The Social Wanderer

Dear Roamer,

Well Hallowe'en is over, and I am still here. The goblins didn't get me after all. I am mighty glad too, for since then I've been hearing a lot of interesting news, some of which I will tell you now, and the rest, I'l have to keep you guessing a bit for awhile. However, while we are still in the Hallowe'en nood, I want to say that the holiday was well celebrated in this town and its outskirts.

A party out at Mrs. Samuel Emory's Tuesday evening for the benefit of Old St. Paul's attracted a large contingent of the older as well as the college set. The house was attractively decorated for the occasion and all the Hallowe'en games were played when dancing wasn't in progress. The costumes were certainly varied, and I might say, some were most original. Mrs. Peter Brice won the prize, being dressed as a cat. Cakes, dougnuts, and punch were served as refreshments, and I don't think the hostess was worried about what to do with the left-overs.

Then on Wednesday, the big night itself, aside from the Cross Street entertainment which drew a huge crowd of spectators as well as participants, Mrs. Wiliam T. Dixon entertained out at Green Point Farm. Jack O'Lanterns giving out their weird lights from their perch on gate posts greeted the guests on entering the yard. Bobbing for apples, the flour cake dive, descending the cellar steps backwards holding a mirror in one hand, a lighted candle in the other to see one's fate, all made a jolly evening and with the very spooky game of Murder, the evening was complete, topped off, of course, with the usual Hallowe'en refreshments of doughnuts and punch.

Mrs. Dixon closes her house Sunday and will spend a few days in Baltimore before leaving for Savannah, Ga., for the winter. She will be accompanied by her youngest daughter, Miss Josie Dixon.

This is home coming week up at Washington College, and big doings are in store for the week end. Any number of alumnae with their families are expected back, and all will be on hand for the game Saturday afternoon between Washington and Susquehanna. That night, there will be a dance at the college, and an old time get-together is anticipated. And then there has been home coming for others beside college alumnae. Frank Hines, Jr., came Wednesday from Old Hickory, Tenn., where you remember he is located with the Du Pont company, to spend a week with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank B. Hines. This is the first time he has been home since last Spring and I know his many friends here are sharing his parents' delight in his return.

Little Frederica Metcalfe was home from St. Mary's Seminary over last week end for the first time since the opening of school, and you can imagine how home is appreciated at last, to these returning so seldom. We all have to go away to realize how grand a place it is. And I speak from experience.

While on the subject of homes, Dr. and Mrs. Moyer moved into their new place of abode on Washington Ave., this week and Dr. and Mrs. Turner moved to the Brigg's home over in Queen Anne's.

There have been some guests in our midst this past week, among whom are, Miss Smith, the sister of Mr. Kellogg Smith, who lives in Washington and is actively engaged in Educational Work (you may have seen her picture in Time Magazine recently), Mr and Mrs. Ralph Gongiver from Wabash Indiana, who are visiting Mrs. Charles Hulett, and Miss Peggy Young who until her recent return to New York was visiting Mr. and Mrs Wallace Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson entertained informally at supper Sunday evening in honor of Miss Young. Mrs. Elizabeth Hensen, of Chattanooga, Tenn., is the guest of Mrs. Simon Westcott, Mrs. Westcott entertained a few ladies at bridge Wednesday evening in Mrs. Hensen's honor.

That about covers all of the out-of-town visitors that I can think of now, so let's see who of us have been travelling some. Mr. and Mrs. Roland Corey, and little son, Reese, spent a delightful week end up at Carlisle, Pa., as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Masland. I understand it was quite a house party and reports indicated everyone had a thoroughly good time. Mrs. Corey's mother, who has been spending some weeks with her son and daughter in law, Lt. and Mrs. Harry Derringer at Yorktown, Va., has left and is visiting her brother, Dr Hurtt in Washington before returning to Chestertown next week.

Mrs. H. Clay Brown left last Sunday for Baltimore and has been spending all of this week with her sister in law, Mrs. Gilpin out in Guilford. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Huey have been visiting relatives and friends on the lower Eastern Shore and Delaware while Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Reynolds have left for a two weeks motor trip to Iowa.

I learn from Dr. E. M. Dole that her son, Charles, who was operated on for an emergency appendicitus case at
