GILBERT W. MEAD TO HEAD WASNINGTON COLLEGE

As has been said he is is a native of Pennsylvania, and until he went south as a college administrator in 1925, his life was spent entirely in Pennsylvania or in the New York area. This means a wide acquaintance in the field of collegiate education throughout the territory which is covered by the colge association of which Washington College is a regional member.

His experience also has given an insight into the work of the small college as well as of the large university He is the product of an institution whose history and traditions are similar to those of Washington College. His experience as a teacher in a small college was combined with administration, since the years he spent as a department head at Westminster, were filled with work as an assistant to the President during a time when the college was in process of re-organization.

Birminghom-Southern College numbers nearly two thousand students in its various departments during the year, of whom half are in the liberal arts work during the regular session. In his work as an administrator here for more than seven years, he has stood in the position of second in command in the College, an exceedingly valuable experience in general college administration.

He has been active in various professional and educational associations, both regional and national, and has been given some recognition in these associations. During the time that his major interest was the teaching of English and Comparative Literature, he was active in the national association, and for several years served as secretary of one of the sections. As an administrator in the southern territory, he has always been active in the work of the Southern Association of Colleges and has served as Vice-President of the Educational Association of the church under whose patronage this college is conducted. Also, he has served recently as President of the Association of Colleges of the State of Alabama.

In working out some of the intercollegiate problems of the institutions of the South, he became active in the work of the Southern Inter-collegiate Athletic Association, of which he was a Vice-President and member of the Executive Council for three years. In the search for better intercollegiate athletic relations,, the Dixie Conference was formed in 1930, and he served as its first President until a month ago, when he retired to a position on its Executive Council.

The above facts are mentioned for the purpose of indicating his attitude toward the duties of a college administrator, namely, that one of his responsibilities should be representing his institution properly in the various organizations with which his college cooperates, in addition to his primary duty on the campus of his college. Conditions have caused him to be called upon often for public addresses.

He is forty-two, married, and the father of three sons. These range in age from seven to seventeen. His health is excellent and he is physically vigorous. He enjoys a moderate amount of outdoor life and exercise. His height is five feet and nine inches. His weight stays between one hundred and sixty five and one hundred and seventy pounds.

His family connections are in Pittsburgh and New York, and he has a great many professional friends in the latter city.

His family background is Methodist. Until his marriage, his wife was a Presbyterian. Her family is southern in its background. Political activity or interest has never engaged his attention.

Dear Sam,

Did you ever stop to think that—A well fixed old man never seemed quite as old as a poor old man.

That fellow Harper, at Still Pond, the Massachusetts Mutual man, can help you arrange a Life Income, and you will be surprised how little you have to save to receive this income.

Talk it over with him, he will be glad to help you.

Faithfully,

Doc.

Dear Tom,

When a man with a family makes an investment he must necessarily be very careful.

He does not want to speculate, but o wants to get the most for his money.

The certainty and security of life Insurance as an investment are unquestioned, and it will complete the job that some men are forced to leave unfinished.

Harper at Still Pond, the Massachusetts Mutual man will be glad to show you what it will do for you.

Faithfully,

Doc.

A face powder you'll like better at HALF what you often pay

WHEN you find a face powder you like better that costs but half what you've often paid, isn't it sensible to use it? Smart women everywhere agree. So they are turning to Jonteel. Jonteel Face Powder is soft, satiny, invisible, clinging. Delicately fragranced, too! Two sizes 25c and 50c. See the complete modernized Jonteel line at your Rexall Drug Store.

The Third National Bank
CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND

STATEMENT

The Directors of the Third National Bank desire to state that they are using every means possible to have the bank opened for the transaction of the usual business, and application has been made to the Comptroller of the Currency for an examination of the affairs of the bank in order that plans now being considered for its reopening on a 100% basis may be accomplished.

The bank officials, however, can do nothing except upon explicit instructions from the Treasury Department at Washington.

The receipt of new deposits during the week have been especially gratifying.

All of these deposits are under the supervision of the Federal Government and are subject to withdral in full at any time.
