NOW AND THEN

HANGING ON

It's hanging on that does it,
When others faint and tire;
To keep a'going onward
To climb a little higher.
Some folks are always weary:
They say it can't be done,
While others keep on trying,
And find in work their fun.

Its hanging on that does it
It takes a lot of grit,
But the more of that you're spending
The more you have of it;
And soon it gets as easy
As singing an old old song,
Forget that you are plugging,
And days just slide along.

It hanging on that does it,
Folk see you standing pat,
They say you are a wonder,
A genius and all that;
You laugh at their exclaiming,
'Superior brain or brawn'
And know that all the difference
Is just in hanging on.

THE CIRCUS

After the Flower and Fashion Show what? Why a circus given by the boys in Mr. Allan Harris's back yard! It was quite an affair, clowns trapeze stunts and all. Even a menagerie was there, the lion being a prize actor in the ring. The tigers, confined in their cages, were anxious to get out and join with the players but they had to stay put.

Miss May West was present. Though she did not bring her curves with her she was accompanied by her pet cat. Master Allan Harris, assisted by Dicky Foley, made efficient ring masters, and many of the actors, among them the Sutton boys, were wonderfully agile and did many tricks. Master Lewis and Carl were regular cow boys and Frances Metcalfe showed how well she could skin the cat.

A large enthusiastic crowd was present and all declared the circus a real entertainment.

The lovely fall days are here. Owing to the many rains the grass and trees are still green, but the fall flowers are abundant with their riot of bright colors while the highways are decorated with bone set, black eyed Susan and other hardy flowers.

The clouds are beautiful, piled up in fleecy heaps in the very blue sky, while the water repeats the picture. People are beginning to walk more briskly, and every thing betokens a getting ready for winter.

I saw an unusual sight a day or two ago. Old Jerry, a near dog neighbor of ours, who is beginning to show the infirmities of age, crossed the street closely followed by a black cat. When Jerry stopped the cat stopped keeping very near him, and when he moved it moved with him. I suspect such devotion from a feline cheers Jerry in his declining years but to see a cat following a dog makes one stop, amazed.

Washington College formally opened Thursday, with a program of addresse an dmusic. There are 92 freshmen to enter this year, we have been told. Chestertown grows in importance with such a bevy of young people and the learned faculty which is always elevating to a community. We extend to them all a hearty welcome.

Be sure to attend the Maryland Tercentenary pageant which takes place at the Baltimore Stadium on October 5 and 6. There is to be a Duchess of Kent, personated by Mrs. Harry Williams. She is a woman who generally carries through very well any thing she attempts to do. She, with her attendants. Miss Elizabeth Hartman Baldwin and Miss Mary L. Knotts, and William Stewart Baldwin page, and John Bibbs, standard bearer will represent Kent's County's part in the pageant. One Duchess of Kent, the mother of Queen Victoria is a much admired character, for she gave birth to and trained one of the finest rulers that England ever had. This one, however lived during the time of the House of Stuart. All the audience will be anxious to know of her part in the settlement of Maryland.

PUBLIC LIBRARY APPEALS FOR FUNDS

The Executive Board of the Chestertown Public Library is asking for additional subscribers. The readers of the books are increasing every month, and the Librarian finds the library very busy on the days the library is open.

But those who labor so faithfully to maintain it, find it hard to meet the expenses of rent, new books, librarian and janitors salary as well as many other incidental expenses.

The library should be opened every day and sufficient funds should be available to maintain this service, judging from the number of people who use it.
