MAY OUR WISH of health and happiness to our friends on the New Year extend throughout 1933.

IT IS VERY gratifying to find the interest manifested in Chestertown's public square this week following a proposal that the new post office be built on that location. The protest against the use of the public square is almost universal, although some favor that location rather than have the postoffice built in some undesirable place or have the appropriation given to some other town. Petitions have been circulated opposing the park location and have a large number of signers. There has been no official action taken on this location as the site has not been submitted to the government nor has the government asked for it. The action taken todate has been merely street and fireside discussion. Unless the government's specifications are greatly altered as to size and price there is no available convenient business location for the post office. The present site seems to have preference over all others but it is out of the question as the government will not buy and alter a building. Noland's store is very popular among the business interests but will require considerable alterations in specifications. What ever may be the out come, the protests against the park location are many and sincere. It is hoped that this interest in the public square will in some way bring about an improvement in the appearance of it.

(COMMUNICATED)

There is much discussion as to the best place for the new post office.

As we are to have a new and beautiful building erected in our town, let us place it where it will adorn and beautify the town as well as be convenient to all of our citizens.

The site of the Old Rockwell House or the Bibbs hotel seem the best places. I feel that no one who loves Chestertown would be willing to see our town square built up. This spot of green grass and beautiful shade trees is a source of pride and pleasure to all those who worked to make the park as lovely as we find it.

The town square is the distinguishing feature of Chestertown. Let all those who love the old town see that no building is placed upon it. Many years ago an old armory stood upon the square immediately opposite the Episcopal church; on the ground floor of the building, meat shops were conducted. Finally the building became unsafe and was torn down to the great relief of all of our good citizens who had sufficent vision to foresee the possibilities of this open space. For many years, however, nothing was done to render the place attractive and finally our Improvement Association took hold of the place seriously and by much hard work the low places were filled in and graded and with the walks, trees and fountain it became a beauty spot. The square is decidedly the most altractive place in Chestertown. It is a heritage to all genrations to come, to hold and enjoy. A place to be preserved and not to be destroyed by the erection of a post office or any other building.

(From one who has worked hard to create this beauty spot.)
