NEW MILK BASIC ESTABLISHED

JULY TO NOVEMBER PRODUCTION TO BE USED

Mr. John Carvel Sutton, Inter-State Milk Production Association Director, Mr. John Carvel Sutton, announced today that dairymen shipping milk to the Philadelphia market are to use a new "basic" in 1934. The present basic allotment will remain in effect during 1933. The 1934 basic will be the result of adding July 1933 production and November 1933 production to the 1933 basic amount of production and dividing that total by three. Other details as to marketing plans have not been announced.

It will be recalled that a new basic was made last October. Formerly the production of three fall months, October, November and December was used in connection with the previously established basic. The new plan is quite a change in policy. Doubtless it is hoped that no increase in basic allotment will result.

NOW AND THEN

MY TASK

By Maude Louise Ray and S. H. Pickup.

To love some one more dearly every day,
To help a wandering child to find his way,
To ponder o'er a noble thought and pray,
And smile when evening falls—
This is my task.

To follow truth as blind men long for light,
To do my best from dawn of day till night,
To keep my heart fit for His holy sight,
And answer when He calls—
This is my task.

And then my Saviour by and by to meet,
When Faith hath made her task on earth complete,
And lay my homage at the Master's feet
Within the jasper walls—
This is my task.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt the chief lady of the land is ever ready with good advice. And it is very well to listen when she talks for a person of such varied experiences must know a great deal about social service, and social etiquette. In one of her talks she was giving some very good advice to guests, how they should behave. It is not always easy to be a guest especially in a strange house. I heard of a young girl who was invited to visit a school mate who was much richer in this world's goods than she was. The mother feeling that such a visit would benefit her daughter, urged her to go, and spent much time preparing a wardrobe, fitting for the occasion. Owing to a change of schedule, she arrived at her friend's home, much sooner than she was expected, and as the hostess was out, she was shown into her room by the maid, who did all she could to make her comfortable, telling her that quite a number of guests would be there for dinner. And so the poor visitor waited, not knowing what to do. Finally she donned her prettiest dinner dress, and started down stairs, at the head of which, was a lovely Persian rug. As she started down she slipped on the rug and down she went sitting on the rug which landed her at her hostess feet. Of course every one rushed to see if she were hurt and she found her hostess and guests very charming. When her school mate arrived later, she found her in the midst of a group feeling very much at her ease. Although she was rather stiff from her involuntary ride, she has always said it was a most acceptable introduction.

Self Preservation the First Law

I am looking for a place five miles from any other place," said a young man to the real estate agent. "I suppose you are longing for quiet and peace" replied the salesman.

"No, but I am learning to play the Cornet." explained the would be Cornetist.

"Oh I see" nodded the agent, "you want a place where you will be safe."

'Tis human nature to worry; that's why some feel so natural. Folding up our fears and putting by our foolish tears—as James Whitcomb Riley suggests—is a much better course to pursue.

The cutting down of the dead tree on the square in front of the Court House, kept us from writing a comment on it, but while on the subject, is there any law to prevent trucks crossing the square? In New York, if they wish to preserve a place from the march of progress, they erect a monument to a national hero. Here, on the square, is a monument erected to the heroes of the Civil War. Are they not National heroes? And cannot the Commissioners prevent it?

A Discerning and Logical!

"What's that you call your mule?"
"I call him Corporation,"
"How did you come to give him such a name?"
"From studyin' de animal an' readin' de papahs. Dat mule get mo' blame an' abuse dan anyt'ing else in de township, an' he goes ahead havin' his own way jes' de same."

Had Missed a Few

Stranger to Old Mammy: "Alligator just swallowed one of your children."

Mammy (calmly filling her pipe): "Well, suh, Ah wouldn't be surprised. Ah was tellin' Rastus las' night sompin' must be getting dem kids."

TO OPEN LYNCH CANNERY

As stated in last week's issue the cannery at Lynch Station will operate this season. The property, which is owned by Mr. Wroth Stevely, has been leased to Mr. Roland Webster, operator of the Rock Hall cannery, and preparations are being made for the coming canning season.

Mr. Webster was busy this week preparing contracts for 250 acres of tomatoes in that section of the county, paying 13 1-2 cents a basket by weight. It is understood that local labor will be used in the cannery which will mean employment for about sixty people.

PROCESSION TAX DATA NEXT WEEK

EXPECTED TO ARRIVE IN KENT COUNTY BEFORE JULY 15

Contracts and detailed information about the wheat processing tax which will pay wheat growers 30 cents per bushell above the market price for a portion of their present crop is expected to be in the hands of County Agent J. D. McVean before July 15th.

While the details of the contracts have not ben made known, it is understood that in order to receive the benefits of the processing tax, wheat growers must sign a contract agreeing to reduce their wheat acreage for the next two years. It is not known definitely just what percentage reduction will be demanded although the maximum reduction that can be demanded is 20 per cent. This percentage of reduction will be based on the average number of acres each farmer has planted in wheat during the past three years. Opinions differ as to the proportion of the wheat crop to which the 30 cents a bushel will be added, as this depends on the proportion of the crop all over the country that is milled in the county and that which is exported. The processing tax revenues will be applied only to that proportion of the crop which is milled in the United States, which it is estimated will be between 50 and 60 per cent.

It is optional with each wheat grower as to whether he shall reduce his acreage and receive the benefit of the processing tax or grow whatever acreage he desires and take a chance on the market price next year. It is also understood that two thirds of returns of the 30 cents a bushel will be paid in the fall and the remaining one third at a later date. The details of the bill will be available within a short time.

PROCESSING TAX IN EFFECT

TAX TAKES EFFECT OFFICIALLY SATURDAY

The new processing tax which officially goes into effect at midnight Saturday on all wheat milled after that time, will revert directly to the wheat growers to the amount of 30 cents a bushel for part of their crop this year. This process tax will in turn be added to the price of flour and bakers have already announced an increase in the price of bread.

In a statement made this week by Mr. P. M. Brooks, proprietor of Radcliffe Mills, Chestertown, wheat brought to the mill to be ground into flour will not be subject to this tax and farmers in all parts of the county are interested in the slogan "Save your Wheat for Flour." Mr. Brooks has worked out a plan whereby he will receive and store wheat for farmers for a year's supply of flour. This flour may be called for in quantities desired and save wheat growers from buying flour during the year thereby saving the additional price caused by the process tax. To sum this up, Kent County wheat growers may receive the benefit of this tax without paying it on their home consumed flour. The details of the plan may be had at Brook's mill.

Robinson, representing Essolene gasolene and Essolube motor oil. ## TO HOLD RAM SALE

SEVENTH ANNUAL CENTREVILLE SHEEP DAY JULY 15TH

Announcement is just made by County Agent J. D. McVean of the Seventh Annual Purebred Ram Show and Sale to be held in Centerville, Queen Annes County, on Saturday, July 15th. Sheepmen are more enthusiastic than they have been for years, due to the improvement in lamb and wool prices. Those in charge of this project are expecting it to come up to the mark of former years as one of the oustanding livestock events in this vicinity.

During the last six years over 200 purebred rams have been exhibited and disposed of at the Centreville Show and Sale. These have improved to a marked degree the quality of market lambs produced and the amount and quality of wool produced in this section. Sheepmen point out that the Eastern Shore never had as good a reputation for its market lambs as it has today. They also state that the wool clipped in flocks where good purebred rams have been used over a period of years has increased from an average of about 5 pounds per head to about 8 pounds per head. At present market prices, this has resulted in each ewe returning about $1.00 more per year than formerly from wool alone. This is enough to pay for the cost of the ram, leaving no charge for his services in siring market topping fat lambs. This is an item of no small importance.

The Show and Sale will be held as usual in the shade of the trees on the Court House Lawn. Sheepmen everywhere are invited to attend.

A BEDTIME STORY

Maurice Chevalier is going to commute between Paris and Hollywood, spending half a year in each, when his contract expires this year.

The French star, whose latest picture, "A Bedtime Story," comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, July 12 and 13, announced that fact to interviewers recently.

"I have two more pictures to make, and then this contract is finished," he explained. "After that I shall spend six months here in America, and six months in France.

"Over here, I hope to make two pictures with Ernest Lubitsch or Rouben Mamoulian or Norman Tanrog, and in Paris I hope to make two with Rene Clair, who is the best director we have over there.

"I think that is very neat. It will satisfy everyone, including me."

"A Bedtime Story" presents Chevalier in a new kind of role—a Chevalier who has discarded his tophat and opera cloak for bedroom slippers and a dressing gown, and has set himself down beside the fire with the object of his love on the arm of his chair instead of whirling with her on the ballroom floor. Helen Twelvetrees is the object of his love this time, and Edward Everett Horton and Adrienne Ames head the cast supporting them. There's also Baby Leroy, the one-year-old chosen from among thousands of babies of his own age to play in the picture.

It's the baby who makes the new Chevalier. Maurice is cast as a Parisian man-about-town who finds the youngster abandoned in his motor car, and is so intrigued with him that he decides to bring him up as his own. Miss Twelvetrees is the nurse; Horton, Maurice's valet.

The picture reaches a whimsical climax when Maurice takes baby, nurse, valet, et al., to his financee's chateau for a weekend. There he nearly loses all of them, but ultimately he emerges with Miss Twelvetrees and the babe still among his possessions.
