Sutton, Mrs. James Archibald, Mrs. Robert D. Moore and Mrs. L. B. Harper, represented Kent County as delegates to the State Convention held in Baltimore at the First M. E. Church, September 28-30.

The alternates were Mrs. Elias Othoson, Mrs. John Boulden, Miss Ida Crewe, and Mrs. Fred G. Usilton.

The following clippings were contributed:

Meal Better Without Drink

"The 'traditional assumption' that alcohol stimulates digestion has been challenged by certain findings of the American Psychological Association," according to the Associated Press, given publicity September 10. Sudden stimulation of digestion followed quickly by prolonged interference was found by Dr. A. L. Winsor of Cornell University when he measured the flow of saliva after drinking. The above statement is said to be a reiteration of a preliminary finding given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science a few months ago. "It would appear from our results," says Dr. Winsor, "that the traditional assumption that alcohol stimulates digestion should be re-examined. Apparently the stimulating affect would characterize the influence of alcohol in the stomach, but, once it is absorbed into the blood, its action would retard digestion. In general, our results support the findings of other psychologists and physiologists who have shown that alcohol retards and inhibits, rather than stimulates, behavior. It should no longer be listed as a stimulant, but preferably as a narcotic or a depressant."

No Beer For Germany's Ex-Prince!

In the course of his recent visit to Chicago, Frederic Wilhelm, former prince of Germany, was entertained in the Bismarck Hotel, at a luncheon, "in honor of the former imperial princes of Prussia." Every course of the luncheon was accompanied by near beer, but the prince declined to partake, declaring, according to the press reports, that "The younger generation in Germany does not drink." He drinks neither beer nor any other liquor.

WHY SAVE?

Saving money just to have it is, of course, better than not saving at all, but the joy and satisfaction of saving money for a definite reason puts content and enthusiasm into our lives.

Here are some sensible reasons for putting money aside in a separate account where it will be ready when needed.

A few dollars saved each month may help take the "ax" out of taxes.

Insurance is a wonderful protection for the family in case life's plans are interrupted. Premiums are no hardship if they are saved in monthly installments.

Vacations are needed, but are much more pleasant if cash has been saved for the expenses.

The music of wedding bells may be much sweeter if the habit of saving has been cultivated.

Home, whether it be the humble vine-clad cottage or the more pretentious palace, is made possible by saving.

Yours for service,

Third National Bank of Chestertown
