HAS YOUR CAR BEEN INSPECTED

NOVEMBER 30TH DEADLINE—POLICE MAY FORE INSPECTION

If motorists continue to delay having their automobiles inspected, it will be necessary to order the State Police to take all cars not displaying a sticker of approval to the nearest official inspection station for an examination, E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of motor vehicles said yesterday.

"To date there are 332,140 motor vehicles registered in Maryland," the Commissioner explained. "Although the Save-A-Life Campaign has been in progress a week, only 500 motorists have had their cars approved. Our records should show 50,000 machines had been inspected during that period.

"There are now 331,640 motor vehicles to be examined by November 30. What will happen No doubt 300,000 motorists will delay performing this duty until the last week or two in November.

"Then there will be a rush to comply with the law. This will result in serious inconvenience to the motorists. There are now over 1,100 official inspection stations, but even these will not suffice to handle the last-minute rush.

"Safety is not yet riding upon our highways. Its tangible evidence in the form of approval stickers has not yet appeared. The department says 'please,' but the law says 'must.'

"It is one of the major duties of this department to remove from the roads all menaces to life and limb, one of which is cars with defective equipment.

"We have asked the motorists' cooperation. If they are slow to respond they will force us to require them to do what they should do of their own accord.

"Therefore, it will not be good sportsmanship to complain if they are stopped and inconvenienced by a State Trooper for not displaying a sticker."

The Junior Class is glad to welcome Doris Thrift from Oxford. Doris plays field ball and she has already been out to practice. We're sure that she will prove a welcome addition to C. H. S.

Miss Kersey reports that the Freshmen girls are finishing their sewing very quickly, although some are still struggling over button-holes. The 9th grades are completing their interior decoration unit. The room made by Opal Perry and that of Freida Dorf, Betty Coleman, Eleanor Barwick and Jessie Brooks deserve special mention. The 9A section has started their cooking course by cleaning the kitchen. They will take up lunches this year, starting with soup. The Juniors are much amused by their rawings of human figures as influenced by clothes. Block printing is revealing some artists in the 11th grade. There is a new book on Home Economics.

On Thursday the Easton field ball team traveled here with their coach, Miss Edith Rees, to meet defeat. The local girls are much cheered by this victory as Easton has defeated some of the strongest teams on the Shore.

The return games with Galena were played on Friday. Our Junior field-ball team lost 12 to 4. The defeat didn't discourage them, however, and they expect to make a better showing next time. The soccer team lost their game by a 6 to 0 score. Several injuries resulted from this game.

The two field ball teams will play Rock Hall at Rock Hall, Wednesday, November 2. We hope our Senior team will remain in the race for the State Championship.

October meetings. The 10A Club met on Thursday the 27th. The program after the business meeting was as follows:

Fourteen-Foot Tusk

What is believed to be the largest tusk of a hairy mammoth ever discovered by modern man has been presented to the natural history division of the British museum in London. The tusk is nearly 14 feet in length and is in a good state of preservation. It was found in a remote spot in northern Siberia, and given to the department of geology of the natural history division of the museum.

Musical Conducting

Wagner founded modern conducting, writes Richard Capell in the London Daily Mail. He wrote a little book on the subject which is nearly all a raging denunciation of bad conductors, but which lays down two principles: The conductor's business is (1) to establish the right tempo and (2) to bring out the melody. He also said, "I do not beat the time, for that would make for a stiff performance—I describe it in the air." These sayings really embrace almost the whole matter.

Olympic Winners Honored

While the present-day Olympic games are modeled after the ancient Greek games, there are important differences. The Greek games were really religious festivals, dedicated to Zeus, being manifestations of physical perfection, which the Greeks considered godlike. Therefore, winners of the games became national heroes, their praises were sung by the greatest poets, statues were erected to perpetuate their memory and, in Athens, they were pensioned for life.

Going "Scot Free"

"Scot" is a very old legal term embracing tolls, or taxes, or assessments, and a man was said to pay his scot just as today we would speak of a man paying his rates. Anyone not called upon to pay a certain toll or tax was therefore spoken of as being scot free. The sense of this old term has gradually expanded so that now it is applied to the man who avoids any payment or penalty, whatever its nature.

Salt's Effect on Stone

Solid stone is apt to play strange tricks. Extremely rapid decay occurred in the stonework of a war memorial. No one knew why until it was discovered that the memorial had been erected by a local mason, who conceived the idea of lowering a particularly heavy stone into position by supporting it on blocks of salt which were then gradually dissolved with water. The resulting decay was serious enough to cause the memorial to be dismantled within a year or two, and certain of the blocks replaced with new stone.

Honey in Biblical Times

How useful as an article of food honey was in olden times before sugar had been discovered, and honey was practically the only sweetening thing easily available, we can hardly imagine in these luxurious days. A bit of honeycomb was the greatest delicacy most houses could afford in our Savior's time, and it was what was timidly but gladly brought forth when the Risen Lord wanted to give proof that His Resurrection Body could eat, as could a natural body. "And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish and of an honeycomb. And he took it and did eat before them" (Luke 24:42, 43). So were the disciples taught that he who had died and was now alive again, and afterwards ascended into Heaven, still retained his mortal body which had been born of the Virgin Mary.—Montreal Family Herald.

JOHNNYMORGAN ON THE JOB

Proud Suburban Lady: "You know my husband plays the organ."

Depressed Acquaintance: "Well, if things don't improve, my husband will have to get one, too."

SHOPPING JEFFERSONS

You know, ladies, I feel urged to ask a leading and somewhat tactless question. How many of you look yourselves over in a full length mirror after you're all set and ready to go gadding? Moreover, how many of you bother to take a good look from several angles? Oh, well, don't bother to answer. I know anyway. Those who DO, show it, and alas, those who DON'T, golly, how THEY show it!

But be stout-hearted, girls. Let's pull you all to pieces and put you together again RIGHT. First, and before you put a stitch on, stand up straight, put your chin up and pull in your tummy! Having begun well, next see to the foundation you wear. You MUST be modern in this or all is lost. Long lines, flat back and front and never, NEVER armored in steel.

Now comes the first trap for the unwary to tumble into. You simply can't look 1932 with the wrong undies, or too many of them. Bias cut, and scanty, not an inch of superfluous material. And here's a snag to watch. Shoulder straps! For mercy sake don't have more than two, match their colors, and, but wait, need I mention they must always, ALWAYS be immaculate!

Having fitted your undies and dispensed with any tendency toward red flannels, look at your legs. And I MEAN legs. If they're good, and you admit they are, wear anything you like on 'em. If you don't think they add to the joy of nations, then wear the clearest, dullest, smoothest stockings you can find, and in colors to tone in with your dresses. As for shoes, the hall mark of the smart perfectly dressed woman is her foot gear. DON'T be cheap there. Incidentally, do you know your heels? Built up, solid leather heels for sport and street, not higher than Cuban-Covered wooden heels, high as you like for dress.

Thus endeth the well-dressed woman's first lesson. And below I list the "makings" from Jefferson's.

Vanity Fair Briefs and Panties—$1.00.

Bias Cut Crepe Slips—$1.95.

Clear Fine Silk Hose—79c and $1.00.

Suede and Alligator Oxford—$7.50.
