THE SQUADRON'S LOG

BY THE STOWAWAY

Navigation hobby horses find strange and varied riders. Here is the story of an armchair navigator from the "Evening Sun Spots," in the "Evening Sun" for November 7.

Out of the depths of the Joliet (Ill.) Penitentiary to the manager of a South Gay street chart and navigational instrument store recently came a letter, written by an inmate of the prison, who apparently had his mind on the great open spaces.

It was written in pencil and had been censored by prison authorities. It bore the senders name and his official number. It read:

"I received an American practical navigation by Bowditch from the Hydrographic Office in Washington and with it an information chart regarding other books and charts and on this chart was listed old charts regarding navigation, which are for school work and a person could get them for writing for them. I would like to get a group of these charts for study work, as I am putting my spare time, of which I have plenty of, into the study of navigation." . . .

Chester River Squadronites who struggle through the Power Squadrons course of instruction, take notice. One peep at Bowditch is enough to send the inquisitive one to the nearest drug store for an aspirin tablet.

The prisoner at Joliet must be smart, too smart perhaps. Maybe that is why he is in the Penitentiary. Perhaps he was a rum-runner who was caught because he was not a skilful pilot, and has an eye on the future.

In that case, he had better put his hobby horse out to pasture. Prohibition is dead, and almost forgotten. In fact, some people never heard about it, and some forgot long ago. It is going to be fun to watch for the new racket the boot-leggers think up. Probably there will be a lot of high powered motor craft on the spring market "for sale cheap."

Gobs from H. M. cruiser Norfolk, harboring in Baltimore are conducting an independent "Buy Now" campaign. Exchange of pounds for dollars is decidedly favorable to His Majesty's jockies. They swarm ashore to see the sights and to spend in good, old, sailor ashore styles.

Wonder who gets the bigger kick, the gobs ashore, or the sight seeing public aboard the Norfolk?

The officers at Pimlico or the debutants at tea aboard ship? Betting gives long odds to the debutants.

Elmer Batchelor has a new one lunger with two foot wide bunks in the cabin. Elmer insists he can sleep on one bunk at a time "right yell,' if he lies on his side.

Utopia, there is no such thing! These lovely autumn nights with a full moon shining on the Chester lead us to believe in Utopia, fairies, and Santa Claus. But alas, the chimmer of moonlight on the water is but a reflection of our shivering bodies, and even love cools in the autumn breezes. Necking in the dark has lost much of its popularity.

One lovely night tempted Captain Shreiber to nose "Peggy" down stream. Maybe he found the experience invigorating, but next day, his dory was lashed to the upper deck, and the "Peggy" looked as though she had settled down for her long winter rest.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND AT FORDS

"ROMEO AND JULIET" ALSO PRESENTED NEXT WEEK

Eva Le Gallienne brings two of the finest plays in her large repertory, "Romeo and Juliet" and "Alice in Wonderland" to Fords Theatre, Baltimore, for the week beginning Monday night, November 13th. "Alice in Wonder land" will be the bill on Monday night and for the last half of the week starting Thursday night. In presenting Shakespeare's tragic love story and Caroll's masterpiece of humor, Miss Le Gallienne offers two plays greatly differing in subject, but ranking as classics in English literature.

In "Romeo and Juliet," which will be presented Tuesday night and Wednesday matinee and night, Eva Le Gallienne will be seen as Juliet, Richard Waring as Romeo, Donald Comeron as Mercutio, Leona Roberts as the nurse, Walter Beck as Capulet and Sayre Crawley as the Friar. Miss Le Gallienne first appeared as Juliet in Philadelphia, April 8th, 1930. It was said after this production, "that as an actress and director, Eva Le Gallienne stepped to the head of her profession. No such chorus of praise has arisen from critics over a Shakespearean production in recent memory."

The settings and costumes for this production are by Aline Bernstein and Tchaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" suite will be used throughout the play.

In "Alice in Wonderland," Eva Le Gallienne and the original company will be seen in the roles made famous by Carroll with Josephine Hutchinson as Alice.

Of "Alice in Wonderland," John Mason Brown wrote in the New York Evening Post, "There is nothing like it on this island today. Nor has there been for years."

A VEST POCKET ESSAY ON TIPS

Weird facts, startling suggestions, strange observations, and occasionally a darn good idea comes from the quiet toil of college professors. Recently, one of these gents with a high forehead and a far-away look, gave out free of charge—probably worth what it costs, a tip on a popular card game called poker, penny ante, 5 & 10, and various other terms used by the wives of dawn-returning addicts. "Watch the elbows," he says, "not the face. If the player's elbows move outward, even slightly, throw in your hand. He has you licked. If he pulls in his elbows, throw in some blue chips—he's bluffing." An unemployed mathematisian has just figured out that there are some 2,598,960 different five-card combinations possible in this curious nocturnal game. Also, that a lowly pair of deuces is better than 1,302,540 other hands. Obviously, to play such a complicated game successfully, one should have a paper and pencil handy to figure the relative value of hands; a card index, showing facial expressions and elbow positions of a man expressing faith, hope, or charity, depending on his draw; a potent charm to lure the smiles of Lady Luck, and a few odd jobs on the side to make up for his losses. Regardless of the complicated mathematics of the standard game, someone always wants to pep it up by making the "deuces," "one-eyed jacks", or "men with whiskers" wild. In their calmer moments these birds can be found arguing with traffic cops, telling their wives how to cook, teasing strange dogs, buying stock on margin; and chasing the bull out of the pasture, while wearing exposed red flannels. If as reported, this game gives practice in higher mathematics, promotes the study of psychology, and trains in close observation, it may be taken up as a college study, without credit, of course.

"Put All Your Eggs in One Basket"

Pay Off All You Debts at One

Many's the time we have heard people say, "DON'T put all your eggs in one basket—and in most instances it was wise advice.

But when the "eggs" are debts, it is wisest, when possible, to put them all together and pay them off at one central place.

Would you like to consolidate YOUR debts into one easily-repaid loan? Drop by our office and let's have a friendly chat about it.

AND remember—our CANCELLATION CERTIFICATE protects you and yours in event of death or permanent injury.
