WEDDING NOTES

Mrs. Frank Cranor, of Chestertown, announced this week the marriage of her sister, Jean Whitney, to Mr. Christopher H. Clemens, on Tuesday the tenth of January nineteen hundred and thirty-two at St. Mary's Church, Norwich, Connecticut.

The bride was a resident of Kent County about six years ago at which time she made her home for two years with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cranor in Quaker Neck. At the time of her marriage she was a nurse at Norwich. The bride and groom will reside in that city.

DIET AND THE TEETH

"It has been conclusively shown that diet is an extremely important factor in the building of strong teeth and in increasing their resistance to that destroyer of the teeth—tooth decay," Dr. Richard C. Lenard, Chief of the Division of Oral Hygiene, of the Maryland State Department of Health, said recently.

"Because the needs of individuals vary greatly, it is not possible to specify a particular diet that can be regarded as an absolute guarantee of strong teeth and of freedom from decay for each individual, but it is possible to outline a diet that ordinarily will serve this purpose. For dietetic advice to meet individual needs, it is necessary to consult your own doctor or dentist.

"The strength of the teeth is maintained by certain mineral salts, notably calcium and phosphorus, plus the activity of certain vitamins, all of them derived from the foods we eat. Calcium is to be found in adequate amounts in certain foods, especially in milk, in other dairy products, and in the green, leafy vegetables, such as spinach, lettuce, dandelion greens, etc. Phosphorus is found in many foods, among them, lean beef, liver, chocolate, cocoa, egg yolk, nuts and cheese.

"Vitamins A. C and D all play a part in mouth health, in increasing the resistance to disease and in strengthening the structure of the teeth. Vitamins A and C are found in dairy products, in fresh vegetables, peas, carrots, raw cabbage, etc. Vitamin D is found in milk, in cod liver oil, in butter, in whole wheat products and in certain meats. An adequate supply of vitamin D, however, is probably not to be had for the growing child without the administration of cod liver oil. Such administration should always follow specific advice from your own doctor.

'THE MATCH KING'

NEW LYCEUM TO PRESENT FILM JANUARY 18 AND 19

Immediately upon the heels of the most amazing international financial swindle in modern business history comes First National's dramatic picture, "The Match King," paralleling in screen drama the astonishing story of one man's skillful manipulation of matches into a colossal bubble that broke only when general business depression revealed the crookedness of the financial machinations. Seldom has the screen offered a more dramatic subject than "The Match King," played by Warren William, and never has an actor had a "fatter" part than the title role. Out of this real life world-catastrophe, Author Thorvaldson and Adapters Houston Branch and Sidney Sutherland have concocted an intenscely dramatic screen play.

"The Match King," is the story of a man whose power and ambition raised him from a Chicago street-sweeper to a world financial power atop a pyramid of credit, built on the ruins of other lives. It is the tale of a financial Juggernaut which once started could not be stopped until it brought the financial world crashing down about tis creator's ears. It is the story of a man who was as ruthless in love as in finance but who learned, to his sorrow that a reckoning was inevitable in either.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear wife, Margaret F. Money, who was called home one year ago today, January 13, 1932.

I think of her smile in spite of her pain,
It radiated sunshine when all seemed as vain
She thought just of others herself least of all,
Her real spirit shall linger until life's last call.

You say she is dead! that she is not here
Oh no! In my heart she is just as near
And never the sunshine she made for all
Can fade from my life though deep shadows fall.
Sadly missed by her husband,
AUGUST MONEY.
