THE OLD STEAMBOAT

Sitting on a porch and watching the blue river, calm and undisturbed, flowing by it seemed to say, "How useless I am".

Only pleasure boats, particularly the outboard motor with its rasping noise, seem to take advantage of the many opportunities of travel that it gives, with its head waters up as far as Millington and flowing down to meet the bay many miles away. And then suddenly there was a blow of a boat that was so like the whistle of the old B. S. Ford that memory went back to the time when the advent of the steamer, time after time was considered a great event in the day. How often we would stand on the old bridge (for it was a common meeting place for up towners and down, in those days, and watch the boat come in. Beside a side wheeler a pretty sight it was sailing up the river, sometimes stopping at the wharf at once, but oftener coming up to the bridge and turning around before it could make the landing.

It was a day to remembered, in 1884. When the B. S. Ford came up, newly painted and all ready for her summer work. The officers too, looked spinck and span in their new blue suits and white caps. A very lovely day in May it was and many had planned to go to Baltimore on the next day on the first round trip of the season. But alas; in the dead of night, the old bell of Emmanuel Church rang out, and the call of fire was heard.

It was a dreadful cry, the cry of fire. As I have said many times the town had only a bucket brigade, the men standng in line to the river and handing a bucket full of water to the next man until they reached the fire. But there was no need of a line in this case for it was the B. S. Ford as she stood on the water's edge. There could have been no fireworks more beautiful than it was as wheel house, walking beam and the other parts, one by one, were wrapped in fire. The boat burned so fiercely that the crowd feared that she would break away from her moorings and float down to the bridge, setting that on fire, but its anchor held fast.

The B. S. Ford was afterwards rebuilt and her sister boat Emma A. Ford, was also built and for a long time the town people had good service to and fro, but long distance trucks and autos made such inroads upon the traffic that the Chester River steam boat Co., became a thing of the past.

Some time ago as I stood at the Baltimore pier I saw an old barge, busily carrying freight. On looking closer I saw the name, B. S. Ford. What a sad ending. Just like a fine racer that has degenerated into an old dray horse, sadder because of the memories of what it was and what it is now. But as long as the older generation is alive the memory of the Chester River boats and their splendid service will be a pleasant thing to recall.

MARIE DRESSLER

So Marie Dressler is dying! She will be a great loss to the movie world for she has always been an universal favorite, but the many who have cause to be grateful to her on account of her great kindness and generosity.

It is said of her that at first she deplored the fact that she was homely while so many of the movie stars were so lovely in face and figure, but she resolved to make an asset of the very things that she lacked, and so her personations and comedy became so popular, that she has become a drawing card wherever the pictures in which she acts are played.

She has carried on well in the sixty-two years of her life.

Kent County surrounded as it is by bay, creeks and rivers, is a very desirable place to live.

This fact is shown by the number of people from the north and south buying property here, always if possible, on the water front. But these same surroundings are full of danger to those who are not initiated.

Chester Rver has taken its toll many times and only a short time ago one young boy was in danger of drowning except for the courage of his companion who by his quick action and level head brought the other safe to land. The sad drowning accident in Worton waters brought forth another case of heroism. Both the Chaperone and the sister strove in face of much danger to save the life of the boy. Though the effort failed, and the sister gave her life for her brother, yet it shows that heroism still exists; that there are many many who are willing to sacrifice their lives for those in peril.

RECIPES

SAUCES FOR ICE CREAM

If it is Vanilla Ice Cream try sprinkling it with a few chopped nuts, with a teaspoonful or two of whipped cream. A marachine cherry on top makes a pretty desert.

Take to table spoons of butter 1 cupful of sugar 1-4 cup of water and three tablespoons of corn syrup. Cook until it strings from a spoon. Then remove from fire and add 1-4 cupful of cream and two teaspons of maple syrup. This is a fine sauce for ice cream or puddings.

Chocolate Sauce

Melt three squares of chocolate over hot water, add one-fourth cupful of water and sir until smooth; now add one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of corn sirup and boil to the very soft ball stage, or 234 degrees. Remove from the fire, add one cupful of cream and one teasponful of vanilla. Beat until smooth. This makes two and one-half cupfuls of sauce. Cut eight marshmallows into small pieces. Boil one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water to a heavy sirup. Whip two egg whites, add the marshmallows and beat well. Flavor with and desired flavoring.

BEWARE OF TICK BITES

ROCKY MOUNTAIN SPOTTED FEVER SPREADING IN MARYLAND

Because Rocky Mountain spotted fever—also called tick bite fever—first reported in the State in 1929, has reappeared recently, in Maryland, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, warns all who have any occasion to come in contact with ticks to take certain necessary precautions to protect themselves against the disease.

Thirteen cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever have been reported to the Bureau of Communicable Diseases of the State Department of Health since the middle of April. Two have occurred in Baltimore City, three in Anne Arundel County, four in Baltimore Couty, and one each in Montgomery, Price George's, Talbot and Worcester Counties. There have been three deaths. Two were children under six years of age, and the third was an adult—a young woman twenty-four years old. All of the cases were associated in some way with ticks. One of the children had not been bitten, but had crushed ticks in his hands.

"Tick bite fever," Dr. Riley said, 'can be contracted either through the bite of an infected tick or by absorbing the infectious material through a break in the skin. The infectious material through a break in the skin. The infectious material from crushed ticks will stck to the hands and may also be accidentally rubbed into the eyes, or may find its way to the mouth or nose. Fortunately not all ticks infected, but it is better to regard them all as sources of danger and to act accordingly. Here are some of the things that should be done:

1. Avoid ticks and tick-infected areas.

2. Remove any ticks you find on your person as quickly as possible but take care not to break or crush them. After removing ticks, wash the bands thoroughly with soap and water. Take the same precautions in removing ticks from animals.

3. Cut out undergrowth and weeds. Cut grass vry short along paths, near bathing pools and shores.

4. If your work or pleasure takes you through tick-infested areas, go over your body and your clothing carefully, for ticks, when you return home.

"Various kinds of ticks are carriers of the disease known as 'Rocky Mountain spotted fever' from the section in which it was first observed. In this part of the country the disease is spread mainly by the ordinary dog tick, which attaches itself to dogs, horses, cattle and man. Some of the CWA activities of the past winter were directed toward clearing out tick infested areas. Brush was burned, undergrowth was cleared out, and rats and mile were exterminated in the localities in which the disease was known to have occurred last year.

"From 1929 until the end of 1933, nearly 200 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported in Maryland, with 19 deaths. The number of cases has increased steadily year by year—7 in 1929; 38 in 1930; 44 in 1931; 45 in 1932 and 59 in 1933."

UPPER RANKS

"I understand he's one of your captains of finance?"

"A captain? He's major-general. He even understands thoroughly the system his wife has in running the house."

EASY MONEY

Secretary—How did you find Mrs. D. this morning, doctor?

Doctor—It looks to me as if she's in for a serious illness, but I don't want to be too sanguine.

PROOF ENOUGH

"They are married."

"What makes you think so?"

"I just heard him ask her if she was going to learn to put on her own skates."

NEVER, NEVER

"I never gossip. I never tell anything about anyone unless I can prove it to be absolutely true."

"Dear me, how mean!"

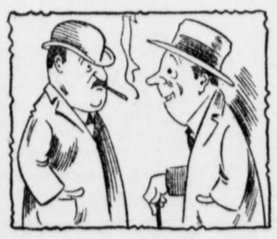

WOW!

"We can't pay you the $25 on this money order until you are identified."

"That's tough! There's only one man in town who can identify me and I owe him twenty."

SNOW DRIFTS

Boastful Candidate—I shall sweep everything before me.

Snow-Weary Citizen—Well, I wish they would take you out of politics and put you at the head of the street-cleaning department.

STUCK UP

First Monk—What makes Mr. Porcupine so conceited?

Second Monk—Why, every one gets stuck on him.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Yesent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

PENALTY

Important Notice to Merchants and Traders

Your attention is called to the provisions of Senate Bill No. 63 passed by the General Assembly of 1929, under which there is imposed on persons who fail to take out licenses in the month of May a penalty of 10% per month on the cost of the license. This is not merely a 10% flat penalty, but 10% per month or fraction of a month.

The Clerk of the Court has no discretion in the matter but will be held accountable to the State for the collection of all penalities.

Licenses are now on hand ready for distribution.
