At The Movies

NEXT WEEK

Scene From "LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?" UNIVERSAL

Ben Bernie and his lads make their screen debut in "Shoot the Works," the Paramount feature film which will be shown on Monday and Tuesday, July 16 and 17 at the New Lyceum Theatre.

Surrounded by a fine cast headed by Jack Oakie, Dorothy Dell, Arline Judge, Alison Skipworth and Roscoe Karns, Bernie's orchestra plays six new hit tunes by the combined teams of Rainger and Robin and Gordon and Revel. They include "With My Eyes Wde Open, I'm Dreaming," "Do I Love You?", 'In the Good Old Winter Time,' 'Take a Lesson from the Lark' and 'Were Your Ears Burning?'

Wesley Ruggles, who directed 'College Humor' and 'Bolero,' wielded the megaphone on 'Shoot the Works,' an adaption of an original play written by Ben Hecht ad Gene Fowler.

'Shoots the Works' is a comedy-melody romance about a broken down side show troupe, the Nicky Nelson Enterprises, which survives extinction because it has a flagpole sitter and a stuffed whale.

Jack Oakie as Nicky Nelson is preparing to launch a vaudeville act with Arline Judge. With the aid of Bernie and his "lads," they manage to win fame and fortune.

Pituresque settings of the utmost variety are a feature of "Little Man, What Now?" Frank Borzage's romantic Universal drama which comes to the New Lyceum on Wednesday and Thursday, July 18 and 19 with Margaret Sullavan and Douglass Montgonery in the leading roles.

The action of the entire picture takes place in Germany, and the unusual architecture of many of the buildings is said to lend a very definite charm to the story.

One massive "set" is three blocks long, taking in all the activities of a busy Berlin street, with its odd surface cars, automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. Other scenes take place at the railway station in the little town of Ducherow, with a strange German train pulling in on wide-gauge tracks. Public parks of Berlin come in for attention, as well as streets in other sections of the city. There are interior scenes of widely differing types of stores, all in a style distinctly foreign to American practice. Still other sequences take place in a flamboyantly decorated apartment, in a typical Gtrman cafe, and in the government insurance offices. Finally, we see Hans and Lammchen, the young couple about whom the story revolves in a rudely furnished loft to which their poverty has forced them.

Altogether, "Little Man, What Now?" furnishes in its back grounds an authentic and intensely interesting picture of present-day Germany.

The cast supporting Miss Sullavan and Montgomery includes Alan Hale, Catherine Doucet, Hedda Hopper, Bodil Rosing, Muriel Kirkland, George Meeker, Mae Marsh and many other popular screen players.

On Friday and Saturday, July 20 and 21 the New Lyceum will present two brand new first run features of the usual week end double feature attraction. The first feature is the new RKO production "Murder On The Blackboard" a mystery comedy starring Edna Mae Oliver and Jimmy Gleason. The Universal feature "Affairs of a Gentleman" with Paul Lukas, Lelia Hyams and Patrica Ellis will furnish the second part of the program.

AT BETTERTON CASINO

The mystery of Mr. X which is being shown this week end is a mystery story in which Robert Montgomery is a dashing, delightful thief who is a combination of Sherlock Holmes, Raffles, and Casanova. He stole jewels and the heart of a lovely lady. But he was forced to turn sluth when a whole city was thrown into a panic by a criminal who left no clews.

On Monday and Tuesday Lionel Barrymore will be seen in 'This Side Of Heaven' in which an old fashioned father is suddenly brought face to face with flaming youth and its new-fangled ideas.

On Friday and Saturday Bing Crosby and Marion Davies will be in 'Going Hollywood,' which features great new song hits. The picture is a review with hundreds of singing dancing beauties.
