NOTICE TO ALL DELINQUENTS TAXPAYERS ON PERSONAL PROPERTY

We publish herewith a ruling from theAttorney General on the law governing the sale of personal property for taxes.

The law governing the sale of personal property for taxes in Kent County.

The local law on the subject may be found in Article 15, Sections 152-156, Flack's Code of Public Local Laws. Section 154, relating to sales, was amended by Chapter 310, Acts of 1933, and authorizes a sale of the property of a delinquent, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to pay the taxes with interest and costs. The general method of procedure is set out in Article 81 Sections 189 and 190 of Bagby's Code of Public General Laws (1929 Suppl.) Section 190 indicates that sale of personal property may be either at the Court House door, or on the premises where the levy is made.

Under the Law I will advertise and sell all or enough of the personal propery of all delinquents for 1930-1931 on the premises where they were levied upon if taxes are not paid on or before June 20th. This means all personal property that has been levied upon for 1930-1931.

MAUD ADAMS

In reading the papers one sees that Maude Adams is again upon the stage as 'Maria' in Shakespeares play. 'Twelfth Night' though long ago she took quite another character, for in her early days she played the role of the youthful Cesario.

She was a very charming actress in those days. Being born at Salt Lake City of parents, who were both on the stage, it was natural that she, too, should be an actress. She began when very young to take children's parts and as she grew up became one of America's most delightful actresses. One of her favorite roles was 'Babbie' in Barrie's 'Little Minister,' she made the gypsey maiden a most delightful winsome person. Her first success in New York was with John Drew in 'The Masked Ball.' which made her so popular that she became a star under the management of Charles Frohman and she remained in his company until his death in 1815.

She delighted in Barrie's plays the whimsical boyishness of her 'Peter Pan', and the power and pathos of her 'Duke of Reichstade.' by Rostand, were so well played that she always drew crowded houses.

Later she began to act in several of Shakespeares plays, and then, to every one's regret, she left the stage for a long while. Becoming much interested in moving pictures she began to work on different light and shadows connected with them. Edison, with whom she was always a prime favorite gave her permission to work in his laboratories and she worked there industriously for some time.

Now at the age of 62 years she has been persuaded to go before the foot lights again.

The character that she takes is the clever mschievious maid of the fair Olivia. The Duke of Orseno is madly in love with Olivia who shuts herself away from the world, morning for a lost brother. While she is thus secluded, her guests have a gay time, and Maria delights to carry out their many pranks and plans. But those who have seen her in the role of the fair young Cesario will regret that she did not take it again. Any way whatever part she will take will be a very well played one, we are sure.

THE STRAUSBURG CLOCK

One passes on the Rhine a great Cathedral at Strasburg on the Rhine, and the great dome is world renowned, with a high steeple reaching upwards. When the Cathedral as finished, the people desired that a clock should adorn the steeple, but the building of such a clock was a very hazardous undertaking and, for some time, no one would dare to do it. Finally one Isaac Habich came forward and asked permission to build it. This was gladly granted, and so the work began and year after year the Clockmaker toiled at his work. And then it was finished. Such a wonderful clock it was! It not only told the hours of the day but the months of the year while a great world ball showed the rising and setting sun, and the moon and the stars, while the sweetest of chimes rang out all times of the day. The people were delighted. They thought of the numberless crowds who would come to the Catherdal to see the clock. Then a fear siezed them, suppose the clock maker would make another clock for some other city. A council was called and they came to the conclusion that no human could build such a clock unless he were helped by Satan, and so they passed a decree that the builder should lose his eyes. The poor man was horrified at such treatment. When they came to put out his eyes, he said 'Wait a minute until I have finished the wheel work whch no one else can do.' When he had finshed they put out his eyes feeling that in this way he could never build another. But the clock had stopped the chimes were silent, the World ball stood still, and the moon and stars ceased to move. The master had stilled the works.

Now one can go to the great Cathedral and look at the wonderful clock, but the wheels go no more and to this day no one has been found that could start the clock again.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a bottle of Amonia in your bath room. It is a fine deodorizer and is a great softener of water.

Rinse stockings in cold water after each wearing. It will make them last much longer.

A Good Facial Bath

Once a week I give my face, neck and hands a special bath of warm water to which has been added a few drops of olive oil. The oil penetrates the skin, keeping it soft, and when dried with a soft towel forms a base for face powder.

Speaking Of Women

Bernard Shaw says:

'Changeable women. . .are more endurable than monotonous ones, however unpleasant some of their changes may be; they are sometimes murdered but seldom deserted; and it is the ups and downs of married life that make it bearable.'

RECIPES

2 cupfuls uncooked oatmeal
1-4 cupful sugar
1 Teaspoonful Soda
1 Cupful Flour
1 1-2 cupfuls sour milk.
1 teaspoonful salt
2 eggs, well beaten
2 Tablespoonfuls melted shortening.

Soak the oatmeal for several hours in the sour milk. Sift together the flour, soda, and salt, and add to the oatmeal and sour milk. Add the sugar, melted shortening, and well beaten eggs. Stir just enough to moisten the dry ingredients.

Pour ito greased muffin tins, and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) Makes 12 muffins.

Bran Flakes Bread

2 cupfuls sifted flour.
4 Teaspoonfuls baking powder
1-4 teaspoonful soda
3-4 teasponful salt
1 cupful raisins
1-3 cupful sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cupful sour milk of buttermilk
4 tablesponfuls melted shortening
2 cupfuls bran flakes

Sift the flour once; measure, add the baking powder, soda, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine the egg, milk, and shortening. Add to the flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all the flour. Add the bran flakes, the raisins dusted with flour, and blend. Bake in a greased pan.
