INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT WOMEN

This seems to be truly an age for women. One by one we see thm placed in very responsible positions. Prominent among them, is Mrs. Relen Rogers Reid, who runs the advertising department of the Herald Tribune of New York.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the wife of the editor of the New York Tribune, had as her social secretary Helen Rogers, a bright understanding girl. When Mr. Reid was sent by Theodore Roosevelt, to England as Amassador, Mrs. Reid gladly took her secretary with her, and found she was invaluable in all the social duties in which the wife of an ambassador was expected to attend to.

When Ogden Mills Reid, their son came over to visit them in England, he fell in love with the fair secretary and she became his wife. But her activities went on, though she was the wife of a man of large means.

She was intensely interested in the cause of women's Suffrage, and spent much of her time in working for it. When, in 1918, this cause was successful, her husband said to her. 'Now come down with me and work for the paper.' So she went and for two years she carried on an advertising campaign. Now she has an office on the fifth floor of the Tribune Building and on the same floor are many women bright and clever, who are working with her. The Tribune has bought out the Herald and has changed its name to the Herald Tribune.

Although Mr. Reid is very active about the business of the paper his wife is generally recognized as the power behind the throne. She has had three children, but lost one.

Her eldest son is now going to Yale, and the other is at a boarding school. In her staff of workers, is Miss Emma Bugee. Her duties are to report all the activities of Mrs. Franklin Rosevelt and it keeps her very busy, as Mrs. Roosevelt is another very active woman.

Mr. Ogden Reid generally writes a long editorial each presidential year. Mrs. Reid always says of her husband. 'He is the most independent minded man' but although she often says this, her friends believe that she has much to do with his independence of thought.

Mrs. Coolidge, widow of Dr. Frederick Colidge spends her means in giving concerts, free of charge, for the purpose of teaching the hearers to appreciate good music. Her speciality is chamber music. She always sits very near the stage, during these concerts, but unfortunately she is very deaf. A large woman, over six feet, she has to stoop when peple speak to her. She has an acoustricon attacked to her ear, but even then she cannot hear the music that she so generously pays for. Like the great Bethoven who composed such beautiful senatas, when he could not hear them himself so she furnishes other with the joy of hearing the beauty of sound. She usually holds these concerts in Washington, but this year she had them in Pittsfield, Mass., her adopted home.

Mrs. Grace Coolidge, the wife of the President Coolidge, although they are no relation, did much when she was in Washington to establish concerts in different places in Washington, among other places the Congressional Library where they have concerts every Tuesday evening.

Thurston, the magician, who has delighted his audience many times by his wonderful magic, retired last summer, and went into the wild of Canada to spend the summer.

But the applause of the crowds and the many lights of his Theatre was haunting him so he decided to return to the stage although he is over 65 years. He says, by attention to laws of health and dict, he thinks he will cut twenty years from his age, adding 'My body is the handy work of God, and there is no reason why one cannot live and keep young.'

He is ably assisted in his work by his daughter, Jane. She is both pretty and charming and is as much interested in the work as is her father.

PRINCESS MARINA

Marina who is soon to marry Prince George, the fourth son of the King of England is a proficient cook, with a thorough knowledge of domestic science. Since her first teens she has taken a share in domestic work with her sisters. She makes a particularly choice afternoon tea cake, which is popular at 'five o'clocks.' Prince George has sampled her cooking and pronounced it excellent. He declares it is a qualification he has 'noted for future reference.'

It is likely that the Princess will find it rather difficult to conform with the understood rule that no woman of the royal family smkes in public. She loves a cigarette after her meals, and often when motoring, too. Prince Nickellas, father, is never happy without a cigarette and at a recent art exhibition, where a celebrity was making a tediously long speech, he exclaimed to a friend, 'What a nuisance we can't smoke.' 'Why don't you start?' answered the friend. 'They can't say anything to you and then we call all smoke.' So the Prince lit up and everyone followed suit.

How soon fashions votaries adopt themselves to the prevailing style. When the small waist came in it seemed unpossible that the large loose easy fitting waists culd be made small, but with very broad shoulders the dress growing smaller as it reaches the waist line it gives the figure a tapering hour glass effect.

There is a very pretty combination of blue green with black vlvet. High neck dresses are worn with these colors. Brown is holding its own deep seal brown. Dark brown is the prevailing color for hosiery this season.

Hints for the Household

FOR OCTOBER
By BETTY WEBSTER

October has, to the youthful mind, at least, two very important days—Columbus day on the 12th and Hallowe'en. The first offers extensive possibilities for entertainment. For children and grown-ups, too, an 'explorer's party" is most amusing.

Each guest may be asked to dress to represent his favorite explorer and to wear the character's name on a slip of paper pinned to the back of the coat. This will provide the basis for a jolly 'get acquainted' game. Everyone is given a paper and pencil and asked to make a list of the explorers at the party. These lists are compiled from the identification slips on the backs of the participants. Each one, however, is to be as careful as possible not to allow the others to see his name. A prize may be awarded for the longest list.

Ship Model for Table Centerpiece

The table at which the refreshments are served might have as a centerpiece a ship model—either one which you have had or one which you can manufacture out of cardboard, muslin and varnish especially for the occasion—and for place cards painted sailing vessels.

The menu might consist of Treasure Island salad, American sandwiches, North Pole sundaes and African delights. The salad is made of a slice of pineapple with a piece of celery standing upright in the center and piercing a thin slice of bread. Of course, this as you can readily see, represents a raft with a sail and the lettuce, the water.

American sandwiches are made like ribbon sandwiches with alternate layers of cream cheese tinted red and blue.

North Pole Sundaes are vanilla ice cream with marshmallow sauce.

The African delights are tiny squares of cake frosted with chocolate.

This party may be changed to suit your own desires, but is effective handled almost any way.

2. Lemons can be kept for weeks if they are buried without touching each other in a stone jar filled with dry sand?
3. Soft bread is a splendid wall paper cleaner?

TELLING THE WORLD

Washington — Evidence that the equipment forces of the Bell System Companies are constantly on the alert to pick up noises that might interfere with telephone and radio transmission is indicated by a brief story appearing in the radio gossip column in the Washington Daily News recently.

"An idea of the part played by the telephone company in radio was afforded yesterday when WJSV put on a broadcast of a hive of bees, with a talk on their behavior.

"The bees, of course, got on the air first, and before the announcer could explain, the telephone man was calling WJSV to find out what was causing that 'buzzing on the line.'"

In telephone offices throughout the country engineers and maintenance men are constantly supervising the telephone circuits so that the radio programs being transmitted over the 112,000 miles of telephone lines daily will reach the homes of listeners-in clearly and distinctly.

Engines Have Stomach Ache

Even railway engines have their "stomach" aches, and their diet, particularly liquid, has to be watched, says a bulletin of the motive power department of the Canadian National railways. It all comes about through the property possessed by water of dissolving certain minerals in the earth. To distil water for locomotives would entail enormous expense; some locomotives use about 14,000 gallons of water on an average run of 185 miles. Therefore treating plants have to be maintained to break down the minerals in the water, particularly sulphate of lime, carbonate of lime and carbonate of magnesia that deposit a scale in the boilers which causes loss of power and overheating of the boiler plates and damage to the tubes—in other words "stomach" ache.

"So you had all the men following you at the summer resort?"

"Yes. It was really too easy. Why, I didn't even have to wear my three most extreme bathing suits at all."

Puretest ASPIRIN

For headaches, neuralgia, pains or colds, you may depend upon Puretest Aspirin. For it does not depress the heart or irritate the stomach. Then too, Puretest Aspirin disintegrates in 2 to 7 seconds giving you almost instant relief.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Fesent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
