NOW AND THEN

The Garden

"In planting a flower garden,"
A friend said the other day,
"You are painting a lovely picture
To gladden the traveler's way;
You are painting with God's own pigments,
So cover the brown seeds with care,
And the perfume of your garden
Will sweeten the summer air.

"Your grassy lawn is the canvas,
Your trees are the background tall,
Then flowers and shrubs in their order,
For God loveth order with all.
And your soul is portrayed in your garden,
With its colors and beauty fair,
And the fragrance of your garden
Will rise as the incense of prayer.

"For in planting a flower garden,
And turning the earth's warm sod,
We are having a part in creation,
We are laborers together with God."
—Mary Nely Capps.

"I do not like Autumn" said a friend the other day, "because it means the death of the flowers." But then we looked around us. The river was so blue, bluer than it had been all summr, the trees were very still, waiting a little before they donned their fall attire and the sun was shining all so brightly. Yes, summer is very lovely with the flowers and bird songs, but don't you think that autumn is the nicest time of all?

The Women's Literary Club assembled on Friday for the first time this season. As it is customary, the retiring president, Mrs. Hynson Rogers entertained the incoming president, Miss Jennie Wilkins, and a very enjoyable entertainment it was. Though all regretted that Mrs. Rogers was detained at home on account of sickness in the family, Mrs. Wilbur Gill, her sister, took her place and was a very acceptable hostess.

The club, in taking up the work is also undertaking the great responsibility of keeping up the Public Library.

As new books have to be bought and the rent, to be paid it is rather a hard job to handle, but they all came Friday the 6th, with the determination to do all they can for that objective.

It is Fire Prevention Week Every one must certainly know it, for it has been proclaimed by the Papers, and talked about every evening on the Radio. It is well to heed their warnings and try in all ways to prevent fires. Have you ever attended a fire and seen the hard work and the peril that the Volunteer firemen under go?

Not only do you save loss by fire, but keep these brave fellows from dangers. In reading "Did you know that" it said that in the early part of the nineteenth century every man of Queen Annes who had a fire was fined $5.00. Among those who had to pay such fires were several outstanding citizens. Would it not be a good thing to have such a law in the 20th century?

Of course the whole town is keyed up at the idea of the President's visit on the 21st for the installation of the new Washington College president, Dr. Meade. Can one imagine Chestertown, in its most festive attire with parking signs up every where? The visit of George Washington, 150 years ago it still a proud boast of the town and College, and now what will it be?

Certainly those who have been working for the N. R. A. ought to have a prominent part in the proceeding of next Friday.

"KING OF JAZZ"

"King of Jazz," the Universal super-musical extravaganza starring Paul Whiteman and his internationally famous orchestra will be the extraordinary offering of the New Lyceum Theatre, starting on Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21, the management announced today.

"King of Jazz" brings to the all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing and all-Technicolor screen the most scintillant and colorful sound production so far envisioned by any film producer, the theatre promises.

It is the most costly, the most elaborate, the most spectacular and the most entertaining revue ever presented on either stage or screen, a veritable "revue of revues" which is loaded with the most celebrated stage and vaudeville headliners and the greatest stars of the studios.

John Murray Anderson, the famous producer of New York's "Greenwich Village Follies" for the past six years was brought to Universal by Carl Laemmle, Jr., expressly to devise and direct this extravaganza with the most able talent available in the world.

The picture, consisting of eight stupendous musical spectacles between which are interspersed innumerable specialties and comedy acts, dramatic skits and blockouts, is filmed entirely in Technicolor. The most beautiful girls, the most gorgeous costumes, and the most lavish sets are presented as tableaux of loveliness never before even conceived.

Besides Paul Whiteman and his band, who appear in person in a variety of numbers as well as providing the music all through the picture, "King of Jazz" presents an array of stars hitherto unapproached in a single picture. Bing Crosby, Laura La Plante, John Boles, the sensation of the singing screen; Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith, the famous Russell Markert dancers, Grace Hayes, Billy Kent, Charles Irwin, Paul Howard, Al Norman, Tommy Atkins' Sextet and Nell O'Day, all headliners of the vaudeville stage; the celebrated Sisters "G", the dancing rage of Europe brought especially from Berlin; Rose Statler, Jeanie Lang, and countless others from all spheres of entertainment world appear in their choicest numbers.

Mabel Wayne, who wrote "Spanish Town," "Romona," and many other song hits; Milton Ager and (Continued at bottom of next Col.) Jack Yellen, who wrote "I Wonder What Became of Sally" and other famous songs, wrote new music especially for the revue.

George Gershwin contributed his immortal "Rhapsody in Blue," conceded to be a classic of modern jazz, for an atmospheric number in which sixteen beautiful girls toe-dance the number on the biggest piano ever built.

Herman Rosse, the famous New York theatrical designer who has been responsible for the costumes and scenic effects of many of the metropolis' most celebrated shows, designed all the beautiful costumes and settings for "King of Jazz." Each number, separate in itself, called for a separate setting, more lavish, more gorgeous than the last.

A new innovation which he calls "color-tone," was invented for the picture by Rosse, by means of which he suits the moods of his creations exactly to the Whiteman music throughout the film.

A HOME WITH 33,000,000 NEIGHBORS

The farm home with a telephone has more neighbors than the city home without one.

The home without a telephone is, in a sense, cut off. It is without proper protection from fire or marauders—out of reach of its neighbors—lacking certain of the social advantages that all families deserve.
