HAPPENINGS ON THE SHORE

CECIL COUNTY

A new wharf will be constructed at once by the Government at Chesapeake City as one of the many improvements planned there. The anchorage basin for the use of small crafts has been dredged to about 14 feet and now a public wharf will be constructed from Rees' wharf to the property line of Mr. Rees, a distance of about 300 feet. There will be a fifty foot roadway behind the bulkhead. Further basin plans call for the covering of about 20 acres of marsh land by water in addition to a fish pond above the new concrete bridge on the road to Bethel.

Indications are that with the necessary appropriations, the canal will be deepened to 30 feet but the question as to the method remains in doubt. Investigations are now in progress as to the cost of widening and deepening as again building locks at Chesapeake and Delaware City.

Residents of Ceciliton, who have been terrorized during the past three months by a firebug, received another scare on Wednesday, when an attempt was made to burn the Community Church House, in that town, valued at more than $15,000. The attempt was discovered late Wednesday afternoon by the janitor who saw small wisps of smoke emanating from the basement. He investigated and found a large bundle of rubbish which had been fastened to a post in the cellar. In the interior of the bundle a piece of motion picture film had been placed and set afire. The rubbish failed to ignite properly but was still smoldering when the janitor discovered the attempt.

CAROLINE COUNTY

Mr. Herbert Hammond, a popular farmer near Ridgely, had both jaw bones broken early last Saturday morning, being kicked by a vicious mule. Mr. Hammond, when entering the stable, spoke to the mule to move over, after which he entered without light to guide the way. He was first kicked on the knee, the force of the blow knocking Mr. Hammond backward. The vicious animal again kicked striking Mr. Hammond in the lower part of the face, breaking both jaw bones, one in two places. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital after medical attention had been rendered by Dr. Paul E. Knotts, Denton. He has returned to his home, and is suffering much pain from the severe accident.

DOWN IN WORCESTER

Farmers of Wicomico and Worcester Counties are being called to arms by the Department of Agriculture to join the fight against the European corn borer.

The two counties are the only ones in Maryland where the pest has been found and the infestation there has not been serious enough to cause monetary loss, the department says.

Experts of the department who have studied the corn borer since its invasion of Eastern United States urge farmers to dispose of every cornstalk on their farms during the winter, either by burning or plowing them under.

Unless the stalks are disposed of the experts say, the borer will live through the winter in caterpillar form in the stalks.

The introduction of the corn borer to Maryland's Eastern Shore presents something of a puzzle to experts of the department. Though it spread down the New Jersey coast, county by county, it was apparently checked at the Delaware River, and no trace of it has been found in Delaware.

Last winter, however, some lima beans were found infested with the borer in New York and were traced to farms in the Wicomico-Worcester

SOMERSET OYSTERMEN PROTEST

Because of the threatened invasion of Chesapeake waters by Japanese oysters, a movement is soon to be launched here and in other oyster centers in the tide-water counties for their exclusion.

Terming the importation of the Japanese bivavle a new "yellow peril," the war for the protection of the American variety is to be carried on vigorously.

The Oriental species is said to be a fast and large growing oyster, which hybridizes easily, and it is claimed that if turned loose in Chesapeake waters it would soon eliminate the native product.

Legislation has been advocated for the exclusion forever from American waters of the Japanese oysters.

SHOPPING JEFFERSON'S

Well, old dears, and others, what a nice comfy feeling slithers up my arm as I take the old pencil in hand to get up a thrill or two about our good old specialties, Jefferson's dresses, gifts and gadgets being satisfactorily disposed of, we can now slip back comfortably into the pleasant selfishness or thinking how swell we'd look in new upholstery.

And it's frightfully easy to feel grasping when you glance over these new frocks that have just come breezing in. Very fresh and crisp are these gay little prints and absolutely too perfect for between season wear. Nice under winter coats now and swell by themselves later in the Spring. There is one printed in little Indian arrowheads. in bright, scarlet with cunning fluted white collar scarf and cuffs that's a darling. And there's a pert little piece in brown silk crepe printed in white with steel buttons down the prim little front and a little round white pique collar that's copied straight out of the family album.

Another nifty little trick is a gay red and white print with puffy elbow sleeves and a criss cross bow in front. It's in the window so be sure to take it in. Beside it, also in the window is a stunning matron's dress in black crepe with grand slenderizing rows of fagating. This type of gown is what a friendly duchess would wear and, what I mean, ladies, you're as good as a duchess, any day, aren't you?

Heavens! Is this the bottom of the page coming and the printer howling for copy? Oh, gosh, anyway go in and do some snooping on your own account. What better way to pass a January afternoon?

Wait, wait! I forgot the hat sale! The very snootiest, smoothest of the winter hats, priced at $5 are on sale at $2.95. And the others are all to go for one lonely little dollar each. Be smart, girls and lift a couple.

HOP OUT OF BED "RARIN TO GO"

If you have lost your pep, feel tired all the time, and hate to get up in the morning, don't take a dose of salts, mineral oil or laxative and expect it to pep you up and make you young again, because it won't do it.

Your glands regulate your health, and the vital organs must be supplied with the all-important glandular hormones. The liver, the largest gland in the body, should pour two pounds of bile into the bowels daily to make your food digest and to keep you regular.

Glandular deficiency causes too much fat, or too little of it, gray hair or baldness, lack of pep, pre-mature old age and death. Yerbavida, Nature's "Plant of Life," has been found to be a powerful gland normalizer. Glands that have ceased to function are estimulated into renewed activity, constructive metabolism is again brought about, renewing both body and mind.

Yerbavida is produced from plants growing wild on the American desert. It contains no drugs of any kind. In fact, no ingredients of any nature have been added to it. When brewed into a tea according to instructions, it becomes a delicious satisfying beverage which has been found to accomplish wonders in cases of glandular troubles and also poisonous acidity.

G. M. B., of Los Angeles, California, writes: "From the very first day of using Yerbavida I felt an increase in vitality, and in a few days all signs of indigestion with which I had been suffering for years had disappeared. But the greatest benefit of all is that I am no longer constipated, for which I am more grateful than I can tell, as I have had to resort to every kind and sort of pill and cathartic for years and have never received permanent relief from anything."

Yerbavida is not a laxative, but greatly assists nature in overcoming constipation.

A large package, enough for 240 cups, can be obtained for only $1.00 If your local druggist cannot supply you, accept no subsitute but send $1.00 direct to Yerbavida Sales Co. 612 Southwest Bldg. Los Angeles, Calif.
