HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good", for it may gripe, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M.Co.

There is no place where one can see more than in New York if one has the leisure, for it is a city of magnificent distances and it takes time to go from place to place. Having leisure is about all one wants to enjoy the sights.

Just now they are having a series of lectures at the Waldorf Astoria, a most elaborate hotel. It is true that it requires kind friends to secure tickets for these lectures by Mr. Reglar but they are most enlightening about the signs of the times.

He talks very plainly to his wealthy clientale who assemble there to hear him, answering the questions in an honest direct way, calling what they consider confiscation, contribution to the need of the times. Another most interesting occasion was going on, the celebration of the birthday of Clarence Stedman, lectures and beautiful music where the Symphonic Band and St. Cecelia choir took part. It was nice, too, to see the big worthwhile people assembling. Dr. Butler, Wm. Lyon Phelps, Mr. Harris and a host of others.

Radio City, occupying as it does blocks of the city, is a place of music anl lights. They have just finished installing all the electric devices and the developement of the Radio is wonderful. One has only to turn W. J. Z. to hear the wonderful organ pealing forth in the morning. The Metropolitan Museum is one that would take many days to see and study half its contents.

It is a great place for students and there are always classes, going on in various parts of the building.

A visit to Morningside Park, the Acropolis of the city, is a most enjoyable one. There is Columbia College with its many many seekers after knowledge; St. Luke's hospital helping and healing the sick and the great Cathedral, years and years in the building with its great arches reaching far above, one of the finest specimens of Architecture in the country. These with the other sights would occupy ones time for many days. Beside all this is the pleasant social life that one gathers around one, in the great city, make it a pleasant place for those who are out of the toil and moil of the great city.

But that sickness and want abound is very evident when one goes down into the great business marts. Ragged women and unshaven hungry men are seen every where and many spend what would be elegant leisure for them in working for the Red Cross and other charitable organizations, coffee houses and other places of need.

Finds Fortune Hidden In Telephone Bellbox

Installer Restores Securities Before Owner Misses Them

Using a telephone bellbox as a safety depository is not considered advisable. But that is exactly what a Lynn, Mass., telephone user did a short time ago.

This unique "safety deposit box" was discovered one day recently by A. E. Miller, an installer of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, who had been sent to remove some telephone equipment from a residence. After he had left the premises and was placing the removal tag on the telephone equipment, he discovered a wad of paper in the bellbox which aroused his curiosity. It turned out to be stock certificates worth about $2,500, including ten shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock.

In endeavoring to trace the rightful owner, telephone officials found that the name on the stock certificate did not correspond with the name in which the telephone had been listed. Inquiry at the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's headquarters in New York revealed the address to which the dividends for the telephone stock were sent, with the result that the stock certificates were returned to the owner before he even knew that they were misplaced.

The Road To Better Health

WHY IS THE APPENDIX?
By DR. WILLIAM J. SCHOLES

The appendix is located at the junction of the large and small intestine, and is from two to three inches long and ¼ to ½ inch in diameter. It has a narrow canal which communicates with the intestine at one extremity and ends blindly at the other, like an elongated sack.

The "Function" of the Appendix

What its function is has never been conclusively demonstrated. Not only that, but it is highly improbable in the writer's opinion that it has any function.

One theory has been that the appendix secretes a fluid which has to do with the digestion of egg albumin. But the fact that its canal closes in most persons after the age of forty and they still eat eggs makes this theory unsoud. Furthermore, people live on after surgical removal of the appendix, indicating that it serves no vital purpose.

It may be the remains of a structure that is gradually becoming extinct because changes in our mode of living make it no longer a necessary part of the body economy. Rabbits have a structure nearly twelve inches long that corresponds to the human appendix.

Again, it may be nothing but a remnant of embryonic life, during which it might have a function which becomes obsolete after birth. Such a situation exists in other parts of the body. For example, the heart during fetal life has an opening which connects its two sides, but which closes immediately after birth.

Inflammation of the Appendix—Appendicitis

The old-time cases of inflammation of the bowels were nothing more nor less than appendicitis. Inflammation of the appendix becomes serious when its opening into the intestine becomes clogged and infectious matter is unable to find an exit. So long as drainage exists nothing can happen. The moment the opening closes as a result of thickening of the lining trouble begins. The gravity of the situation depends on the severity of the inflammation, the type of the infection and the reaction to it, and he degree of circumscription of the process.

If the inflammation subsides within twenty-four hours, the opening of the appendix is restored and drainage into the gut re-established. If the infection is promptly met by an increase in phagocytes (the white blood cells that destroy germs) it is overpowered. If a wall of adhesion is built up around the appendix spread of the inflammatory process is prevented.

Prevention and Treatment of Appendicitis

There is no denying that thousands of needless appendix operations have been performed. It is likewise true that many patients have refused operative interference that was necessary. The proper program in every case lies between these extremes. An intelligent patient and a conscientious physician will always find it.
