THE TRANSCRIPT

BASED ON THE fact that the sale and price of all commodities is controlled by supply and demand, the various Federal and State agricultural departments have for a number of years been urging farmers to reduce the acreage of certain farm products in order to avoid a large surplus which goes hand in hand with demand and price. This has, however, been an ineffective plan due to the lack of adequate organization of the farmers, and the lack of assurance that the reduction in acreage would be uniform. Under the plan now offered wheat growers, the farmers will be paid a premium of 30 cents a bushel for all wheat used domestically if they will agree to reduce the acreage planted in wheat for the next two years. This, if uniformally adopted by wheat growers, will reduce the supply and therefore increase demand. A discussion has arisen among Kent county wheat growers as to whether they will profit most by taken the premium and reducing acreage or maintaiing the same acreage and receiving the advantage of the increased price caused by other farmers reducing acreage. The plan as worked out by the Federal government is designed as an aid to wheat growers and to partly standardize the price of wheat to avoid the reoccurance of the failure last year. It is now in the hands of the farmers to determine what they are going to do about it, they have been shown the way. Will they cooperate and take advantage of it or do they prefer to continue planting wheat and gambol on what the price will be.
