THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

THE RECENT EFFORTS of the Council of Chestertown and various lady organizations to map and carry out a plan to beautify the streets of that town with the planting of trees, shrubbery, etc., is the first real move along that line since the Ladies Town Improvement Association abandoned their efforts a number of years ago. The setting is ideal for improvements of this kind and their efforts should be encouraged on every hand. It will be necessary that the public encourage and give every possible cooperation to these efforts if they are to accomplish their purpose.

WHILE ARMISTICE DAY is set aside as a day to celebrate the ending of hostilities in the largest and most disastrous war of all time, it is generally accepted by the ex-service men of this country as a day on which to remember those who gave their lives for what they believed to be the right. The day is generally marked by gatherings of ex-service men and others at which time prominent men deliver speeches and it is interesting to note the differences of thought in the minds of these so-called great men. Too often greatness is judged by political achievement and too often these great men cannot keep politics out of their speeches even on a day as sacred and glorious as Armistice Day. There has been much talk since November 11th, 1918, of the influence that various industrial organization, international bankers, etc., had in causing America to enter the World War which takes away from those who served and those who gave their lives all the glory of having offered their lives all for the cause of that they did and still try to believe was the preservation of humanity and self government. During the sixteen years since the signing of the Armistice the glory and heroic deeds of veterans have been forgotten but is it not fair to let them remember on one day in the year the fact that they served and heir buddies gave their lives for a just cause, without having to listen to political speeches which seem to be the order of the day? If these speeches are made in the interest of peace to prevent future war they are wasted on war veterans because no one favors peace more than those who have served during war. Colonel Grant's address to the ex-service men in Chestertown Monday night was far different from the type mentioned above. He justified America's entrance into the war, pointing out that it was necessary in order to assure the security of government by the people and he left his audience with the satisfied feeling that their services were for a just cause and that their efforts were not in vain.

REGATTA DATES INDEFINITE

DATE OF THIS YEAR REGATTA CHESTER RIVER YACHT AND COUNTRY CLUB REGATTA TO BE PASSED ON

This week, the Chester River Yacht and Country Club joined the American Power Boat Association and plans for the most active yachting season the club has ever had. It is hoped to have a Regatta sanctioned by the Association. The Club has requested the dates of August 14th and 15th or the 21st and 22nd. The National Association passes on the dates in January. If these dates are approved, the first American Power Boat Association santioned regatta to be held in Chestertown will be this summer.

The A. P. B. A. has charge of all championship races and it is hoped that Chestertown can get some championship races in the next few years at least.

According to present indications the requested sanctioned dates will be possible. In addition to the regular regatta the Junior Members of the Club will stage another Crumpton to Chestertown outboard race on July 4. It is expected that about fifty outboards will be in the event.

Several sailing races are also planned for the summer but the dates of these hove not yet been decided.

Work on next year's regatta is already underway.

WASHING OF FOOD NECESSARY

'Wash your hands thoroughly before you prepare any food for eating,' Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health. reminds housekeepers, cooks and all others who handle or serve foods. 'After that has been done,' he says, 'be sure that the apples, the pears, grapes, and other fruit you are putting on the table or are packing in Johnny's lunch box, and the vegetables you are getting ready for dinner, are also thoroughly washed before you serve them.

'Whether they are raised at home, or come from a long way off, the fruits and vegetables that are in general use today, go through a great deal of handling before they reach you or me. A thorough washing before they are served will remove dirt or soil acquired in handling, and will get rid also of substances used to protect the growing crops from insect pests.

'In the majority of instances, the spray that is used to destroy the insect pests is washed off by the summer rains, while the vegetables are maturing and the fruit is forming. In a dry season the spray is not so readily removed. On that account, it is always safer to wash both fruits and vegetables before using them.'

WASHINGTON PLAYS HAVERFORD TODAY

DELAWARE GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Quite a number from the County will journey to Haverford, Pa., this Saturday to see the annual University of Delgame. Washington is the big favorite but Haverford will not be taken as a set-up.

A still larger crowd is expected to go from here to Newark a week from today to se the annual University of Delaware-Washington game. Delaware is a slight favorite but supporters of the local team think Washington can take them over.

ISSUE 960 GUNNING LICENSES

Clerk of the Court, Robert A. Shallcross had issued 960 resident gunning licenses at the time of going to press. This is 250 short of the usual number but it is still very early in the season.

The Post office department has issued 175 Federal water fowl hunting stamps which shows the proportion of the above licenses were taken out by duck and goose hunters.

MARYLAND CROP REPORT

CORN CROP REPORTED ABOVE AVERAGE

The present production outlook for Maryland corn is for a crop slightly larger than that of last year and about 8 percent above the 5 year (1927-1931) average, according to the November 1 crop survey of the Maryland Crop Reporting Service. Field work made rapid progress during the dry weather of the past few weeks and at the close of the month the handicap of a wet September had been largely overcome. Wheat sowing, however, averaged a little later than usual. Early sown wheat is up to a good stand and has a thrifty appearance. Over half of the corn has been husked.

The production of feed grains is expected to be about 3 per cent higher than that of last year and 8 per cent above average. The total tame hay crop is about 9 per cent larger than last year and 20 per cent above the average. Corn is a good crop in the Eastern Shore and in the central and southern sections, but spotted in the western counties where yields were severely reduced by the drought. Considerable mold damage in the shock is reported. The oats crop was only fair but barley production was larger than for some years. All hay yields were good.

Late potato yields were disappointing as a rule. The crop was adversely affected by dry weather soon after planting and at the close of the season early frosts cut yields still further. The total crop is about 14 per cent above average. Sweet potato yields were lower than earlier expected.

The apple crop is light this year but of fairly good quality. Production is about a fifth below last years' small crop, and only slightly over half of the average.
