WOMAN

O Woman! in our hour of ease,
Uncertain, coy and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By light quivering aspen made,
When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou.

Scott.

It is so about women, they may be petted spoiled, but when adversity comes then they rise up and show what is in them.

In this depression, they have shown courage and cheerfulness and, perhaps have been going without things much to the sorrow of the tradesmen, who have their wares to sell.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt

Mrs. Roosevelt promises to be her husband right hand. She seems to be putting away expensive formality and trying to live the simple life.

She was educated in Paris, a fact that she deplores as she says that Americans should be educated in their own land. She and her husband converse very often in French as he, too, knows several languages and speaks them fluently.

Mrs. Roosevelt is full of activity and personality, and generally becomes the centre of a crowd where ever she is. She has a very attractive way of talking. We have been listening in for sometime to her weekly talks over the radio for which she received over $3000. This sum she gave to relieve the distress among the poor artists and musicians who have no employment now. She certainly is blessed with a low sweet voice. One of our poet says "A low sweet voice an excellent thing in Women."

Miss Frances Perkins

She has been chosen as the Secretary of Labor, quite a responsible task. She is described as being a very brainy capable woman. Of course the labor men do not like the idea of having a woman to plan for them. Men do not like petticoat government though many have to submit to it.

A story is told of two men who started out with twelve chickens and two horses, one gray and the other sorrel. The chickens were to be given to the men whose wives were boss, and the horses to those who were boss themselves. At the first door, the man who met them said he was boss, and then they asked him which horse he would take. He choose the sorrel, but then, said, "Wait a minute," and went in to talk with his wife. When he came out again, he said he had decided to take the gray. "O, no, said the two men, we will leave you a chicken." After the day was done the two men returned home with two horses and no chickens.

Senator Hattie Caraway

Another interesting woman character is our only femnine senator, Mrs. Caraway.

She was the wife of the late Thad Caraway, for a long time senator from Arkansas, when he suddenly died, she was urged to succeed him.

As the wife of a senator she had always been shy and retiring, content that her husband should win the honors. Now that she has taken his place, she shows that she is a competent legislator. She comes to the Capitol at eight o'clock A. M. and spends a busy day either in her office or committee rooms until the Senate meets and then she is present to vote on any subject offered by that body. She wears her honors well, and it is likely that she will accomplish as much as her husband did. A slight brown eyed woman with dark hair parted in the middle, she is seemingly unconscious of the many eyes that are turned to look at the only woman senator.

LA MODE

Prints Are Important

I have already written that there are about fifteen natural shades for each real color in the Spring textile collections. Meyer's new naturals run all the way from creamy a nd chalky off-whites to a soft grayed brown, passing through innumerable variations of gray and beige. These are, it appears, all the shades that may be produced by undyed angora wool.

Wrist Garlands

Some very smart women are wearing a little wristlet of flowers with a small bow and very long ends—on the left wrist—with formal evening gowns. The wristlet may be of real flowers or of velvet, and the flowers may be a great many tiny ones, such as forget-me-nots, or two or three walloping big roses.

Velvets

We Can't Give Up velvet and so it is present in a thin, supple weave for spring frocks. This weave in black is used for a lovely evening frock cut on long, slim lines. At the base of the deep V neckline in black is a bow lined with starched chiffon in pink, the edges turned back to show the color. There is a similar bow in front.

At last we have uncrushable velvet and it is all that it ought to be. It is used for a grand little jacket in soft gray with a V neckline that ends in a loosely tied scarf and a border of gray fox.

Back in the news is the print frock being shown now for wear under winter coats. A most youthful model in blue and white starched chiffon that is detachable.

RECIPES

Noodle and Tuna-Fish Scallop

1 6-Ounce Package Broad Noodles
1 1-2 Cupfuls Tuna Fish, Broken in Pieces.
1-8 Teaspoonful Paprika.
1-2 Cupful Buttered Bread Crumbs.
2 Cupfuls White Sauce.

Boil the noodles for 9 minutes in 4 quarts of rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoonful of salt has been added. Drain. In a well-greased baking dish, 7 inches in diameter and 3 inches deep, place alternate layers of noodles, tuna fish, and white sauce, and repeat until all the ingredients are used up. Cover with the buttered bread crumbs, sprinkle with the paprika, and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Macaroni may be substituted for the noodles.

HAPPENINGS ON THE PENINSULA

WORCESTER COUNTY

Charges of assault with intent to kill may be preferred against Kate Davis, 30, and her sister, Narcissus Davis, 18, in Worcester county, who were arrested at Snow Hill after an attack on John Ellis, 58 year old cobbler of Snow Hill.

Ellis lies near death at the Peninsula General Hospital here, suffering from a skull fracture at the base of his brain, a broken collarbone, dislocated shoulder and other injuries.

Should he die as a result of his injuries, Worcester county officials said that murder charges would be placed against the sisters who are being held without bond in jail at Snow Hill.

The two women had recently been sentenced to ten days on drunk and disorderly charges preferred by the aged man and Police Chief Purnell said that, upon their release, had declared that they would get even with him.

Taxpayers of Worcester county, meeting Monday at Snow Hill, asked reimbursement for $10,000 expended by the county in the prosecution of Euel Lee, negro convicted of slaying Green K. Davis in 1931. The case has been tried twice in Circuit Courts of the state and came before the Court of Appeals of Maryland for the third time on March 2nd.

WICOMICO COUNTY

The city of Salisbury is setting an example of a municipality living within its budget, ending the last fiscal year with a surplus of $2,454 according to auditor's reports to the Mayor and Council Monday night.

Assets of the city were listed at more than a million and a half dollars. Receipts for the year were $72,887 and expenditures $70,333.

An international committee of judges has proclaimed Salisbury first and Hagerstown second in all Maryland for effectiveness in fire prevention work.

These awards were made in the contest conducted by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the winners being selected from detailed reports of Fire Prevention Week activities sent in by the various cities.

HARFORD COUNTY

Angelo Ritrosi, an Italian living in Havre de Grace, shot his wife, Mrs. Josephine Ritrosi, at their home last Monday morning, inflicting a flesh wound in her check. Failing in his attempt to kill the woman and finding no more cartridges in the revolver, he knocked her down and kicked her in the face and on the body. Chief of Police John Allen immediately arrested him and he is held for trial.

SOMERSET COUNTY

Wednesday evening a large fleet of motor trucks from Wilmington, Delaware, arrived in Crisfield and parked at the corner of Main and Fourth Streets where they promptly unloaded the equipment necessary for driving the sixty foot piling upon which the foundation for the new Crisfield postoffice building will be laid.

Dairy farmers of the county and adjoining sections of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, attended the eighth annual meeting of the milk producers, held in the Courthouse on Wednesday afternoon. The courtroom was packed with several hundred farmers and representatives of commercial concerns.

CECIL COUNTY

Up in Elkton a group of business men appeared before the Chamber of Commerce and asked if a marriage made in Elkton isn't just as sacred as a similar contract made any other place. They also casually mentioned that the passage of the 72 hour marriage law by the Maryland Legislature would mean an annual loss to Elkton of from $30,000 to $40,000 which is spent by out-of-state couples who came there to be married.

The shutting down of the A. J. Reach plant last week, which employed 24 men will probably be permament.

March Court convened on Monday and although the criminal docket is reported to be short a long civil docket containing 227 cases has been prepared.

The American Store and the Elkton Supply Company were the victims of holdups last week.

A move to renovate Elkton by a co-operative effort to relieve distress and unemployment and put hoarded dollars in circulation has brought forth pledges of more than $10,000. This is certainly real spirit.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of other civic organizations, the project has received wide publicity since it was first proposed two weeks ago. The drive to return prosperity, however, had its official opening Tuesday, following a meeting of residents at the Court House the previous evening.

That $10,000 will probably be spent within the next few weeks for improvements to dwellings and other properties here is indicated by the degree to which the Renovize Elkton campaign has progressed since its opening, Tuesday. With the circulation of a vast sum of money in the community civic leaders see the approach of prosperity and an end for unemployment.

Endorsing the Baldwin Bill, introduced in the present session of the Maryland Legislature to provide for the construction of a 40-foot highway from Baltimore City to the Delaware line, and at the same time forming an organization to support the measure, 60 Elkton business men met Wednesday evening at the New Central Hotel.

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of genuine Bayer Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so before gargling take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Bayer Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too.
