THE SQUADRON'S LOG

BY THE STOWAWAY

"When we were very young" the story of grandmother's spectacles held us enthralled.

Now the story is retold, but this time it is about Simon's rudder.

During the great storm the "Half Pint" lost its rudder. For days thereafter, Simon Westcott and Captain Hartman dragged the basin, combed the marsh, travelled up and down the riverfront seaching for the lost rudder.

One day this week the "Half Pint" was dragged out of its slip, to be towed rudderless up the river to Truslows' railway.

Sticking firmly in the mud bottom of the slip was the rudder, where it had lain ever since becoming detached during the storm.

The beautiful snow white herons are back again in the club lake for their annual late summer visit. There are six of them this year, more than the last two years by four. Almost any time they may be seen standing along the shore or among the waterweeds, and some times stalking disdainfully among Dr. Hughes' ducks.

And speaking of Dr. Hughes' ducks what perversity of duckhood makes them waddle out on the stone road when they have all the grass and water and protection any brood of ducks could want? Yet time and again they huddle along the road side and when a car approaches suddenly make for the center of the road.

Never has there been so little life around the river front and the Yacht Club Pier as these past few weeks. Perhaps the Squadron wore out its interest in the intensity of the storm, or perhaps it is busy to a man.

Captain Johnson does all he can to eliven the water front with his week end trips and his yachting parties, but the rest of the Squadron is strangely lacking.

Fruit trees that lost their leaves in the storm are reported to be blooming. Not to be outdone by others, the pear trees along the river bank before the Yacht Club are waving a few white blossoms of their own.

And just to show there is no hard feeling, the Chester River Yacht and Country Club signs have blossomed forth in new paint The background this time is black and the lettering in white.

Once more a steam boat sailed up the Chester River. The "Emma Giles" had a colored excursion to Annapolis. The excursionists started off gaily, but on the way back the gaitey became too awfully too, too, and a pair of revellers came ashore and directly into jail.

No wonder it rained on Wednesday, after the election. Kent County wanted it wet, and the elements, lately so obliging to popular movements, provided plenty of moisture just by way of celebration. Now we wonder who voted dry. For once it did not pay to advertise. The only action not advertising or at least not advertising very much was the wet faction.

It is not often that anything is so universally well known that it will carry itself unadvertised.

BONUS ON HOGS AND PIGS

The Government, in an effort to help the farmers meet the emergency facing swine raisers, offer to buy sows soon to farrow and light weight pigs at a premium over the market.

Several Baltimore packers have contracts to handle such sows and pigs. They pay a sliding scale of prices for pigs. Twenty-five pound pigs sell at rate of $9.50 per 100 pounds, while 100 pigs sell at $6.00. The sows of 240 pounds or more, aboht to farrow, sell at the market price without dockage and receive a bonus of $4.00 per head.

The offer is good only until October 1st. A permit must be secured from the packer before you ship. For details see your County Agent.

The Wayside Poet

By J. Thomas Price

WE DO OUR PART

WE DO OUR PART, the
Emblem is before us;
An eagle blue
With wings stretched toward the sky,
And all are called to
Rally round the standard,
And do our part in this,
Or give the reason why.

WE DO OUR PART, who
Would not join this army;
And gladly strive
To put to rout the foe;
And save our homes and
Country, who are calling,
Say! will you do your part,
And to their rescue fly?

WE DO OUR PART, the
President is calling;
And we will stand
With him, and hold his hands;
We'll gladly give our
Time and thought and talents,
It is a service that
We know the time demands.

WE DO OUR PART, Oh
Let it not be whispered,
That we let greed
Or selfishness, hold sway;
We'll do our best to
Drive out Old Depression;
We'll help our fellowman
Bring in a brighter day.

WIN COON HOUND TRIALS

LOCAL HOUNDS BIG WINNERS LAST SATURDAY

Local hounds did most of the winning at the field trials held Saturday by the Eastern Shore Coon Hunters Club on the Carpenter Estate, near Cecilton.

Queen, owned by Maurice L. Walls, of Sudlersville, was first tree dog in her pack and drew the applause of the gallery because of the manner in which she worked. Lucky, owned by Sudler Loller, of Chestertown, was first tree dog in the novice class and was also first line dog in the free for all. The hounds of Edgar E. Walls, of Crumpton, and Kent County were the big winners, his Driver capturing first tree and first line honors in his pack and then went on to final tree honors. Radio, also a Walls hound was first tree and first ine dog in her pack and later won first tree honors in the free for all. Fannie, of the same Kennel, won the fox chase, Lea dand Sam were first tree dog and irst line dog respectively, in their packs and Dot, dam of many of these winning hounds was ifrst line dog in the class for dogs eight years or older.

SAYS THE LIFE OF THE PARTY

Tom: "I saw Brown the other day treating his wife the way I wouldn't treat a dog"

Jack: "Great Scott! What was he doing?"

Tom: "Kissing her."

The Curbstone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

The Kent County Wet-Dry picnic last Tuesday was very poorly attended. The argument of the day was whether we should swim or not. The question was decided "we should swim."

The "Drys" even by saying "the Local Option law would be imperiled if the County went wet," were not able to get eight hundred votes.

The "Wets," afraid of offending the "Drys" apparently made no effort at all and a little more than fourteen hundred voters voted for repeal.

Already the question is being asked "When do we get good liquor." The only answer we have heard is that "The boys will be out of the trenches bp Christmas."

If the eighteenth amendment is repealed and it certainly looks like it will be, how do we stand? Before prohibition we had open saloons in Baltimore and local option here in Kent. But, the Maryland Legislature is to meet to draw up special laws for Maryland as soon as the eighteenth amendment is repealed. So, we do not know just what method will be necessary to get lawful hootch. Just how Kent County would vote at the present time on "Local Option" is hard to say after the result on Tuesday. Many of the people who voted wet would favor the local law.

There is one gang that should be taken care of by the Legislature. This gang comprise the boys of the county that have so faithfully served us with 3.2 beer. Some of the brewers claim that good beer will have to be a little stronger than the 3.2 which has certainly proved itself unintoxicating. Those having bought beer licenses for 3.2 will certainly suffer a hardship if they are not allowed to sell the better beer which it is claimed will be made.

There is another condition it is hoped that Governor Ritchie and the Maryland Legislature will remedy when liquor comes back. This remedy would be of a great benefit to the Eastern Shore. In the old days Eastern Shoremen would have a hard time walking up Light Street from the boats. The path was strewn with dead-drunks which had been thrown out of the saloons. These used to lie about helter-skelton blocking the street. A remedy would be to make the saloon keepers place them in neat piles or better still follow the method now employed by the speakeasy operators and that is throw them out the back door. Yet this condition probably accounted for the old saying that "Eastern Shoremen got no further than Light Street."

At the special session of the Maryland Legislature to be called to regulalte the Maryland liquor sales, Kent County will have no vote in the Senate as it will be necessary for Senator Beck to resign in order to accept his new position. In the House, Kent will be represented by Mr. Arthur Brice as he is the only representative since the death of Mr. Ellsworth C. Bowers. In order to fill these two vacancies, it would be necessary to hold a special election and due to the expense no election will be held as the special session will be short and will deal only with the new liquor laws for Maryland.

Do you know that a church in Chestertown has been shielding crime for a number of years? How come? well the Episcopal Church building forms almost a circle. At night this court, or closed in place makes a nice place for carousing and all sorts of vice, all things that are not nice to talk about. During the carnival it was necessary for the church to turn on the lights so as to light up this court and make it undesirable for those seeking darkness. The officers think this light caused the place to be used less. The Vestry of the Church is planning to ask the County Commissioners to place a light in that section of the court yard. They think this will break up the crime, improve sanitary conditions and safe-guard the Church property which they fear might be damaged.

The Literary Digest poll in May, 1932, gave Chestertown voting as follows: 198 for repeal, 76 against. This compares favorably with the results in the election held Tuesday. The Literary Digest poll of the rest of the towns of the Eastern Shore was as follows:

	Prohibition	Repeal
Berlin	41	64
Cambridge	149	236
Centreville	43	111

MRS. W. DORSEY HINES DROWNED

Mrs. W. Dorsey Hines was drowned Friday afternoon of last week, while swimming in Chester River, at her home, Riverside in Quaker Neck, near Chestertown.

She and Mr. Hines went down to the wharf shortly after eating lunch and while he was making some repairs to his motor boat, she went in swimming. He hearing her call, went to the wharf but could not see her. He dived over and found her body near the bottom of the river. Dr. Frank B. Hines was called and all efforts, with the assistance of the life saving apparatus of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, failed to revive her.

Mrs. Hines was one of the most popular young ladies in this section of the county and her death came as a great shock to a large host of friends.

Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Iva Gilmore, of Baltimore. Funeral services were held at the home Monday afternoon conducted by Rev. John White, and interment was in St. Paul's cemetery. The bearers were: Mssrs. Philip G. Willmer, Gilpin Brown, W. B. Usilton, 3rd, Henry Wagner, G. E. Chase and Alva Weaver. R. Ellis Clark, undertaker.

GIRL KILLED IN GRASH

AUTOMOBILE HITS CARRIAGE NEAR CHESTERTOWN

Catherine Barret, 17 year old colored girl, died in Easton hospital Thursday afternoon as a result of injuries received when a carriage in which she was riding was struck by an automobile Saturday night. She with two older colored people, William Derry and wife, Amanda Derry, were going out the Quaker Neck road and were just beyond the Country Club Lake when their carriage in which they were riding was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Wood, aged 17 years, also of Quaker Neck. Gordon Kendall, age 17 years was with young Wood at the time of the accident. Amanda Derry is in the hospital recuperating from injuries received.

Young Wood was placed under $1000 bail on Thursday, charged with manslaughter. His arrest was delayed pending the outcome of the girl's injuries as the man-slaughter charge could not be placed until that time. Any other charge could have forced a trial and the manslaughter charge could not have been brought.

Have you seen the play Rasputin and the Empress? In reading an article the other day by the tutor of the Czaravitch he dwelt on the intense sadness of the whole family on account of the affliction of the boy, who would have terrible bleeding spells on the least occasion. It was because of this, and feeling that Rasputin did him good that caused the monk to have such influence with the Royal family and which finally led to its overthrow.
