NOW AND THEN

YOUTH

"Youth has gliden wings, and eye,
Touched by radiance from the sky.
Youth has courage and no ears
For foolish threats and haunting fears.
Youth has joy, and in its quest
Flinches not to face each test.
Youth has promise, and can take
Clay, and from it beauty make.
Youth has vision, and would prove
The infinite majesty of love."

—From The Tiny Y (Easton)

How attractve youth is! Today there is a poem by a sick man, who has had a youthful nurse. He loved to watch her, and she was always ready to amuse him. Then Cupid in the form of a young doctor, came and took her away. He has another nurse now competent able to make him very comfortable. But she is middle aged, and he feels that he is old too, that the days and nights are much longer than they were when youth nursed him.

No matter now a man may dress,
Tis not his clothes that make him;
Indeed, the swells themselves confess
More often 'tis they break him.

—Anon

How often have we sat by a child's bed, and used this old old way of putting him to sleep: 'One little sheep jumped over the fence, another little sheep jumped over the fence' and so on, until we see the eyelids, droop and the little one is fast asleep. How like sheep are we all. 'We laugh at the whole flock of them jump because the leaders do so. Do not we superior beings do the same? We must always do the same thing that our neighbors do, wear the same kind of clothes, have the same entertainments, and think the same thoughts that our neighbors do.

NOW AND THEN

Speaking of old book shops there is thing more interesting than to browse there for a day. One finds among the colection so many friends which have gone out of print.

The book keeper of such a shop was telling of the many different things found among the pages of an old book, love letters locks of hair and very often money. He tells of a young man who came in sometime ago and asked for a certain book. When he found that the price was a dollar, he handled it for some time wistfully, and then handed it back. The dollar was more than he could pay. After he left, the book keeper opened the book carelessly and fund a two dollar note that had been hidden there many years. What a pity that the young man had not bought the book that he wanted so much.

Home is a very sweet name to most people. To most of us it means loving understanding friends.

This is a little poem cut out of the Baltimore Evening Sun.

HOME

Just a funny little row-house
That is all it is, I know,
Every shingle, every window
Like the others in the row.

You must tell it by the number,
For it doesn't have a name;
But to me there is a difference,
Though to you it looks the same.

When we're standing on the pavement
And we have the self-same view
I can see the inward beauty,
While the best is hid from you.

What you see is brown and dingy,
What I see is warm and fine;
For the house to you is stranger,
While the house to me is mine!

Martha Ople Hodges.

At the Farmer's Picnic at Tolchester, West Kent and Kennedyville put up a first class ball game. The game went for fourteen innings Kennedyville finally winning 4 to 2

The Curbtone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

The farmer's picnic at Tolchester this week afforded the local politicians a real chance to meet the people and most of them took advantage of the opportunity.

The Cecil County boys took advantage of the opportunity to get in some good work for James Evans, Esq., of Elkton, for Chief Judge. Among these last mentioned was William Fowler, formerly of Chestertown, and Frank Blake, who is well known in Kent County.

Bill Medders, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Medders, of Still Pond, is working hard for the nomination of Mr. Evans. They are waging what they call a fair play campaign.

It is a fact that Cecil County has, by far, more legal work than any other county in the Second Judicial Circuit. To see a Judge it is necessary to ride all the way to Denton, Centreville, or Easton. Cecil with its large amount of legal work has not had a judge for about 12 years and now they say in all fairness, that it is their turn to have a judge as they have a man qualified for the position. That is their campaign.

They claim that Mr. Evans will carry Cecil County by a tremendous majority and although the reputed leaders of Kent are for Judge Keating, they claim that they can get a good vote in Kent County and some in both Queen Annes and Caroline.

The Centreville Bar Association was also in town this week campaigning for Judge Keating.

Mason Sheehan will be in the county next week.

In fact everybody seems to be optomistic politically. All the candidates for Sheriff seem quite confident. In fact I never saw so much optomism.

The horses seem to be getting all excited about the Kent County Horse Show. A suckling colt belonging to Jimmy Clark while being broken for the Horse Show died of heart failure on Tuesday evening.

Chestertown made a very good showing at the Miles River Regatta, held at St. Michaels last week end. Mrs. Frances Young's, Mickey Mouse took second place in the 75 H. P. event. Gilbert Ingersoll attended to first place in the Barnegat class with Bill Grieb second and the Wood boys third. Paul Pippin and Jimmy Anthony made the trip from Quaker Neck in a sailing scow and showed real pluck in crossing Eastern Bay with a bg sea running. Howard Strong finished fourth in the free for all sailing evet Friday afternoon and was only three minutes behind the Magic. The post office step sailors have always contended that the Mayflower carried to much weight in the crew. She carried a light crew tis time and her new captain said, 'We needed more weight.' The Mayflower with her light crew was unable to crowd on as much sail as the other contenders.

Massey Hines and a party from Rock Hall were there. The storm hit them Thursday night and they ended up in Grasonville. Finally they proceeded on to the Narrows and were routed from there early Friday morning by the mosquitoes. Messrs. Simon Westcott, Charlie Shaffer and Commodore Hartman were down Friday afternoon and helped pep things up. Yours truly and party were there all Friday and Saturday did not miss much. Also believe it or not we did a lot of work on the Chester River Regatta. Mr. P. M. Brooks took the employees of his mill down on Sunday in the good ship Jane and arrived just abut the time everything was over. Jimmy Bowers and party were there for the whole occassion in his new boat.

Mr. Benjamin A. Johnson, of Salisbury, has announced his candidacy for Chief Judge of the First Judicial Circuit. Johnson, as he was known during his Washington College days, graduated here in 1910. He was a long distance runner, editor of the Collegian, and very popular while in college here.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration acting through the Maryland Emergency Relief Administration, has, for the past two weeks, been purchasing U. S. No. 1 Maryland grown potatoes at $1.50 per barrel. F. O. B. Shipping points

The purpose was three fold, to use more potatoes for relief purposes; to absorb some of the surplus stock and to raise the general price level. The quota of these Government-purchases for Maryland was set at 130 cars of U. S. No. 1 grade. The manner in which the 130 cars of potatoes were to be purchased was left with the Extension Service of the University of Maryland.
