BY A WOMAN

Chestertown is built on a part of an original grant to the Wilmers' who lived at the White House, the house that is now owned by Dr. Sprankle, while his miller a Mr. Palmer, lived at the Rock of Ages, one of the oldest houses here. There were other grants, one, given to the Ringgolds which embraced the Bell farm and the Barroll poperty, and the Hanson grant, which was Radcliffe now owned by Mr. Leon Brown, and Radcliffe Hall now belonging at the present time to Mr. William Collins, the Country Club being built on part of it. My friend tells me that she remembers the country places around were occupied by their owners, and how extensively they entertained. The White House then was the property of Mr. William Walker. He was a most generous host and his wife, a noted house wife as well as a lovely refined lady, delighted to provide the festive board with good things, and the table used to groan under the weight of their abundant hospitality. Then there was Riverside, the home of Col. Wilkins a statesman, who was a successful grower of different fruits which were noted far and wide. Part of his large estate is now Mr. Edward Wilkins and his sisters, part Piney Grove, the present home of Mr. Edward Emory and sisters, while Riverside belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hines. Foxly Hall was then the home of Mr. Simon Wickes and they, too, delighted to extend hospitality to their friends.

Many who have studied the map of old Chestertown say that the Fleming House is the oldest building here, and that the Rectory, now the home of Dr. Hughes is the second oldest. The old English Church, erected as a Chapel of Ease to I. U. Church was built in the early days of the town. It was a tall colonial structure with a gallery running around and two tiers of windows. The tower resembled somewhat the tower on the Independence Hall in Philadlphia, while the bell, then the only one in town, rang out in solemn and festive occasions. It was in this old church in 1780 that Wm. Smith called a convention to change the name of the Church of England to the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, and delegates from the thirteen colonies attended.

Those, who remembered the church with its high pews and doors to shut the occupants in, say that when there was talk of heating the church with stoves some thought it was sacrilege and said they would not attend the services, though they felt it no harm to bring their foot warmers with them.

Sometimes the church was in bad repair and one old lady, who sat in the Amen seats, would raise her umbrella there lest a drop of rain might fall on her.

The Methodist Episcopal Church occupied the building in the town square where now Dr. Hughes and Mr. J. D. Urie have offices and the home of the C. & P. Telephone Co., and various fraternal societies. Prominent among the members was Mr. T. W. Eliason grandfather of the present holder of that name and another was Senator Vickers, and still not here was Mr. James Brice. It ws after Miss Tempy Bradshaw left the lot where the church now stands that new two story church was built which has been altered recently and is considered one of the handsomest on the shore.

The Methodist Protestant Church had its beginning in a small chapel on Queen St., but when my friend remembers it, it was on Cross St., which is now occupied by the Enterprise. It was moved uptown soon after the New M. E. Church was finished. At that time the M. E. Church had a cross on its spire while the M. P. had a crown. And so one improvement after another was added and the town improved and grew apace, though in spite of the many added streets and the many new buildings, the population is the same as it was years ago.

"Depression Flower" Becomes Social Fad

St. Louis (U.P.).—The "depression flower" is the latest social fad here, though it may not be found in any floral shop.

To make this flower, put a small piece of coal or coke in a bowl. Over this pour six tablespoons of water, six tablespoons of salt, three tablespoons of bluing and two or three drops of mercurochrome.

Soon a flower having all the tints of red and blue will begin to take shape. It will resemble colored moss or a rose.

"The reaction is simply that of the salt and water," according to H. E. Weidermann, St. Louis chemist, who "invented" the flower.

LA MODE

Celluloid Collars And Cuffs Worn

For traveling the artistically cut collar and cuff set of isinglass or grained celluloid is not only highly practical, but smart looking as well. It is often printed in a fabric design so that from a distance there is no telling the difference between it and a real cloth one.

When it gets covered with cinders—collar and cuffs—just take the wash cloth to it along with your face and hands and the damage is repaired in less time than it takes to tell it.

Low Heels, Round Toes Mark Shoes

Paris, Nov. 26 (A.P.).—Shoes have taken on new lines this fall. Many of the newest models are designed with slightly lower heels and toes having a more rounded line than formerly.

The newest models, instead of being cut low in sandal fashion, are also built higher about the ankles.

Bangs In Paris

Bangs are finding favor among the Paris hairdressers now and among the smartest Paisienues also. Not little curls, but just straight bangs, usually on one side of the forehead.

Wool and Silver

Among the winter materials which London is adopting is black wool threaded with little snitches of silver. The combination is a beautiful one, very rich and glinty, but not showy. An ensemble in black wool and silver for tea time or some such occasion is pretty nice.

RECIPES

Chees Savories

6 slices cooked ham
2-3 cup grated cheese
1-2 cup butter
12 rounds bread

For each savory, dip a round of bread in melted butter and then in grated cheese. Place plain side down in a buttered pan. Place a slice of ham on top of it. Prepare another round of bread in the same way and place it on the first with the plain side up. Brush the top with melted butter and bake in a hot oven until delicately browned, usually about ten minutes. Tomato sauce may be poured over these if desired.

When the days are cool, a pot-roast seems just right!

This may be explained by the fact that a pot-roast with a generous amount of gravy is one of the most savory dishes that we have. It appeals to the appetite in such a way as to produce a stimulating effect and when served steaming hot seems to counteract the chilliness of the outdoor air.

Here is a recipe for a flavorsome pot-roast. It is suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Savory Pot-Roast

4 pounds beef chuck
2 onions, sliced
1 clove garlic, sliced
1-2 cup raisins
2 bay-leaves
1 cup boiling water
Salt
Pepper

Brown the onions and garlic in a little suet. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper and brown on all sides. Add raisins, bay-leaves and boiling water. Cover tightly and simmer two hours or until meat is tender. Add more liquid, if necessary. Remove meat from kettle, strain, and measure liquid. To each cup of liquid add 2 table spoons flour smoothed in cold water. Cook until thickened, stirring cnstantly. Serve gravy with meat.

Mince Meat

Mrs. Ward's recipe follows:

1 pounds of beef
1 pound of suet
2 pounds of apples
1 pound of sugar
1 nutmeg grated
1-8 ounce of cloves
1-4 ounce of cinnamon
1-8 ounce of mace
1 pound of currants
2 pounds of raisins
12 pound of citron
1 teaspoon of salt, level measure
1 lemon
1 orange

Simmer the meat until tender, and when cold chop fine, chop suet and apples. Mix the dry ingredients, then add the juice of the orange and lemon, also the grated rinds if liked. Make pie crust as usual, and bake with an upper and lower crust.
