MEN OF BETTERTON MEET

89 PRESENT AT MONTHY MEETING

Eighty nine men from the vicinity of Still Pond and Betterton gathered in the basement of the Betterton M. E. Church Wednesday evening for the regular monthly meeting of 'The Men of Betterton.' These monthly meetings consist of a dinner which is followed by a program under the direction of one member of the club who is assigned for each meeting.

The program on Wednesday was orranged by Mr. Archie Crew and consisted of various antics in which those present were called upon to take part. The evening was a very enjoyable one and everyone present enjoyed an evening of fellowship. Rev. Geo. Turner, of Cecil county, was present and contributed to the program with two solos.

This club was organized by Rev. W. Vaughn Moore of the Betterton Church who has been very active among the men and young people of that section of the county, and through this club he has created a bond of fellowship among the men of all denominations in the vicinity of Betterton and Still Pond.

The club is strictly stag although in any affair where food is prepared the ladies are behind the scenes.

Mrs. Evelyn Harris played the piano for the various musical numbers on the program.

The next meeting of this club will be December 18th.

PAGEANT WELL RECEIVED

The presentation of the pageant, Story of America, presented by the Home Makers Club of Kent County at William Smith Hall, Washington College was an interesting occasion. It was under the supervision of Miss Helen Skellinger home demonstration agent and Mrs. John Sweetman had charge of the music.

'MOTHER DEBORAH' DIES IN WILMINGTON

Having reached the age of 106 years 'Mother Deborah, colored died at her home in Wilmingon last Thursday evening. She was born in Chestertown during the term of President Jackson in 1828, and until her death could tell of many events in the making of our nation. Her memory seemed keen to the end and her eye-sight was good. She had cut her third set of teeth, which remained with her until her death. She had married on John Wesley Riley who died several years ago. She was brought back to Chestertown and interred here.

W. C. TO PLAY U. OF DEL.

CROWD EXPECTED TO ACCOMPANY TEAM. DOWN HAVERFORD LAST WEEK 39 TO 14

The big game of the Washington College season will be played Saturday at Newark, Del. Washington so far has an undefeated team and has played one tie. Delware does not boast such a record, but they have played stronger teams. Interest is running high and several bus loads of College students along with the Chestertown Band will make the trip. All fans interested in the college team will be there at the kick off.

Last week a large crowd of college students and town people accompauied the Washington team to Haverford. Washington ran up a score of 39-14 against Haverford. Washington was able to gain ground in every department of the game although their passes were not so effective. On the defense Washington could stop everything Haverford had except their end runs. Haverford gained quite a bit of ground on this play.

Bill Nicholson, Kent County boy smashed the Haverford line at will for big gains and played a good game in backing up the line. All the Washington subs saw action.

Huffman, Washington College star backfield man did not get in the game. Huffman was hurt in the Mt. St. Mary's game and since that time the coaches have been saving him for the U. of Del. game.

NOW AND THEN

THE HEARTS ANCHOR

Think of me as a friend, I pray,
And call me by a loving name;
I will not care what others say,
If only you remain the same.
I will not care how dark the night,
I will not care how wild the storm,
Your love will fill my heart with light
And shield me close and keep me warm.

Think of me as your friend, I pray
For else my life is little worth:
So shall your memory light my way
Although we meet no more on earth.
For while I know your faith secure,
I ask no happier fare to see:
Thus to be loved by one so pure
Is honor rich enough for me.

—William Winter

Everyone has heard of Greenfall, the great missionary who went to cold, bleak Labrador, carrying joy and comfort to the desolate hearts of the inhabitants there. Although he is an English Episcopalian, he worked in unison wih all the creeds there. He tells of a Catholic farmer who broke a pathway through the snow very early in the morning, to carry some milk to a sick man, who was a devout Methodist. In visiting the hospital, which he had established, Greenfall found a man who had been bitten by a fish and was in danger of losing his hand unless skin was grafted on it, so he and his companion both offered their skin for that purpose. The Doctor afterwards laughed and said, 'Well, the top of his hand is English Episcopal, and his palm, Scotch Presbyterian. And yet the hand could do very good work. Those who heard Mr. Greenfall lecture before the Geographic Society last winter, found him most interesting. His work was hard, but it was a joy to him that he could make the conditions there so much better for the dwellers in the land. His friends, and those who knew of his work helped to build hospitals, churches and more comfortable homes for them.

It is said that Hungarian Gypsies are great thieves, and knowing that whenever a collection is made they whenever a colle ction is made they compell the one who collects to keep a fly imprisoned in his other hand, thus making them sure that he could not take any thing from the collection plate.

The Women's Literary Club is discussing the many great characters who have added their part to the founding of Art learning, and science. One of the outstanding among these is Leonardo de Vinci, scientist, sculptor and artists. In his fertile brain he conceived the idea of flying as the bird flies, and he really invented the first air ship, in that early period. But his name is more famous for having painted two great pictures, one, The Last Supper, and the other Mona Lisa latter, Mona Lisa was bought from the painter for $40,000 by Francis, the French King, and for many years it has been hanging in the Louvre at Paris.

Mona Lisa and her inscrutable smile has been an enigma to those who gaze upon her, and wonder if she had learned to love the artist who had painted her.

But a recent investigator, in searching through old records is convinced that Mona Lisa is in mourning for her only child, and that the artist is trying in every way to comfort her sad heart; that the artist and the model's husband were fast friends. It disappeared from the Louve some twenty years ago, having been cut from the frame, but it is back again in its old place, having been returned as mysterously as it disappeared.

GUARDSMEN RECEIVEA TTENDANCE HONORS

LOCAL GUARD UNIT STAGES EXHIBITION AND DANCE

The Medical Unit, First Maryland Infantry were hosts on Tuesday evening of this week to a large number of friends at an exhibition drill and dance at the Chestertown Armory.

The drill consisted of infantry maneuvers and first aid demonstrations which were a credit to the men and their officers. If the other units of the First Maryland Infantry are trained as well as the local detachment, that regiment is something of which Maryland can be proud.

Following the manuvers medals for perfect attendance at drills were presented to the following: Staff Sargeant Walter T. Morris, Sargeants, H. G. Blyman and P. C. Starkey, Corporal J. W. Story, First Class Privates, G. S. Chaires, W. W. Elburn, L. S. Mulford and W. P. Robinson; Privates S. S. Smith, S. J. Waller, George J. Massey and W. D. Sutton. The officers of the local company are Major Frank B. Hines and Lieutenont Herman Blackway. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

COUNCIL INSPECTS SHORE TOWNS

In preparation for the construction of a disposal plant in Chestertown, Messrs. C. N. Satterfield, George W. French and George W. Rash, representing the Council, visited a number of towns on the Shore and made inspection of the disposal systems and studied the financial condition of these towns.

The towns visited were Centreville, Easton, Sharptown, Salisbury and Del-Mar. The result of the inspection showed that Chestertown is in excellent financial condition as compared with other towns on the Shore.

WEDDINGS OF SOCIAL INTEREST

GERALDINE HARWOOD AND GEORGE BILES MARRIED

Announcement was recently made of the marriage of Miss Geraldine Harwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harwood, of Philadelphia, formerly of Chestertown and Mr. George J. Biles, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Biles, of Philadelphia and Quaker Neck, Kent county. The ceremony was performed very quietly in Philadelphia due to the illness of the bride's father, Mr. Thomas Harwood, on Saturday, November 10th.

Following a honeymoon at Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. Biles are living in Germantown where Mr. Biles is connected with the United Gas Improvement of that city.

The bride is a graduate of Washington College and was very popular among the younger set in Chestertown.

ELLIOTT—HAMILL WEDDING DEC. 7

SCANDAL ROCKS BETTERTON

WELL KNOWN LOCAL MAN INVOLVED

RAYMOND SILCOX SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

It has recently been rumored that a well known local man has become entangled with a woman. A scandalous situation is the result. He is being sued for breach of promise.

The appalling situation is being clothed in dark secrecy. To date little can be learned concerning the case except that the plaintiffs name is Nellie Bly. The defendant in the case who is the victim of Nellie's claims is Raymond Silcox.

It is said that most of the leading citizens of Betterton, Still Pond and Kennedyville will be involved in the case in one way or another.

Dates set for the notorious trial are Tuesday and Wednesday, December 4 and 5.

In addition it is said that the members of the Methodist Church have important information concerning the affoir, which they are withholding for the present.

Important announcements will be made in these columns at a later date. The question is, 'WHO IS NELLIE BLY?'

LECTURES ON FLORICULTURE

DR. A. F. COOK ADDRESSES FLOWER LOVERS

An interesting lecture was given in William Smith Hall, Monday evening by Dr. A. F. Cook, of Penn State University and instructor in Floriculture.

Dr. Cook's talk on arrangement of flowers appealed not only to the professional florist, but to every layman who at some time or other is a florist in his own hme Few there are who are not called upon to make some orrangement almost daily. For the benefit of those who were not present, the writer will touch on few of the high lights covered by Dr. Cook. He spoke of the artistry of the Japanese, their avoidance of symmetry, which we Americans are so prone to have in our display of a bowl or vase of flowers. The Japanese, will take three branches of a shrub or vine, bend them, and as illustrated by Dr. Cook, complete a most artistic effect. Avoid hurry when arranging, have a definite idea in mind. Color harmony and balance were discussed. Never have more than three species in a vase, one type often grows monotonous, two varieties very good. Regarding color balance, the darker shades are heavier and therefore should be placed nearer the base.

Use the more aristocratic flowers such as roses lillies of the valley, snap dragons, orchids, etc., in silver or glass containers, while zenias, chrysanthemums, etc., in pottery. Pitchers are not recomemnded for flower vases.

The effect of day light, candle light and electric lights on coloring of the flowers was most interesting. Blues and cold colors fade away under electric lights, therefore warm tones were advocated, using the cold shades for daylight. Candle light was found to blend all shades.

Contrast was a helpful keynote in Dr. Cook's talk. In a dark or black bowl or vase use light or bright shades, while in a white vase use darker flowers.

Baskets are not recommended for the layman, as the average person has so much to consider in his arrangement of such and is advised to leave the professional florist to deal in these intracies.

In placing candles on your table, never have your candles higher than your centerpiece, and the low candlesticks were thus advised in preference to the taller ones.

At the conclusion of the talk, Dr. Cook invited quesions from the audience and those present were free in seeking advice over troubling problems. We are glad to say that Dr. Cook has promised a return engagement to Chestertown and the writer hopes those who were unable to hear him this week will avail themselves of the privilege of hearing one of the country's experts in this line.

OUTDOOR CONVENTION HELD

HUNTING AND FISHING CHIEF TOPICS OF DISCUSSION

Sportsmen from all parts of Maryland gathered in Baltimore this week for Maryland's first Outdoor Convention, at which time hunting and fishing were thec hief topics of discussion.

Mr. E. Lee LeCompt, Game Warden for Maryland stated that water wild fowl were not decreasing in Chesapeake Bay waters and Mr. J. N. Darling of the Federal Biological Survey upheld the new federal ducking laws and referred to those who are protesting the present law as squawking duck hunters.

One action that was of particular interest to the watermen of Kent County was the fact that the convention went on record as opposing the use of sunken gill nets during the period from December to March. This method of fishing has provided a livelyhood to a large number of watermen in the vicinity of Rock Hall for a number of years. It comes at a time when no other type of fishing is profitable.

ARMORY READY FOR BASKET BALL

The preparations are nearing completion at the Chestertown armory for the bas ket ball season. The preparation includes the hanging of baskets and erection of seats.

The Washington College basket ball games will be payed there and the seating capacity will be ample to provide excellent seats for all who attend. The court at the armory will have many advantages over the W. C. gymnasium in the fast that it will be much larger, will give the players more room to run under the baskets and off the side lines.

The season will open with two home games Ursala on December 14th and West Chester Teachers on December 18th. Under the arrangements at the armory there will be no reserved seats.

SMALL BAGS OF DUCKS REPORTED

Duck hunters in Kent County are still wondering how the ducks caught on to the change of the ducking days so quick with thousands of ducks quietly resting on the water way out of gunshot without any apparent ambition to seek company with the large stools of decoys. Experienced hunters, however, know t hat the ducks are feeding on the bated shores during the late afternoon and beautiful moonlight nights. The present law prohibits the shooting of ducks over baited areas after 3 p. m. The bags have been small and hunters are hoping for blustery weather.

The Curbstone Diplomat

WILLIAM S. COLLINS

There is a great deal of enthusiasm about the Washington College University of Delaware game to be played at Newark this Soturday. The local band is going. A dance will be held afterwards and a general good time is planned. In other words a lot of people are going for the added attractions.

It is claimed that the Navy rooting section is a big drawing card where ever it goes. Many go to see the combination that would not attend just a foot ball game.

If Washingtn College stages its basket ball games in the Armory this year, there will be plenty of room for the student body to put on some extra attractions that would help swell the attendance. Just a plain basket ball game is probably good enough for hubby but a little extra attraction might bring wifie too.

Sheriff elect John N. Bennett's ox roast was well attended. It was all free.

A free dance at the Armory on Tuesday night attracted a large number of people.

The depression seems to be making free entertainment popular.

The local hospital has been having rather rough sledding since its erection. A short time ago it was opened up and operations started. Due to finances it was impossible to hire a nursing staff. Several nurses in the community have volunteered their services and by these sacrafices a number of children undergo operations for the removal of tonsils each week. Mr. Jesse Maxwell has volunteered his services as superintendant which requires several days and a night each week. With the cooperation of the local medical staff this hospital is playing its part as a public benefactor in the community.

An unusual combination is a dog and a cat but we have such a combination in Chestertown. Jerry a very old air-dale owned by Mr. Henry Kratzer, Sr., has a black cat as a constant companion. Jerry is very old and they say he has fallen arches. Getting around is right much of a job for him. But wherever he goes he is attended by the black cat which acts the part of a nurse. Whether Jerry likes it or not it is hard to say. He never seems to pay any attention to the cat whatever. On the other hand kit is always eager to rub up against him. If Jerry does not like it, there is nothing he can do about it. But, as someone remarked it seems that the cat would find attending Jerry a rather slow life.

Another unusual cat story. A certain family in town had a cat with six very small kittens. They went away on a trip and the cook was given the time off. The cook lived in the colored section quite some distance from the home. Mrs. Cat was uneasy and hungry with nobody at home all day. The second morning when the cook opened her door there was the cat and the six kittens. The cat had made six long trips taking a kitten each time. The mystery is how the cat knew where the cook lived. To the cook's knowledge the cat had never followed her home.

The boys down in Georgia may not know much about spelling but they evidently mean what they say:

On a farm in South Georgia, is posted this sign; 'Trespaser's will be persekuted to the full extent of 2 mean mongral dorgs which ain't never been ovarly soshibil with strangers and 1 dubble barrel shotgun which ain't loaded with no sofy pillers. Dam, if I ain't tired of this hel raisin on my proputy.'

CELEBRATE ELECTION VICTORY

Six quarters of beef and a large quantity of trimmings were consumed at a barbeque held this week in celebration as Sheriff of Kent County. Mr. Bennett was host of the occasion and thanked those present for their support at the election. Sheriff Bennett will assume his new duties December 1st.

LIQUOR LICENSES PROTESTED

HEARINGS HELD AT COURT HOUSE HERE

The Bureau of State Licenses, sitting at the Kent County Court House on Thursday afternoon of this week, heard protests against three applications for beer and liquor licenses in Kent County. There were four cases scheduled for hearings but the protest against the issuance of a license to Mr. Ralph H. Cannon, of Millington, was withdrawn.

The case of Romie Taylor, of Piney Neck, was the first one heard. Objectors who testified were Gilbert Ashley, who owned an oyster packing house in the vicinity, John F. Frazier, Hodgson, Daisy Beck, next door neighbor. O. E. Frazier testified as to the shipments of beer to the place and the dates and times of these shipments. Francis Collison also testified.

The application for a liquor license must contain the signature of ten tax poyers and it was shown at the trial that only nine of the signers were tax payers; for this reason the application was rejected. Due to the strong feeling against the issuance of the license, it is understood that a new application will not be made. No defense witnesses testified.

The second case was objection of beer license, on sale, being granted to Geo. A. Pletzer, of Gratitude. Objection was raised due to the type of place Mr. Pletzer had been keeping. Objectors to testify were: Mrs. O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Rogers, Mr. Wm. Hastings, E. N. Culley, Mrs. Loane and Mrs. Lottie Neale. Defense witnesses were: Mr. Pletzer and his son who has a beer license near Tolchester. The defense brought out that he was moving from his location and would no longer be in the immediate vicinity of the objectors.

The objectors were represented by Herbert E. Perkins and the applicant by S. Scott Beck.

Decision in this case was postponed.

The case against S. Scott Thompson, of Chestertown, to obtain a Class A. off sole beer and liquor license was the final case and lasted until after six o'clock.

Attorney Herbert E. Perkins who represented the objectors called the following witnesses: George French, Samuel E. Cooper, S. R. Collins, Walter Bennett, Leonard Needles, Mrs. Harvey Blyman.

On the defense witnesses called were Mr. Fisher, Mr. Gordon and E. Scott Thompson, Bryan Newton and Robert Harris.

The main objection was to the large number of colored people which the place brought into the white section on Sundays and as to whether or not the place was a boni-fied grocery store. The defense argued the new license would remedy the objection. The verdict will be submitted by the Board at a later date.

TO ADDRESS HISTORICAL SOCIETY

James E. Hancock, the Secretary of the Maryland Historical Society, and a leading manufacturer of Baltimore, will be the guest speaker of the Washington College Historical Society on Monday afternoon, November 26. He is the resident f the Maryland Society of the War of 1812 and of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution, and is also affiliated with a score of other historical and patriotic Societies. Mr. Hancock was the directing head in the Restoration of Fort McHe nry as a vocational shrine of which the Secrtary of War appointed him as custodian. He is the author of numerous pamphlets and publications on historical subjects. In the civic and cultural affairs of his city, Mr. Hancock is regarded as a leader. The address will be delivered at 3.15 on the afternoon of November 26, in Room 21, William Smith Hall. The General Public is cordially invited to hear this noted speaker.
