FEDERAL TAX FOR DUCK HUNTERS

MUST BUY $1 STAMP—MONEY FOR CONSERVATION PURPOSES

When hunters plank down a dollar for the new Federal hunting stamp at their nearest post office, they will receive no ordinary carrier of mucilage. Nearly twice the size of a special-delivery stamp, the hunting stamp shows a waterfowl scene which is the work of J. N. ('Ding') Darling, who was a nationally known cartoonist long before he became chief, a few months ago, of the Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"No one, however,' says Mr. Darling, 'is under any obligation to kill a duck just because he owns a hunting stamp, nor is there any rule to prevent a man who wants to help restore the migratory waterfowl from purchasing several of these duck saving stamps. Every dollar will be devoted to the cause of conservation."

Authorized by the recent Congress and to be issued shortly by the Post Office Department, the new stamp will be on sale at post offices in all county seats, in all towns with populations of 2500 or more, and in certain waterfowl centers. The sale of stamps will provide funds to help conserve ducks and geese and other migratory waterfowl by the establishment of sanctuarties. Everyone over 16 years of age who hunts migratory waterfowl is required to have a Federal hunting stamp in his possession, affixed to the regular State hunting license or to a special certificate furnished by the postmaster if a hunting license is not required.

The distinctive qualities of the stamp, it is believed, will also stimulate its sale among stamp collectors as well as sportsmen and conservationists.

Over shooting and the effects of the prolonged drought, the Biological Survey explains, have seriously decreased the supply of waterfowl. Drainage operations in past years have destroyed millions of acres of marsh and water areas formerly inhabited by waterfowl, fishes, and fur-bearing animals. Much of the land so drained has turned out to be practically useless for farming or for any other purpose. The money received from the sale of the new hunting stamp will be used to remedy these mistakes of the past by restoring some of this wasted land to the country's wild life and to purchase other marsh lands not yet destroyed.

Not all the money for this restoration program, the Bureau points out, will come from the pockets of the sportsmen, however for the President, recognizing that wildlife like the forests, is a valuable national resource, is planning to devote additional sums, to extending the sanctuary system. The stamp sale will probably provide funds ranging between $600,000 and $1,000,000 annually, according to estimates by the Biological Survey.

JANVIER NEAR PERFECT MARK IN ATTENDANCE

Has Record For Year Of 99.9 Per Cent

SWAN CREEK IS SECOND

Galena Leads High School Division

With a record of 99.9 plus in attendance for the 1933-34 school year Janvier led all Kent schools to the wire in attendance figures for the school year just closed. One absence, early in September, marred an otherwise perfect record for Janvier. Miss Frances G. Orr was the teacher at Janvier during the past year.

Swan Creek, taught by Miss Miriam Kirby, was second for the year with a percentage of 96.2, just a notch above Sassafras, taught by Miss Edna B. Peaper. Sassafras had a mark of 95.1.

Galena led the high school division with a mark of 94.9. Millington was second with an average for the year of 90.0. Miss Lelia N. Ware is the principal at Galena while Harry R. Rasin is principal at Millington.

The yearly averages for all the county schools, is compiled by Mrs. Mae Mills Beck, attendance officer, are as follows:
