DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President:
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
Governor of New York

For Vice-President:
JOHN N. GARNER
of Texas

For United States Senator
MILLARD E. TYDINGS
of Havre de Grace

For Congresman, First Congressional District
T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH of Denton, Md.

WITH THE ELECTION a little over one week off many predictions are being made as to the result. From all indications Mr. Roosevelt the Democratic canidate will be elected by a safe majority and that he will be supported by a Democratic Congress. Senator Tyding's re-election is practically assured as well as that of Congressman Goldsborough. Some enthusiastic Democrats go so far as to predict that Senator Tydings will carry the state over his opponent by 50,000 to 75,000 and that Congressman Goldsborough will beat Mr. Phoebus, his Republican opponent from 5,000 to 10,000 is this district. There are of course many late hour changes from one party to the other but it is hard to conceive that there can be enough changes to defeat the Democrats this year. People in many sections of the United States are desperate—cold and hunger confronts them and they naturally place the blame on the political party in power. Changes and counter changes are being hurled back and forth by the National political speakers while the people are listening and thinking of their under-nourished children and their cold and cheerless homes, and are going to vote, we belive, for what they think will improve their desperate condition.

IN THE advertisement of Mr. Phoebus published in this and other papers on the Eastern Shore, he stated that Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough opposed President Hoover's effort to secure a suspension of interest and principal for one year on farm mortgages held by Federal Land Banks and other financial agencies.

The fact is that against the opposition of Mr. Hoover and the Federal Farm Loan Board, Mr. Goldsborough, assisted by other Demcratic members, inserted in the bill an extension of payment on the above to five years instead of one year, thus giving the mortgagor four more years to pay his interest and principal than did Mr. Hoover.

The amendment made to the bill by Mr. Goldsborough and his Democratic associates is as follows:

"When in the judgment of the directors conditions justify it, to extend, in whole or in part, any obligation that may be or become unpaid under the terms of any mortgage, and to accept payment of any such obligation during a period of five years or less from the date of such extension in such amounts as may be agreed upon at the date of making such extension. The sum of $25,000,000 of the amount authorized to be appropriated under section 5 of this Act, as amended, shall be used exclusively for the purpose of supplying any bank with funds to use in its operations in place of any amounts of which such bank may be deprived by reason of extensions made as provided in this paragraph."

TURKEY CROP LARGE

The Government report on the 1932 Turkey Crop reveals an increase in the number of turkeys raised this year. While the crop in Kent is rated at about that of last year, the State as a whole, shows an 8 per cent increase. The United States as a whole shows 13.1 per cent. increase.

The cold storage situation is a big help since the turkeys in storage now, by weight, amount to but 77 per cent. as much as last year and but 55 per cent as much as the five(5) year average.

The turkey census shows about eighteen million birds for over one hundred twenty (120) million people.

Price prospects are not bright yet the New York quotations thus far indicate that they are about the same as last year. Wholesale prices in New York show a range of 20 to 25 cents per pound for best young toms and 21 to 26 cents for best young hens, while cold storage turkeys are 2 to 3 cents per pound lower. Naturally the young birds now going to market lack the quality and finish of those to be sold for Thankskgiving and Christmas markets, which accounts for the seemingly low prices. Some people are selling large young toms so as not to have them oversize for the later markets.

ANDELOT CALVES SELL WELL

At the Baltimore Livestock Show last week, four registered Aberdeen Angus heifer calves from Andelot Stock Farm at Worton, sold well, averaging one hundred dollars ($100) each, which speaks well for the quality of these calves. The sale of purebred breeding stock was held Friday. Sale of fat stock and feeders was on Thursday. Marylanders were much pleased to have a Maryland Steer win the Grand Championship of the Fat Stock Show. The grand champion steer was raised at Foxhill Farms, Fallston, Harford County from Aberdeen Angus breeding stock similar to that now at the Andelot Stock Farms. The Foxhill Farm also won the champion pen of three Steers prize which again speaks volumes for the quality of seedstock they purchased. The feeder of these steers was a beginner at the game. He did a splendid job.

Mr. William Reed, Herdsman at Andelot "dresed" the Foxhill Steers and showed them to the top places. Bill is a real artist in fixing animals for show also a master showman. The steers when groomed and "marcelled" were beauties in every sense of the word. Next year Bill will make all the showman step some to keep him and Kent County Steers from high rank at the Baltimore Livestock Show.

WINTER STORAGE OF DAHLIA TUBERS

By W. R. Dallard Extension Horticulturist

Frost will soon bring to a close the gorgeous display of the Dahlia garden. Then will come the problem of digging and storing the tubers for the winter. The usual procedure for doing this is to cut the tops off within a few inches of the ground although in those sections where freezing will not occur for sometime yet growers may leave the tubers in the ground for one or more weeks to mature. Labels should be removed from the stake and fastened to the stalk, preferably through the stem.

The best way to dig tubers is to have two spading forks on opposite sides of the clump. These are pushed deep beneath it after the soil has been loosned. Then, if both forks are lifted at the same time the clumps should come up without breaking the slender necks of the tubers. If the soil is not heavy wet clay it may be left around the roots and stored with it although about the most satisfactory method is to shake off all soil from around the rots, dry the clumps well, and cover for a short period. They should then be packed in a cool, dry place, in clean sand. This will keep the tubers from shriveling and if moisture should reach they will not be so susceptible to rot.

Clumps should be handled carefully. It is particularly important not to break the slender neck of the tuber as this injures the connection between the tuber and the eyes, which are clustered about the base of the stem. There are no eyes on the itself as in the sweet potato.

TOMATO SEED OF HIGH QUALITY AVAILABLE TO CANNERS AND GROWERS OF MARYLAND

More than nine hundred pounds of tomato seed of the Marglobe variety was produced and saved this season by the Tri-State Packer's Association and will be available for distribution for next season's tomato crop to member canners and growers in the Tri-State territory of Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. The seed saving operation, has been conducted this season under the very strictest regulations established by the Maryland Certification Board and the seed so passed will be sold by the Association under the certification seal. This work was conducted under the joint supervision of H. A. Hunter and Thomas D. Holder, Canning Crop Specialists for the University of Maryland Extension service.

This particular variety of seed is being propagated exclusively by the Association as "certified seed" as there has been a constantly increasing demand on the part of Maryland growers and canners for tomato seed of high quality. Certified tomato seed, produced according to regulations of the State organization, insures a product of high quality, true to name variety and of stock of known origin. Plant beds and seed fields, in which the Marglobe has been grown, are carefully inspected during the growing season and close supervision is given during the entire seed saving operation. Stock seed for growing the commercial acreage is produced at the Maryland Experimental sub-station at Ridgely, Caroline County.

The object of the Association has been to supply high quality seed of an adaptable variety, that will give the largest yields of high quality stock to the tomato growers of the State.
