FORMULATING POULTRY CODE

EARNINGS REPORTED INCREASING

WASHINGTON.—To benefit both producers and consumers of poultry products, a master code of fair competition for wholesale groups engaged in procuring and distributing poultry and eggs is being formulated through discussions with officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The proposed code applies to the marketing division of the industry. Where its provisions were inadequate to deal with regional problems, it has been suggested, according to an announcemet from the A. A. A., that regional or supplementary codes could meet local problems. The code is designed to remove unfair practices and wastes in marketing poultry and eggs, thus increasing returns to producers and assure maximum results in grading and standardizing poultry products, in behalf of consumers as well as protecting farmers with high quality products. A code applied to 6,000 commercial hatcheries has already received a public hearing.

Third Quarter Earnings Show Recovery Trend

WASHINGTON.—"Earnings reports covering 9 months operations provide eloquent testimony to industry's recuperative power during the first stage of recovery", according to the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, whose summary adds: "Combined earnings of 89 industrial companies for the period were $191,000,000 as compared with $73,000,000 for the correspondng 9 months of 1932, a gain of 160.4 percent. Five railroads earned $35,222,000, an increase of 60.3 percent. Utilities on the other hand showed decline of 11.3 percent. Even more remarkable are results registered during the third quarter. The identical 89 industrials reported aggregate earnings of $85,-970,000, virtually an 11-fold gain over the similar 1932 3 months ending September 30. Practically every industrial division improved its position. Railroads scored a 90-percent increase, but utilties continued to run behind. Virtually all industrial companies succeeded in curtailing operating expenses apart from labor costs. The bulk of gross income expansion occurred in the last 3 months reported, in many cases permitting earlier 1933 losses to be canceled.

The resolution was expected to be introduced on Tuesday but was held up pending disposition of more important legislation.

The resolution to the Delaware General Assembly follows:

"Whereas press reports have stated that members of the Senate and House of Delegates of the State of Maryland, representing the counties of the Eastern Shore and great numbers of citizens and residents of the said counties have announced a desire to secede from the State of Maryland, and

"Whereas, because of geographical, social and historical conditions, the people of the Eastern Shore are kin to the citizens and residents of the State of Delaware, therefore.

The Wayside Poet

The Magical Isle

There's a Magical Isle up the river of time,
Where the sun never ceases to shine;
There, my loved ones are gathering one by one,
I, too, shall go there, when my work is done,
And live in its glory sublime.

This Magical Isle is so real and so near,
There seems only a thin veil between;
There are familiar voices I seem to hear.
And a fragrance that lingers when they draw near,
Of its glory I ever would dream.

So this Magical Isle up the river of time,
Is, and always will be, most dear;
For my treasures some day I expect to find,
With all earthly trial and care left behind,
A land where love castesth out fear.
