THE SQUADRON'S LOG

BY THE STOWAWAY

The Bonnets, the Nolans, the Coopers, and all the other merchants are loading up the old cars and speeding out of the town these nights. Sometimes they go to the movies, and some times they sit on the porch and rock, thinking "Ain't life grand."

That is what the new leisure is doing. Pretty soon they will need new tires, more and more gas and oil, new cars, new clothes to dress up in for evening parites, more goodies for evening refreshments, all because the N. R. A. program in Kent County is providing them with a little more time to enjoy life.

There will be a demand for books, too, and before long more fines and more new books fees will pour into the library, and the library board will buy more books each month.

More bathing suits will be needed, more boats, more fish lines and crab nets, for the Chester River offers a particularly fine playground for the new leisure.

Think of all the things that will happen at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club. Think of all the new golf teams, all the new boats to go in the basin, the enlarged basin to accommodate the new boats. Think of all the doings the Stowaway will have to talk about.

Mermaids have been sighted along the Devil's Reach lately and travellers along Quaker Neck Road are asking yhere the nudest colony is located.

Chestertown is not quite ready or nudest bathing. There is still quite a difference between modern bathing suits and none at all.

Two more Barnegats join the Sunday sailing races, and other river sports.

The Moyer boys have rejuvinated their boat with new sails, and Gilbert Ingersoll has found a new Barnegat to his liking.

The "Mayflower" has gone to Claiborne for the races on Sunday, taking with her the old Piney Neck Crew. Playing in such hard luck at St. Michaels, the crew is anxious to show what they can do to prove that they can sail the "Mayflower" to victory. Here's hoping and the best of luck!

Dr. Fridy, of Philadelphia, and his family visited Chester River Saturday and brought ith them another cruiser a duplicate of the Katherine II that attended the Regatta.

The Fridys are faithful visitors to Chester River Yacht Club, and have made many friends on their frequent visits. Not knowing when the Regatta was to be held, they came along last week, hoping that they were in time for the Regatta.

No one should miss the Betterton Regatta because they do not know the dates. Betterton is seeing to it that plenty of publicity is heralding their event. That is good business, and makes for success. Betterton is profiting now from the new leisure, yet for small boating activities the Chester River waters offer more inducements, better and safer harbors, and more beautiful scenery.

WOMEN ORGANIZE FOR N. R. A.

SCHEDULE OF MEETINGS PLANNED

The women of Kent County aren't losing any time in helping the President turn the United States into a country of well paid happy people.

Mrs. I. Price Ewing, as Lieutenant General, with the able assistance of Miss Ruth Fox, has established an office in the American Legion Building and is ready for work.

The names that are on the Women's Advisory Board are women who are well able to carry through the work of the N .R. A. They are: Mrs. Amy McManamin, Mrs Gilbert W. Mead, Mrs. Conly Noland, Mrs. Morris Keene Barroll, Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, Mrs. Charles N. Satterfield, Mrs. Medford P. Brooks, Mrs. Walter T. Morris, and Mrs. Harry L. Williams.

The Rock Hall district is organizing now; Pomona is to hold an organization meeting at the Quaker Neck Community House on Monday at two o'clock, and the Women of Still Pond are to report to Miss Louisa Travers.

Mrs. William Richmond, who has been appointed to mobilize the colored women, has as her aide Mrs. Cecelia Ricketts who heads the women's division in Chestertown.

SHOCKING POLITENESS

Policeman: "How did you knock him down?"

Motorist: "I didn't! I pulled up to let him go cross—and he fainted."

The Wayside Poet

By J. Thomas Price

I Shall Not Fail

I shall not fail if you believe in me,
Though tempest-tossed upon an angry sea;
Though all the winds of fate against me blow,
And I'm engulfed by life's fierce undertow.

I shall not fail if you believe in me,
I'll know there's one, who, though I cannot see—
Will stake her all that I shall reach the goal,
I'll win, although the billows round me roll.

And so I'll face the struggles of the years,
And wage a valiant warfare of the spheres;
With this conviction, YOU believe in me,
I could not fail to gain the victory.

TO THE WONEN OF KENT COUNTY

President Roosevelt has called upon the women of Kent Co., to mobilize into a unit of a great army, to fight for peace and happiness and a decent living for every person.

It is war—war to the hilt against poverty, want and crime.

Sixteen years ago the women of Kent Co. gave their sons, their husbands, their money and their time in a devastating war to maintain our ideals and the integrity of our country. "Give until it hurts" they were asked.

Give—Give—Give, the call comes again. Give until it helps, a little of your time.

Give until it helps every man, woman and child to have a decent living.

Give until it helps wipe out unemployment in Kent Co.

Give until it helps every worker to earn a living wage.

Give until it helps business to recover in Kent Co.

Give until it helps our neighbor, our country, and ourselves.

Give a little of your time, Women of Kent County, until National Recovery has been established.

You can give a little of your time this way:

1. Volunteer, write to me, a postcard will do, saying, "I want to give a little of my time." Or telephone if you find it more convenient.

2. Get the women of your town together today, not tomorrow or next week, but today.

3. Choose from among your number your Major to be your leader, and your Captains to be chairmen of your teams.

4. Sign the "Consumer's Statement of Co-operation" even though you think you can be only "a buck private in the rear ranks."

5. Show your neighbor this letter. Remember, the President's Emergency Re-employment Campaign is a constructive movement. It is not blackmail or boycott, it is co-operation. Most of the employers have done their part in signing the President's agreemnt and are asking for your help.

During the period of mobilization I shall be in Chestertown daily at the American Legion Rooms on Queen Stret from 10.30 to 11.30 a. m. to meet you.

You may telephone me at my home from 4 to 6 p. m. daily. Telephone Chestertown 137.

What the duties of the Majors, the Captains and the shock troops (teams) are to be, frankly I do not know. "Mobilize the women of Kent County," are my only orders so far.

The grim determination among the people of Kent Co., to put across the N. R. A., encourages me to believe that I shall be able to report before next week to Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, "The women of Kent Co. are organized 100 per cent. for the campaign to route Depression."

Help in every way that you can.

(Mrs. Price Ewing)

The Curbstone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

Getting a gentleman to head the N. R. A. committee in Kent County is not proving so easy. They had the very gentlemen picked for the job, and because he heads a certain important organization, it is hard to understand how he was able to refuse the chairmanship of the N. R. A. Committee. Then another name was suggested and this gentleman accepted only to call up the next day to say he would help but could not afford to get mixed up in it. The last mentioned was a republican and from a political standpoint, perhaps he used his head. So now, whoever accepts the chairmanship will not be first choice by three or more picks.

The women not bothered with political aspirations and evidently not fearing unpopularity have gone ahead with their work. Then again the whole affair is likely to be popular.

Something else that seems to lack a leader is the repeal movement in the county. Some of the high moguls in the county believe that the best campaign for repeal is to do nothing. They say the County will go wet anyhow and speech-making and all would do more harm than good. O. K. but the one thing that must be done is to get the vote out. If the committee does this one thing the county will no doubt splash on September 12th.

A school-teacher relates the following experience. In connection with a course on health, they were instructed to use some temperance literature. The class was in the grammer grades. As soon as the children got wind of what was coming they became rebellious. The literature stated that to become a base ball player, skilled mechanic, etc., it as necessary that you never touch liquor. The children right away began citing that the best baseball drunk and the best machinist at the factory drank on Saturday nights. Another statement was, that once you drink you form a habit that cannot be broken. Most of the class claimed to have taken one of two short ones and none claimed to have the habit. The teacher told the class that they would be marked on the answers the book gave and not what any of them thought.

Let's hope that the committee will not spread propaganda such as ending the depression, stopping the young people from drinking, taking the saloon out of the home, reduce drinking. The only arguments for the wet cause is, that it will improve the quality of hootch and will increase revenue. These are two big things and the only two worth mentioning. These two statements should not even offend the drys.

Druggists in Delaware got a big break this week. The Attorney General has ruled that the purchase of liquor is illegal. That is they can arrest a man for buying liquor and they can also arrest him for transporting. This applies to all liquor except that sold by drug stores. The druggist should reap a harvest. Here is what the Attorney General said.

"Probably the most startling of the provisions in the Attorney General's statement, which was sent to all police officers throughout the State, was that it is unlawful to buy liquor. Police may now arrest customers of speakeasies as well as speakeasy proprietors.

Regarding the sale of alcoholic liquors other than 3.2 beer or 3.2 wine the Attorney General said:

It is unlawful to sell any alcoholic liquors other than 3.2 beer or wine.

It is unlawful to buy any alcoholic liquor other than 3.2 beer or wine.

It is unlawful to keep or possess any alcoholic anywhere including in transportation.

It is unlawful for any license of the Liquor Commission to keep, possess or transport alcoholic liquors other than 3.2 ber or 3.2 wine.

Sales of beer may be made by glass or bottle to persons 18 years of age or over.

No sale shall be made to any intoxicated person, to any insane or mentally deficient or to the keeper or intimate of a disorderly house.

Beer shall not be sold before 9 o'clock in the forenoon nor later than 12 o'clock midnight local time.

Beer cannot be sold or delivered on Sunday, Christmas Day or during an election.

It is unlawful to buy beer from any person not authorized by license to sell, or to keep or possess such unlawfully bought beer.

It is forbidden to sell ber over a bar or over a counter except in a club which has been incorporated and in existence over a year provided, however, that persons may be served in a restaurant when seated at a service table if the table is not over 30 inches in height and the stools are permanently fixed and not further than 24 inches apart.

In the section dealing with seizures it is pointed out that whenever alcoholic liquor is being peddled, illegally sold, kept or transported the liquor shall be seized and placed in the custody of the commission.

PUTTING IT ACROSS

"I think it's a disgusting state of affairs when one reads of comedians earning more than cabinet ministers!"

"Oh, I dunno. On the whole they're funnier!"

take the characters of the olden times and represent such people as The Bicycle Girl, the Floradora Girl, Floradora Man, Driver of the Horseless Carriage, Beau Brummell of 1860, the Flashing Swain of 1870, Celluloid Collar Bennie, and many other funny and amusing characters. Each one of the "Beaus and Belles of Grandma's Time" are introduced to the wedding to the tune of a popular song of the olden times, sung by the chorus and the entire group. Besides this each one will be costufed in unusual and outstanding costume, particularly fitting to the character they portray. The costuming of the Belles and Beaus alone is well worth anybody's time and effort to be present at "Henry's Wedding." The people taking the parts of the "Beaus and Belles of Grandma's Time" are as follows:

Beaus and Belles Of The Gay Nineties

Traffic Cop, B. R. Cooper; Broadway Butterfly, Rumsey Anthony; High Stepping Johnny, Hynson Rogers; Miss Bustle, Charles Satterfield; Swain of 1870, Fred Russell; Sweet Old Fashioned Girl, Henry Guild; Her Bashful Swain, Stephen Collins; Pantalette Girl, Richard Collins; Shiek of the 49'ers Theadore Jewell; Floradora Girl, George Rash; Floradora Boy, Dr. G.
