A GROUP of more than 700 Ford dealers, executives, salesmen, families and guests from the three large eastern branches of the Ford Motor Company and the members of the "100-Car Club" received a welcome at the Ford Exposition at A Century of Progress in Chicago by Henry and Edsel Ford, who came to Chicago especially to pay tribute to the prize-winning dealers of the "100-Car Club" and to see the Fair. The Ford branch delegations pictured above include Chester, Pa. (Metropolitan Philadelphia), Edgewater, N. J. (Metropolitan New York) and Somerville, Mass. (New England). The "100-Car Club" comprises 140 dealers who sold 100 Ford V-8's or better during June. They represent the thirty-two branches of the company. A special breakfast was served to the entire 700 visiting Ford dealers at the Palmer House at which W. C. Cowling, general sales manager of the Ford Motor Company, made the principal address. The visitors inspected the Ford Exposition and other attractions at the World's Fair and attended sales conferences during their several days' stay.
