NOW AND THEN

YOUR POWER WITH YOUR CHILD
(Author Unknown)

I took a piece of plastic clay
And idly fashioned it one day,
And as my fingers pressed it, still
It bent and yielded to my will.

I came again when days were past,
The bit of clay was hard at last;
The form I gave it still it bore,
But I could change that form no more.

I took a piece of living clay
And gently formed it day by day,
And molded it with power and art—
A young child's soft and yielding heart.

I came again when years were gone:
He was a man I looked upon.
The early imprint still he bore,
But I could change him nevermore.

Chestertown is replete with pretty healthy little children wherever you go you see their sweet faces bright with happiness while they play. Perhaps they were as attractive in the last decade, but the becoming dresses and bonnetts make them especially Pleasing. Whenever I see the little things grouped together I am reminded of a bouquet of lovely flowers.

Forewarned is forearmed is a common saying and certainly Chestertown took time by the forelock in preparing for the storm which weather signals said was coming last Saturday night. Lowell Thomas in his usual exaggerated style, told us that the storm from the Southeast would be a corker. Much more severe than the one which had visited us a few weeks ago, which did much harm along the water front. So Chestertown, especially those near the water took heed. Every possible thing as done to keep the water out of the cellars. Windows were barred, and potted plants were brought in the houses. One young man spent the night on his boat at the pier of the Country Club, ready to take it away from the great Southeast storm which was to come, while another was up at every hour of the night watching his newly acquired boat, finding possession always brings its cares with it.

Candles were gotten ready in case that the electric light failed, and many sat up quite late waiting for the storm. But it did not honor Chestertown, nor any of the towns which had prepared for it. Sunday morning dawned fair and warm, while the warning signals were taken down. The river was peaceful and still and a sabbath calm brooded over every thing and the storm that every one expected had switched out in mid ocean giving the sailor lads, tossing on the great blue sea a troublous time.

The radio says warm again tomorrow. September has many warm days though we have said "goodby summer" when August was over.

Dedicated To The School Children

Nature is a clever thing.
She always saves a bit of Spring
To bring us in September.

And every year at summer's end
I grow afraid time and again
She wont remember.

But then, she knows what she's about
For suddenly she bosoms out
And once again I wonder how
She kept it hidden until now.

The streets and byways all display
These cherished blooms—some sweet, some gay—
In clusters, singly, or bouquet.

Each morning I look forward to
A world no longer commonplace—
A world with blooms of every hue
Upon her face.

A world grown suddenly alive
With youth and laughter in full swing,
For schooldays have begun again—
Can this be Spring?

OPENING CONVOCATION AT W. C.

DR. GILBERT M. MEADE MAKES STIRRING ADDRESS

The opening convocation at Washington College was held on Thursday of this week.

Dr. Gilbert M. Meade made a stirring address in which he pointed out the present economic and social conditions in which we find ourselves and the need for new ideas and honest endeavors in order to bring about a most glorious future. He treasured the historic assets of the college and the high peak of its history at which the college now stands. A few extracts from his speech follows:

"It is revolution in which we are living, peaceful in the main, but revolution never the less.

"Government has been creaking under the pressure of powerful forces with which it was never designed to cope." Industry has gone forward and completely changed. "In government, the weight of tradition has been heavily felt, and proposals for change have been identified with treason to the State."

"We demand you, young social engineers in whose hands we place ourselves, that you have:

"1. A vision to see the mistakes of the past.'

"2. A vision to see the inadequacy of the present.'

"3. A vision to apprehend the necessities of the future."

HIGHER RATING FOR MILK

HIGHER PERCENTAGE AT BASIC PRICE

Kent Milk producers operating under the Philadelphia Milk Marketing Agreement will receive Class I prices for a larger part of their established basic production in September than for any month, except one, since early in 1932, according to announcement made Tuesday by H. D. Allebach, President of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association.

Producers will be paid Class I price for 83 per cent of their established basic production as compared to 75 or 80 per cent for 15 of the 16 previous months. In addition, Class II or cream prices will be paid on 14 per cent of each producer's established basic production. This as an increae from 10 per cent which had been in effect since May 1, 1932.

This new basis of payment has been worked out according to the July purchases and sales by dealers in the Philadelphia market as reported by the Milk Reporting Division of the Philadelphia Dairy Council. This new reporting service has been set up under authority of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

One more important change is that every producer will be paid Class I price for all of his September milk up to 83 per cent of his established basic production. Any production over 83 per cent and up to 97 per cent of the established basic will be paid for at Class II or cream prices. Thus if a farmer with a 10,000 pound etablished basic should produce only 8,300 pounds of milk in September all of it will be paid for at Class I price. Or should he produce 9700 pounds of milk in September it will all be paid for at Class I and Class II prices. Only when his production is in excess of 97 per cent of his established basic ill any of it be included in Class III.

These changes were urged by the Inter-State Milk Producer' Association representing the farmers in the Philadelphia Milk Shed and were agreed to by Philadelphia distributors.

"This arrangement," says Mr. Allebach, "will bring larger returns to thousands of producers who have found it difficult to keep production up to their established basics. Adding this to the larger percentages included in Classes I and II and to the 33 cents per hundred pounds increase in Class I price which became effective with the marketing agreement on August 25, the producers in the Philadelphia Milk Shed are already cashing in under the Agricultural Adjustment Act."

MAY VOTE ON SEWERAGE DISPOSAL

INCLUDED IN PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

The fact was revealed this week that the citizens of Chestertown may vote as to whether or not Chestertown will have a sewerage disposal plant, if this project is approved under the Federal Public Works program. The Council has been deadlocked on the proposal that engineers be hired to make a complete survey to submit with the application, the opposition advocating this expense be delayed until they receive the approval. It is claimed by those who approve the project that a complete survey is necessary before the project will be approved.

According to a statement made this week by Mayor Satterfield, if the project is approved, together with other projects for town improvement, they will probably be submitted to a vote of the citizens before the necessary money is requested.

Under the plan of the Public Works program the Federal Government pays for the work, when completed, assumes one third of the expense, and holds the town indebted for the remaining two thirds.

Those living along the water front, of Chestertown, which is the highest taxed residential section in town, have advocated a sewerage disposal plant for a number of years, and since the recent high tide, have deemed the work necessary. The State Board of Health have reported the present sewerage disposal system as a health menace, and forbids the catching of oysters on Cheters River within six miles of Chestertown. Residents on Chester River within eight miles of Chestertown are also interested in the project.

WILLIAM LOLLER SHOT

LOSES ARM IN GUNNING ACCIDENT

The shot entered his left arm and hip and grazed his stomach. The shot was fired by Carter Rash who was gunning with him at the time. Loller had a squirrel in his hand and it is thought that young Rash saw the squirrel but could not see him through the bushes and fired.

FAVORS PRICE INFLATION

CONGRESSMAN GOLDSBOROUGH WOULD RESTORE 1926 PRICE LEVEL

WOULD HELP PRODUCERS AND BANKS

Washington, D. C.
Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough
Denton, Maryland

Senators Harrison, Chairman Finance, Fletcher, Chairman Banking & Currency, Smith, Chairman Agriculture, are urging President Roosevelt to use rational inflation immediately as means of increasing commodity prices and to assist farmers, producers, weak and closed banks and N. R. A. program. If you concur in such recommendation please wire me here so that your message may be presented to Chief Executive.

(Signed) Elmer Thomas,
U. S. S.

Congressman Goldsborough immediately answered as follows:

Denton, Maryland
Hon. Elmer Thomas
United States Senate
Washington, D. C.

Answering your night letter. I favor rational inflation. As soon as Congress convenes I also favor permanent legislation which will raise the general price level to that of 1926 and stabilize it at that point. Permanent legislation is necessary so that the people of the country may know what can be depended upon.
