"Nerves" "NERVES" "Nerves"

Dr. Miles NERVINE "Did the work" says Miss Glivar

WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT?

After more than three months of suffering from a nervous ailment, Miss Glivar used Dr. Miles Nervine which gave her such splendid results that she wrote us an enthusiastic letter.

If you suffer from "Nerves." If you lie awake nights, start at sudden noises, tire easily, are cranky, blue and fidgety, your nerves are probably out of order.

Quiet and relax them with the same medicine that "did the work" for this Colorado girl.

Whether your "Nerves" have troubled you for hours or for years, you'll find this time-tested remedy effective.

HANDLING DOGS IN SHOW RING

YOUR DOG AND MINE

By EDWARD C. LOUD, JR.

The conditioning of the dog for the show ring and the actual handling in the ring are the two important factors of your dogs success.

Strangely, after you have looked at your dog day after day before the date of the show, you wonder how you could have failed to note that he is perfect according to the standard. You are unable to locate any faults in him. Behold, however, when you reach the show hall and place your dog in a stall. Suddenly you observe on either side of him numerous dogs and in some strange fashion you begin to suspicion that perhaps your own dog is not the perfect animal you had believed.

But there has been a person selected whose opinion will be official in this regard, that is, the judge of the breed. And when your class is called and you take your dog into the ring, you get the official opinion of one man. Bear in mind that one show does not make or break a dog and that the awards at a show are one man's opinion of your dog, which opinion, however, is official.

Don't feed your dog enroute to the show but feed him shortly after you reach the show or wait until after his class is judged because the hungry dog makes a keen dog and a better shower in the ring.

Learn when your class will be called and be ready to enter. Enter the ring first rather than last in order to give your dog more to make himself at home. Always keep the dog on the left side if possible and your leash in your hand as you enter.

Step into the ring briskly with your dog and keep his attention on yourself and what is about to happen. Do not let him wander around aimlessly or get his mind on other matters, particularly other dogs. Keep in complete control of your dog and yourself and do not let another exhibitor place his dog too near yours either purposely or accidentally.

Here are sme don'ts for the show ring do not wear your hat, do not smoke, do not annoy your dg constantly, do not chat with spectators.

Study the judge and try to learn the way he likes to have the dog handled. Don't call your dog by his registered name and don't tel the judge about the previous wins of your dog. He is judging the dog as the dog is at present, not the dog's past or your own name or influence.

Keep your dog always in sight of the judge and always on your left. Do not get into the shadows of artificial light.

When the judge calls a halt after the dog has paraded around in the ring, start posing your dog. If absolutely necessary have ome tidbit such as boiled liver or ground beef, to give your dog occasionally to keep him alert.

If he is inclined to be down on his toes or not to hold his head up properly, keep him tight on the leash. As a matter of fact all dogs should be shown without the leash drawn. Do not punish your dg in the ring and don't get between the dog and the judge. cmfwyp judge. Above all, have your dog alert.

This chapter can well be closed with a paragraph frm Will Judy's 'The show in the ring.

'The spirit of the show ring is the same spirit as that f the whole dog show and the dog fancy-sportsmanship. A smile, gentlemanly conduct, and good sportmanship always are in order. To lose must not be a signal for complaint, loud talking and childish conduct. A good loser has not won but he has not altogether lost. If you win, smile; if you lose, smile; and make one smile as sincere., as the other. Your dog loves you just as much whether you take a blue or a white or none at all; and he's just as good a dog as before he went into the ring. One show does not make or break a dog. But one instance of bad sportmanship in or near the show ring can break a reputation.'
