Postage Stamps Had To Be Cut Or Torn Apart

In the early days of postage stamps no provision was made for separating the individual stamps and it was necessary to cut them apart as needed. Steps were soon taken to improve this condition and a system for perforating stamps was patented by Henry Archer. Great Britain purchased this patent and after some improvements began issuing perforated stamps in 1854.

Within a few years most of the larger countries had bought machines or had built them along similar ideas.

Machines for perforating stamps are built on one of two mechanical principles, either operating in a rotary manner with the perforating pins arranged on the rim of a small wheel, or in a vertical direction with the pins on a bar like the teeth of a comb. Either type may be built to perforate single rows of stamps, or entire sheets, at one operation.—Chicago Tribune.

Farmer Leaves Buried Treasure To Red Cross

Washington.—The Red Cross has just finished some buried treasure hunting, a la Capt. Kidd.

The late R. F. Leigh, Arkansas farmer, willed half his estate to the Red Cross. The estate consisted of a pet cat, a pet dog and a mysterious map, which had inscribed on it the following directions:

"Stand in the front door of my house, look just to the right of the northwest of the corner post of the front porch. Go about 50 yards to a wall of rock; in it you will find two boxes with a few thousand dollars in currency."

Another set o directions said:

"Go into the rock house in the garden. Over the door is some rock laid on the plate. Take them all down. There you will find some currency, gold and a box with old and queer coins in it."

The Red Cross followed the directions explicitly. The result?

Six thousand dollars in cash.

SKINNER'S NECK LEADS COUNTY SCHOOLS IN ATTENDANCE

Figures just released by Mrs. May Mills Beck, attendance officer for Kent schools, show that Skinner's Neck School, with an average of 96.2, led the elementary schools in attendance for the year 1932-33 and that Galena High, with an average of 95.6, was the leading school in its division over the same period.

The average attendance for all the schools for the past year was: Elementary, 92.3; High, 93.3.

These figures are only slightly less than those of 1931-32 when the Elementary average was 92.8 and the High average 93.7 and indicate that despite the hard times that Kent children were kept pretty well in school.
