Poems by the Wayside

JUST HUMAN NATURE

The weather is quite rough, said he,
As he stood talking unto me;
'Twas January twenty-three,
And just as cold as it could be;
Said he, I'll never more complain,
Of heat, when summer comes again.

I met him on an August day,
It's hot and dry, I heard him say;
The crops are burning up, oh, why!
Should everything wither and die;
This heat is almost killing me,
When winter comes how glad I'll be.

This man was like the general rule,
When e'er it's hot they want it cool,
And when it's cool they want it hot,
They'r never pleased with what they've got
Let's try our best to be content,
To take the weather as it's sent.

The Second in the "Mountain Tops with a Master," series of sermons at Christ Methodist Protestant Church will be given next Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. The subject is, "A Mountain Top Banner."

Sunday School lessons just now are dealing with characters of the old time. They are interesting and profitable in the fact that human nature, the same today as then, finds inspiration in their experience.

The Social Wandere

Dear Roamer,

Between nursing a bad case of sunburn, holding my ears in thunderstorms, chasing fires, fanning and rocking myself, I will endeavor in a feeble way to chronicle you the few happenings that I know of during the past week. I don't profess to know all that goes on by far, or even a lot, and judging from my entonic condition above, you may guess by this time, I know very little this week. One of my friends last week didn't think I wrote you about everybody. Well, if they only knew how grateful I'd be for some extra items to tell you, my mail would be heavier than 'tis now. If they come but see me a many a hot night, scratching my head and racking my poor brain for fear that you miss no news, probably I would not have been criticised so harshly.

However, on with the show! The treasure hunt, Friday evening, given by Emory Hines and Charlotte Jane Carry comes first to my mind. Door bells were rung, wild chasing from house to house in order to get the required list of articles, recalls to my memory two, not so many months ago, that a crowd a little older than these lads and lassies participated in. Sounds terriably ridiculous to read about, or to non-participants, but they are a lot of fun once in a great while.

Well I told you last week of the number of our residents answering the call of the sad sea waves either at Rehobeth or Ocean City. I succumbed to the lure of the beach just for a day this week and lolled on the sands of Rehobeth for a few hours. Before long I felt very much at home, as so many from Chestertown people were there. If you'll remember, I told you of quite a few last week. The first person whom I ran across was Dorothy Vickers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Vickers, who was down there on a house party. I believe she expected to return yesterday. Farther up the beach I saw Mrs. Wallace Johnson, a cousin of hers, a Mrs. Lee from South Orange, her house guest, by the way, Jimmie Nicklen, Mrs. C. Beck Jones, Mrs. Frank Hines, and Mr. Horace Beck. They seemed to be busy with sandwiches when I saw them, but learned that Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Lee and Jimmy were staying, while the others happened to be on a day's picnic. On my way home, I bumped into Mrs. Brown Metcalfe and so I felt not a stranger in the land of Delaware.

But Rehobeth need not hold its head above Ocean City, for that resort is also stretching out its arms to some of our town folk. Forgive a little slip I made last week, for I believe I told you Mrs. Laurence Strong was at Rehobeth, apologies, for she, Mary Jean, and Mrs. T. B. Kilbourne are at Ocean City, where they go each year. It must have been the heat that hit me at that writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Beck, Scott, Jr., and Betty, will spend the month of August at the Maryland resort where they have taken a cottage.

The Bryan Newtons have returned from a trip to Atlantic City and as you know, that is my favorite of the three places to fill my lungs with ocean breeze.

Mrs. James G. Beck visited the hot city of Baltimore this week but only lingered a night.

Little Bobby Ann Schmall is remaining with her aunt, Mrs. Rolph Townshend, since her mother's return to Reisterstown.

Mrs. Frank Hines will be the guest of Mrs. Milton A. Reckord at her cottage at Camp Ritchie for the week end. As you know Dr. Hines is there with the Chestertown Medical Detachment, First Maryland Infantry.

Eric Wood, of New York, well known to Chestertown will arrive Saturday, today, to be the guest of the Wm. Ushton's for his vacation. And vacations remind me that Frank Beck, son of Mr. Horace Beck comes to the Eastern Shore and specifically Chestertown to enjoy his two week's leisure. I know many of the ladies who will be glad to see these young gentlemen, and maybe the other bachelors will have to perk up a bit with this new competition entering our midst.

But try as I might, and in vain do I think, no more news can I give you now. Some day I will grow prolific and then maybe you will turn back to those letters of summer days with a sign and wish for the "Good Old Summer Time" once more.

Yours till more tidings,
THE WANDERER.
