AT NEW LYCEUM

NEXT WEEKS PROGRAM INCLUDES INTERESTING PICTURES

Claudette Golbert has been given a real chance to display her talents.

The opportunity came to her in "Torch Singer," latest starring picture for Paramount, coming to the New Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday, December 11 and 12, in which she plays a character with two definite personalities— a tender, loving mother—and, a hard-hearted queen of the night clubs, singing for the man who's left her.

The picture, adapted from the Liberty Magazine story, "Mike," by Grace Perkins, was directed by Alexander Hall and George Somnes. Featured in the cast are Ricardo Cortez, David Manners, Lyda Roberti and Baby LeRoy. Ralph Rainger, composer of "Moanin' Low," this country's first torch song, has written several songs which Miss Colbert sings in the picture.

"Torch Singer' tells of the travails of Sally Trent, whose man leaves her just as she is about to give birth to his child. Impoverished, she is forced to give the baby up for adoption when the father's family refuses help, and her character undergoes a definite change. Assuming the name Mimi Benton, Sally becomes a success in the night club songs with her sizzling songs.

With fame in her grasp, she finds that it means nothing to her compared with the great longing for her child. When she goes back to the hospital to learn the names of its adopted parents, she is refused the information.

Then come the thrilling events leading up to the emotional climax which gives Colbert a real opportunity to show what she can really do with a good part.

After more than two years' preparation and many months' filming, Universal's daring screen translation of H. G. Wells' sensational novel "The Invisible Man," has reached the screen and has been secured for Wednesday and Thursday, December 13 and 14 at the New Lyceum Theatre according to Manager Russell.

The picture, which has caused more speculative talk in Hollywood and the theatrical world than any film of recent years because of the odd character of its theme and the secrecy which veiled its production, is said to be a totally new departure in spectacular entertainment. Still shrouded in mystery as to its acomplishment, only the intriguing nature of the story, which deals with a scientist who succeeds in making himself invisible and therefore all-powerful, is known. Almost as mysterious as the manner in which this obviously difficult cinematic feat was performed is the star, who remains unseen throughout nine tenths of the picture.

Claude Rains, London and New York stage light, makes his debut as a sensational screen personality in the film with William Harrigan, Gloria Stuart, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers and Forester Harvey also featured under the direction of James Whale, who made the sensational "Frankenstein."

Variety of settings add to the spicy action of "Horse Play," Universal's newest comedy hit, costarring Slim Summerville and Andy Devine, coming on Friday and Saturday, December 15 and 16 at the New Lyceum Theatre.

The early sequences of the picture depict western ranch life, on the Montana plains, reproduction of which is said to do justice to what is still regarded as the colorful "wild west."

In direct contrast to the rolling, cactus studded reaches of this section of America, the story is swept, in logical and hilarious manner to the throbbing hubbub of ancient London where Slim and Andy, precipitated by sudden wealth, determinedly start the search for the girl of Slim's dreams. What happens as the locale shifts from the interior of the fashionable Ritz-Savoy in London to the bleak castle and country estate of an austere English noblewoman is a riot of amusing episodes and a kaleidoscopic revue of the American and English countrysides on the part of the set designer.

The cast includes Lelia Hyams, as the feminine lead, Lucille Lund, the "All American Girl," May Beatty, Una O'Connor, Ferdinand Gottschalk and David Torrence.
