Stop kicking the bank around evenn though it opened on a restricted basis. It is through the good will of the banks that is probably today carrying a brother or father of yours or some dear one and has tried to give them every chance to come back. Have they not been lienent? Many of your own would have been dispossesed long ago Now more then any other time these banks need your support and you should give it to them more than ever.

IN MEMORIUM

In memory of Charles E.Smith, who died February 11th.

Lonesome the house and sad the home since he left us,
But a brighter home than ours in Heaven is now his own.
Not dead to us who loved him,
Not lost but gone before.
He lives within our memory
And will forever more.

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling round your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Will always think of you the same.
Gone but not forgotten. By one who loved him.

The Third National Bank
CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND

Due to the already rigid Federal law being made more exacting, nearly two-thirds of the National Banks in the State were forced to go under Federal Supervision in order to conserve their assets and protect the Public.

The Old Accounts are to be kept untouched until further instructions are received and payments are to be made only as the Federal Government directs.

This does not mean that the Bank is closed, but it is under Federal Supervision for the protection of all concerned.

Because of the backing of the Federal Government at Washington, the Third National Bank is placed in a better position to receive deposits than it ever has been.

New Deposits in this Bank are absolutely under Federal Supervision and are accessible at all times. Reserve for such deposits must be held by the Bank in cash, deposited with the Federal Reserve Bank as a Special Account, or invested in United States Government Bonds.

This makes the deposits 100 per cent. liquid, which is the intent of the Federal Government.

Old depositors, as well as Stockholders and friends, can best serve their own interest by continuing their loyalty and untiring support..
