Mayor.

LEAVE FOR CONSERVATION CAMP

ANOTHER GROUP FROM KENT WENT THIS WEEK

Another group of young men left Kent County this week for a six months enlistment in civilian Conservation Corps whose activities deal principally with reforestation work.

In the group which left this week wre: George Taylor, of Chestertown; Paul Wallace, Anthony Durham, James Price, Wilson Turner and George Lockwood, all of Millington. In addition to these young men there were also three coored boys. This makes a total of 27 white men and 13 colored who have left this county for work in the Federal Conservation Corps.

In the first group of 14 white men who left with the first group for a six months enrollment period, 9 re-enrolled for an additional six months.

The requirements for enrolling are that applicants must be physically fit and have dependants. The age limits are from 18 years to 25 years. The pay is $30 a month and includes board and clothing, although $25 of this pay is sent directly to the dependants.

The groups leave Chestertown for Camp Meade from where they are sent to various parts of the eastern section of the United States.

"HER FIRST MATE"

The announcement of a Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts feature is an event. It will interest a tremendous number of people to know that "Her First Mate," which is the latest of this famous pair's Universal features, will show at the New Lyceum Theatre as part of a double feature program on Friday and Saturday, November 3 and 4. "Her First Mate" is taken from a famous story. It was a Broadway play entitled "Salt Water" by Dan Jarrett, John Golden and Frank Craven. It played at the John Golden Theatre with Frank Craven, Una Merkel, Claude Cooper, Alan Goode, Edith Elliott and Patricia O'Hearn.

In support of Slim and ZaSu will be found Una Merkel, who played in the stage version, Warren Hymer, Berton Churchill, Jocelyn Lee and those salty looking character men, George Marion and Henry Armetta. Jocelyn Lee has just returned from a very successful picture visit to England. "Her First Mate" is all about a candy butcher on a Hudson River steamboat who had successfully kidded his wife into the belief that he was a great sailor-man and (Con't at bottom in next Col.) whose one ambition was to captain a sea-going vessel. ZaSu saved and pinched until she had enough to buy a boat. But it was a ferry boat, and it blew up on its first trip.

The importance which Universal attaches to a Slim Summerville-ZaSu Pitts picture can be easily seen when Carl Laemmle, Jr., assigns one of its first-string directors, William Wyler, to produce it. "Her First Mate" is well worth waiting for.

NOW AND THEN

WORDS OF BEAUTIFUL TRUTH

Keep a watch on your words, my darling,
For words are wonderful things;
They are sweet like the bees' fresh honey—
Like the bees they have terrible stings.
They can bless like the warm glad sunshine,
And brighten a lonely life;
They can cut in the strife of anger,
Like an open two-edged knife.

Let them pass through your lips unchallenged,
If their errand is true and kind—
If they come to support the weary,
To comfort and help the blind;
If a bitter, revengeful spirit
Prompt the words, let them be unsaid;
They may flash through the brain like lightning,
Or fall on a heart like lead,

Keep them back, if they are cold and cruel,
Under bar, lock and seal;
The wounds they make, my darling,
Are always slow to heal.
May peace guard your life, and ever,
From the time of your early youth,
May the words that you daily utter
Be words of beautiful truth.
—Anon.

"Do not reminisce," said a friend. I don't not quite agree for as the wise man took from his treasures, things new and things old, so it seems that the remembrances of the past sweetens the things of the future. While it was a wonderful event that we had our president with us last Saturday, yet it was very fine to know that we also had a visit from the first president long years ago. Things new and things old make a much more lovely picture than if it were only modernistic so it is well to reminisce for those who love to hear of the things of long ago.

Was not Saturday a lovely day? Not only had the Town Council, the merchant and Business houses done much to make the town ready for the President's reception, but Nature also took a hand, painting the trees a brilliant hue, and sending us a beautiful day. Every one in town who wished saw the President and his gracious wife and heard what they had to say.

Altogether it will be a day long remembered in Chestertown and Kent County.

A friend handed in an old newspaper. "The Worcester Banner, published in 1839. It is most interesting, most of the front page is taken up in a description of the Battle between the Constitution and the Guerriere, told by one of the particpants of the fray. While another page is full of ads of remedies for Bilious fever, and a column is consumed in an adv. of The Godeys Lady Book, the book of fashion for that day. It also also announces the fact that the Hon. Daniel Webster and family have engaged passage on the Liverpool for New York.

Oliver Wendall Holenes says, (I think it is in The Autocrat at the (Breakfast Table) that the sense of smell brings back memories and pleasant things more than any other of the senses, so if one is disturbed or depressed try to have a fragrant flower about you, on your desk or near you at your home. Things look very different under its influence; it calms and rests you.

The Violet

"He pinned a violet on my breast
And all day long it nestled there
A dash of purple on my dress
Its perfume stealing through the air.

And all that day when things went wrong
I'd see the tender purple thing
And to my lips would leap a song
And I would think of trees and spring."
Oh! what a lovely world 'twould be
If each upon his breast would wear
A little violet from the lea
To nod, and smile, and cuddle there.

CROSS STREET DANCE

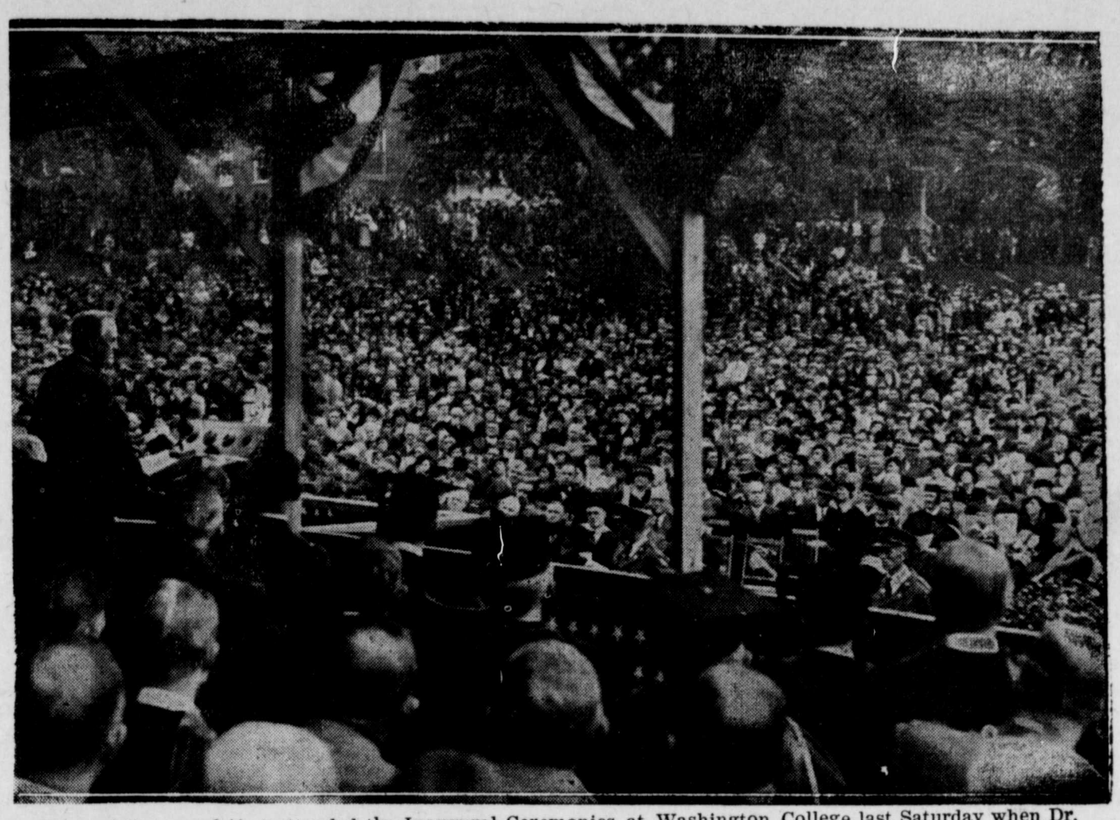

HALLOWE'EN PARTY HERE TUESDAY

The merchants of Cross Street are planning another Hallowe'en Dance and party on that street Tuesday evening. Everybody is invited to join in the party as guests of these merchants and a full evening of entertainment is promised.

PROTECT LOCAL TREES

GARDEN CLUB URGES TOWN LEGISLATION

The following resoution adopted by "Our Garden Club" was presented to the Mayor and Council this week:

To Mayor and City Countil of Chestertown:—

Re: PRESERVATION OF TREES IN CHESTERTOWN.

WHEREAS, "Our Garden Club" is dedicated to the policy of encouraging horticultural beautification of Chestertown, and

WHEREAS, information has reached "Our Garden Club" that the Frank M. Jarman Post of the American Legion has sold a tree that stood before their property on Queen Street, and

WHEREAS, from this action members of "Our Garden Club" fear that a precedent may be established whereby other property owners may be moved to destroy trees along the streets of Chestertown by selling them,

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Mayor and City Council of Chestertown be requested to formulate laws governing the control of tree planting and destruction within City limits; that permits issued by the City Council be required of property owners to plant or to remove trees, in order that trees unsuitable for City planting may be avoided and that trees in good condition may be preserved, and

BE IT ALSO RESOLVED, to request the Mayor and City Council to require electric light and power wires and telephone wires to be encased in conduits where such wirers pass through trees, in ordr that the mutilation of trees in the City may be avoided hereafter, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: to request Mrs. I. Price Ewing to write this resolution and to send a copy to the Mayor and City Council of Chestertown, and to have this resolution published in the county newspapers.

(Signed) OUR GARDEN CLUB.

Mrs. Sadler is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worrell and lived in Chestertown at "The White House for a number of years before moving to Baltimore.

DR. GILBERT W. MEAD INAUGURATED PRESIDENT WASHINGTON COLLEGE

HONORARY DEGREE CONFERRED UPON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

COLONEL HIRAM S BROWN PRESIDES AT THE INAUCURAL CERTMONIES

The largest number of people ever to assemble in Chestertown, attended the inaugural ceremonies of Dr. Gilbert W. Mead as President of Washington College on Saturday of last week. A conservative estimate of the number in attendance was fifteen thousand people, composed of faculty, students and alumni of Washington College, representatives of sixty eight colleges and universities from all sections of the eastern part of the United States, and friends of the College.

The college was honored on the occasion by the presence of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the only President of the United States to visit Washington College since President Washington a century and a half ago. President Roosevelt, like President Washington, was conferred the honorary degree of LL.D. and in his address of acceptance said: "I am greatly honored in being made an alumnus of this college."

Long before the time for the arrival of President and Mrs. Roosevelt from their yacht and Godlington Manor, the streets of Chestertown were lined with thousands of people eager to see them. After the President and his party had passed through on their way to Washington College there was a rush to the college grounds where thousands of people had already assembled to attend the inaugural ceremonies.

Colonel H. S. Brown, president of the Board of Visitors and Governors, presided at the exercises at the college and following the invocation by Bishop George W. Davenport, and delivered the inaugural charge in which he stated that after interviewing thirty applicants for the position the Board had selected Dr. Mead. He then gave a summary of the experience and education of the new president.

Dr. Mead in accepting the charge made an outstanding address, the text of which will be found on page two of this issue. He pointed out that Washington College is rich in historic background but it can not rest upon its past laurels and most go forward to meet the change and progress of modern times.

The mandamus for the award of the degree of Doctor of Laws to Franklin Delano Roosevelt was presented by Senator S. Scott Beck, Secretary to the Board and the degree was awarded by Colonel Brown.

President Roosevelt, in accepting the degree, made an address in which he dwelt mostly upon the important place educational institutions were taking in the building of leaders and the need for the continuation of such institutions. He however quoted the late Dr. Eliot, former president of Harvard University, who, he said, was considered a revolutionist in education, as saying that if the ballot was only for men with degrees, the country would last not more than two years. He also stated that in order to safeguard the securiy of the country it is necessary to provide adequate education for everybody. The text of President Roosevelt's address will be found on page 2.

Following the cermony the President and his party left the platform and returned to Godlington Manor for lunch, as the guest of Colonel and Mrs. H. S. Brown and his mother, Mrs. Mamie Brown. Among those present at the luncheon were: President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Mead, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Mr. Swepson Earle, Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough, Senator and Mrs. S. Scott Beck, General and Mrs. Milton A. Reckard, Colonel Markey, Major and Mrs. Frank B. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Keen Baroll, H. S. Brown, Jr., Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Mrs. Roper, Colonel Marvin McIntire Secretary to the President; Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Pettyjohn, of New York; Captain Vernu and Colonel Watson, Naval and Military Aids, Misses LeHand and Hitkock.

At 3.30 p. m. the President and his party boarded the Sequoria for the return trip to Annapolis.

The text of the President's address which will be found on page 2, was secured through the courtesy of the Shore Radio Service, Inc., on Cross street. The speech was transmitted from the radio to a recording disc. It was taken from the disc in short hand, typed and set on a Linotype machine and is, we believe, the only complete copy of the address published to-date.

Delaware Defeats Washington

The afternoon program at the college consisted of the annual football game between Washington College and the University of Delaware with 2500 fans in attendance. In the first quarter Delaware had the edge and scored 8 points but the remainder of the game Washington was on top but failed to score.
