The Social Wanderer

THE SOCIAL WANDERER

Dear Roamer:

Aren't these the typical fall days with the leaves at last taking the red and golden hues that are due them at this season. Then too, so many things around us make us keenly conscious of the Autumn—the smell of burning leaves in the air, early morning fogs, little girls going from door to door selling the bright red bittersweet, while busy housewives in the hum of the semi-annual house cleaning, throw out the old faded yellow vine and gladly welcome the fresh for their newly washed vases. Plus this, we see the store windows and show cases, crowded with all the Halloween paraphernalia which simply enthralls the kiddies, and sometimes the grown-ups. Personaly, Halloween has always had a fascination for me and I can't imagine anything being more fun than a party with spooks and ghosts goblins and witches, off in an old country house somewhere. Maybe if I wish hard enough, I might enjoy such a one some day.

Well, the affair at the club Saturday night has definitely taken the form of an old time fish fry and oyster scald, down on the beach, with the dance at the Club House following. I hear that the music is to be exceptionally good and already my feet are patting in preparation. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wilson from Lansdowne will come down for the big event and will be guests of the Jim Metcalfes.

And while we are struggling with our fish bones, members of a more youthful crowd will be enjoying a Halloween party, the host of which will be, little Allan Harris who will celebrate his 11th birthday on Saturday. The young gentlemen will start off the evening with a feast of luscious ice cream, the ever famous birthday cake and all the extra goodies. Thence to the movies will the whole party proceed.

You can have your choice of which party you might take in, the fish fry or this, but I wager they will both be equally good.

You should have been here this week to attend the Antique Tea, given by the Literary Club for benefit of the Library. The little library really looked adorable with the prize antique possessions, that were loaned, most artistically arranged. The display was beautiful and carried one back into days of long ago. A table, decorated with orange candles and a trick little centerpiece of small flowers, held all sort of cookies and cakes which were offered as we sipped our tea, after viewing the articles in front room. Really it was a most pleasant afternoon and everyone certainly got their 25 cents worth by far.

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Barroll on the birth of a son born this week. There are now three boys who will some future day be nice beaux for the little belles of tomorrow.

Turning to weddings, we learn that Miss Elizabeth Leary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ellsworth Leary was married this week to Mr. George Richard Rogers, of Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed at Wesley Chapel, and after their honey moon the newly weds will reside in Philadelphia. Miss Leary is a graduate of Goucher College.

Folks in town and near, still come and go. Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hines visited a few days in Baltimore this week, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weaver. Mr. Jack Stenger is in Baltimore this week end attending the Maryland State Teachers' Association. Mis Mary Lynn is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Metcalfe, and Miss Ann Welch comes from New York on Monday to spend part of her vacation with her aunts, Mrs. Etta Founain and Mrs. Herbert Skipper. The latter part of her vacation will be spent on a cruise to Bermuda. Mrs. Harry Simpers has been in Washington all week, while Mrs. Ralph G. Beachley has returned after a month's visit to relatives in Iowa. Mrs. Henry Beck has been the guest this week of Mrs. Allan Haris, but will go to Centreville Saturday for a few days before returning to her home in Dallas, Texas. Miss Mary Roberts will spend the week end with Mrs. Albert Kenly.

Saturday night, friends of Miss Fannie Beckham, who has resigned as the County Healthy Nurse, will give her a farewell party. Miss Beckam leave shortly for Washington, where she will make her future home.

But, I better run to bed now, or the goblins will get me if I don't watch out. Yours,

The Wanderer.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, of Philadelphia, is the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ford.

Mr. Parks Rasin, Jr., of Baltimore, is the week end guest of his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard I. Coulton, of Harrisburg, Pa., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Hendershott.

Mrs. James W. Kirby has returned from St. Louis where she attended a session of National Representatives of the Daughters of America last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Halton, of New Jersey, were guests over the past week nd of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McIntire. Mr. Winfield Scott is their guest this week.

Mrs. James Ward, of Baltimore, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter U. Lusby last week.

Dr. Charles Whaland is receiving congratulations upon the observance of his 85th birthday. He is still actively engaged in the practic of medicine and drives his automobile daily.

Messrs. Ridgely and Irving Brown and their aunt, Mrs. Burt, left on Friday for a motor trip to West Virginia where they will visit relatives. Mr. Ridgely Brown will move to Federalsburg next week where he will assume his new duties as rural mail carrier

Mr. Howard Owens, merchant and former Postmaster, of Betterton, is ill at his home in that town.

ROTARIANS TO HONOR JUDGE ADKINS

OYSTER BAN IN UPPER CHESTER

AREA RESTRICTED DUE TO POLUTION

Following reports that the restrictions had been lifted for the catching of oysters in the upper part of Chester River, a communication from the State Department of Health stated that that part of Chester River above Northwest Point was still restricted to oystermen due to the polution of Chester River by the Chestertown sewerage system.

The line, as defined by the Board of health, which is the up the river boundary for catching oysters, is from a point known as Bell on the North West Point farm to the northern point at the mouth of Brown Creek known as Taste. This line marking the restricted area has not been changed for a number of years and is confined to oysters alone due to the fact that they can be eaten raw. Other seafood such as fish and crabs are not included in the restricted area because they have to be cooked before eaten.

This communication from the State Board of Health also included a statement from the Conservation Department to the effect that no permits had been issued to oyster in the restricted area.

It is understood that when a sewerage disposal plant is built at Chestert own this restriction will be lifted.
