ECONOMISTS in all part of the country are stressing the fact that in order to restore normal economic conditions, the start must be made at the bottom whereby the purchasing power would be increased which in turn will create production in the factories and increase employment. Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank said recently: "I think that what the facetories need is greatly increased volume, and that what labor needs is, first of all, greatly increased employment. The price rises that we want to come first are in foodstuffs and in raw materials. Ultimately, as empolyment increases and as raw materials and foodstuffs rise, the aggregate of buying power in the country will be so greatly increased that the prices of manufactured goods and the wages of factory laborers can rise also, but this should be a later step, brought about by natural forces, by the markets, rather than a step artificially forced." The business interests in Kent county are dependant directly upon whether the selling price of raw food stuffs is sufficient to allow a profit over the cost of production, and until the change comes about conditions will continue to go backward. The provisions of the recently passed agricultural act are gradually brightening the prospects of a step in the right direction. While this act has assisted the increase in the price of raw milk twenty five cents per one hundred pounds, which has been a help, the greatest help from this act will be applied to the wheat crop now from the returns of the processing tax being harvested. Farmers will receive a substantial sum above the market price for a portion of their wheat crop harvested, two thirds of which sum will be paid to the farmers by September 15th. The amount of the benefit to be received will depend entirely upon the willingness of the individual farmer to reduce his wheat acreage next year and comply with the provisions of the act. Numerous have been made in past years to organize the farmers into reducing acreage so as to raise the price of certain farm products but in every case the farmer who does not agree to the plan profits equally with those who do. The provisions of the Federal Farm Act are so framed that only those who comply with the regulations of the act will share in the receipts of the processing tax.

TO ATTEND FERTILIZER CONVENTION

Among those who are attending the annual convention of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula Fertilizer Association today at Ocean City are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, Mr. W. R. Hubbard, Miss Mabel Price, Mr. C. M. Newcomb and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ford and Mr Thomas Massey and family.

Mr. David B. Ford is president of the Association.

(COMMUNICATED)

There is presented to us, citizens of Chestertown, an extraordinary opportunity to serve our community and more broadly our entire section of the state. Due to the rather long period of sub-normal business activity just passed several promising high-school graduates of The Eastern Shore will not be able to continue their education in college. As a good proportion of such students would naturally have elected to attend Washington College, this college and this community will suffer directly from the inability of their parents to provide immediately for their entire expenses here. A moment's consideration of all the bad effects that a restricted enrollment at our college would net will suffice to show the moment of the problem to us; it is more than the loss of the money that in future years will result from the non-attendance of such boys and girls; it is also the loss of prestige to our community and our college that must be considered. More broadly we must consider the loss of culture and intellectual progress that will be the penalty if some way is not found to help these future leaders over these next few months of struggle. There is inherent in the circumstances a notable chance for us to demonstrate our vision and idealism, and, without any considerable sacrafice.

To get down to cases, Washington College has on file several application from outstanding boys and girls who can't come to college next year unless there is some way for them to earn a part of their expenses here. It isn't an appeal for charity but merely a request for an opportunity to offer service of a high type for some consideration which will enable them to continue their preparation for worthy citizenship among us. I am sure that there are several persons and families in our community who have need of some services which these prospective students can render. It may be chores around the house, it may be part-time employment in a business establishment, it may be serving in the capacity of attendant on to some children or even tutoring some child, or it may be any one of numerous other little things that would be helpful to us. The compensation for these services may be given in the form of a room to live in, or meals, or some other essential other than an outlay of money. There are many students who would welcome a chance to earn their room and board for service rendered. All around it means small cost and the rendering of an unquestioned service to some youngster who is ambitious and intelligent.

If each reader will think this over carefully and cooperate to the fullest it will amount to a great deal in collective results. All who find that they can supply some part time work of any nature and who can give some aid in return should get in touch with the president of the college, or with the field representative, at their earliest convenience. Probably a personal call and talk will be better than any other method of communication and either of the two mentioned above will be pleased to call upon anyone who will call in or write a post-card stating that they may be able to help in some way and would like to make some definite arrangement with this in view.

In spite of my rather brief acquaintance with my community I believe I know its people well enough to predict a hearty response to this announcement.

Sincerely,
Frank Goodwin.
Field Representative Washington College.
