DR. GEORGE ZOOK TO SPEAK HERE

NATIONALLY KNOWN EDUCATOR AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE FEBRUARY 21

The mid-winter convocation at Washington College, which will be held on February 21, will be featured by an address by Dr. George F. Zook, of Washington, D. C., who recently resigned as United States Commissioner of Education to become Director of the American Council on Education, according to announcement made by President Gilbert W. Mead of the College today.

Dr. Zook is noted as a speaker on educational subjects and has been for years an acknowledged authority on matters pertaining to higher education in the United States. He was for some years Chief of the Division of Higher Education in the United States Bureau of Educaton previous to his election as President of the University of Akron, where he served from 1925 to 1933, leaving that position to become United States Commissioner of Education last year. The February Convocation of Washington College is traditionally held at a time coinciding with the celebration of Washington's Birthday in commemoration of his intimate connecton and services in the founding of the College.

OCEAN CITY FAVORS BAY BRIDGE

TRADE ASSOCIATION TAKES MATTER UP WITH ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCE

The proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge will be considered by a special committee of the Baltimore Association of Commerce during the next few days, it was announced at the association's headquarters in Baltimore.

This action, according to G. H. Ponder, executive vice-president of the association, will be at the request of the Chamber of Commerce of Ocean City, Md., that the association 'take the leadership with similar organizations throughout the State in seeking from the Governor and the Legislature and the Federal Government funds necessary to construct a bridge across the Chesapeake Bay.'

Two resolutions of the Ocean City group were sent to the Association of Commerce. One deals with the proposed bridge project the other with the Ocean City inlet, which is nearing completion. It is planned to name the opening Roosevelt Inlet, in honor of the President.

The bridge project has been under consideration for more than five years. In 1929 the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Company received its franchise from the Legislature to finance the project through private capital. This failed and the General Assembly appropriated $70,000 for two years to make up any deficiency in tolls to meet maintenance and bond interest. Another sum of $480,000 was provided to build approach roads.

Last year the company brought an R FC loan of $6,250,000, but this could not be negotiated. It then was planned to seek a PWA loan of $8,500,000 and the creation of a Chesapeake Bay Bridge Authority, but Gov. Ritchie opposed the scheme on the grounds that the project then would be State owned and State directed.

It will be remembered that the late State Senator Orlando Harrison, of Worcester county was one of the chief advocates of the bridge several years ago. Senator Harrison stated at that time that his interest in the bridge was due to the big asset it would be to Ocean City.

MARYLAND MUSINGS

Honey bees in a fruit producing region are considered to be worth about fifty timse as much for crosspollination of fruit bloom and the bloom of certain crops as they are for value of the honey crop.

Pullets ought to be housed comfortably before they start to lay. Those which start to lay before they are housed stop when moved, and once a pullet stops laying it takes two or three weeks to get her started again.

NOW AND THEN

ODE TO A PEN

BY ALICE MATHEWS

O New Year's pen, with grateful praise
To Heaven your goodly point I raise!
You are a pen I trust may show
The world of men which way I go
For O I would right wisely write
And keep an Angel's Wing in sight
To lift my purpose, my desire,
By real accomplishment up higher
The every day that doth appear
All through this wonderful New Year.
Let never man I beg be bored,
'The pen is mightier than the sword,'
And so, O New Year's pen, please bring
A clarion call that I may sing;
And kindly let my melody
Be none the worse for ink, or thee.

I find this among a collection of poems.

A Lesson Nature would teach and one whch would be well to practice this New Year,

"Two ears and but a single tongue
By Nature's law to man belong!
The lesson she would teach is clear,
'Repeat but half of what you hear.'

A real London fog! The morning gray with no outlook at all, though we all know that beyond the fog the sun is shining.

Like the Benztown bard, who has taught himself to say, 'This is a beautiful world to live in,' look beyond the clouds in your minds eye.

As Dr. Coey used to say, 'I am getting better and better every day,' said by his patients, did them more good than many doses of medicine.

'How hath the mighty fallen!' came to my mind this morning as I saw a bedraggled Christmas tree trailing behind a trash cart, heaped with rubbish. So recently I had seen it with its proud boughs uplifted bearing glittering ornaments, while gleaming colored lights shone from its branches. And now, being dragged away in the dust! But after all it may begin a life of usefulness. It can become a post or help to make a cedar chest to keep the moths away, or if not, cheer some one with it cheery blaze. Even after it is reduced to ashes it may help fertilize some flower bed, thus aiding it to bring forth flowers, fragrant and lovely.

The old bell that still hangs in the tower of Emmanuel Church, though it has been superseded by a larger one, was for many years the only bell in town. It was the School bell, the College bell the bell that rang in the New Year and tolled the passing of the old:

Now that its clang is no longer heard, and others have taken its place, there is no longer a bell to 'Ring out the old, Ring in the new.'

Ring out the false, Ring in the true.'

What we are wishing for the New Year is that kidnapping, dishonesty and graft may be a thing of the past, and that Peace, and prosperity, Religion and justice may rule in their stead, thus making the world a happier place in which to live.

Advice to Country Politicians from The Old Farmer's Almanac 1796 and well fitted for today.

Go weed your corn, and plow your land,
And by Columbia's interest stand,
Cast prejudice away;
To able heads leave state acairs,
Give ralling o'er, and say your prayers,
For stores of corn and hay.
With politics ne'er break your sleep
But ring your hogs, and shear your sheep,
And rear your lambs and calves;
And Washington will take due care
That Briton never more shall dare
Attempt to make you slaves.

Some people do not enjoy music as witness the following by an unappreciative host.

'After the company had gone, the Mrs. did her stuff, 'Why did you sit on the piano stool all the evening while our company was here—you can't play a note.'

'I know it'—Hubby chuckled—'Neither can anyone else while I'm sitting there.'

MENTIONED AS WESTERN MD. COACH

GEORGE EKAITIS CONSIDERED AMONG APPLICANTS

George Ekaitis, foot ball coach at Washington College, has been mentioned as coach at Western Maryland to fill the position caused by the resignation of Dick Harlow. Mr. Harlow has accepted a position as football coach at Harvard.

Ekaitis attended the foot ball banquet at Western Maryland Wednesday evening and, while no official offer has been made him, his record at Washington College this year is a big feather in his cap.

FAVORS DREDGING ROCK HALL HARBOR

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough has reintroduced into the House of Representatives a bill providing for a preliminary examination and survey to be made of the harbor at Rock Hall, Kent County, Maryland. The bill has been referred to the Committee for Rivers and Harbors.

This project may come under the large public works program planned by the Federal Government.

DUCKING SEASON ENDS TODAY

FEDERAL LAW CLOSES SEASON JANUARY 12

One of the most unsuccessful ducking seasons in the upper part of Chesapeake Bay waters closes today, Saturday, January 12th.

A number of reasons for small bags have been stated by duck hunters. Some contend that due to the large amount of natural feed the wild fowl have been able to feed on the flats and shallow places in the bays and rivers and did not have to toll to the bated shores. Others state that the Federal law which allows shooting only from sun up to 3 p. m. affords ample feeding time between these hours. Then too the weather has not been severe enough to drive the ducks in the rivers. Still others contend that the Federal laws permitting shooting only on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays has worked a hardship on hunters due to the fact that the good shooting days depends entirely upon cold blusting days which this season has prevailed mostly on the four days in the week on which the season was closed.

Geese Plentiful

Geese have been plentiful this season and the shooting in the wheat fields has been good. There were probably more field blinds this season in Kent county than ever before which scattered the geese along the entire bay shore.

RESCUED FROM DROWNING

TIDE REACHES MAN'S CHIN WHEN MIRED IN MUD

The timely arrival of Mr. Albert White and his son, George saved Mr. Martin Taylor, of Quaker Neck from drowning in Back Creek Tuesday afternoon when he became stuck in the mud and the tide was raising fast.

Mr. Taylor, who is about sixty five years of age, had walked out on the mud in Back Creek to tie his boat and on returning to the shore he sunk in the mud. His efforts to get out only mired him deeper and hs calls for help were not heard. The tide was coming and gradually reached his shoulders; the chill of the water which a few days ago was ice chilled him to the point where he became semi-conscious.

Mr. White and his son were walking along the shore in front of the farm o. Mrs. William Maxwell and heard some one say 'Where am I, I don't know where I am.' They looked across the creek and saw only the man's head above the water, the tide having reached his chin. A row boat was launched and they pushed through the mud and water and after some difficulty succeeded in pulling the victim in the boat. When they reached him he muttered 'Oh God, this is a funny place.' He was rushed to his home and put to bed but on Thursday was able to be out and around, apparently no worse from his experience.

Back Creek is a tributary of Comegys Bight on Chester River between Deep Point and Cliff City.

BUDGET YOUR PHYSICAL RESOURCES

If you have not had an adult made recently of your physical assets and liabilities, go to your doctor at the beginning of he New Year, and have it done, is the advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, to grown-ups in Maryland, along with his New Year greetings, with wishs for health and happiness for young and old in the State, in 1935.

'It is quite as important,' Dr. Riley said,' to check up on your physical resources as it is to look into the state of your financial possessions. By regular care under your doctor's direction, you can conserve your physical assets and can avoid the accumulation of destructive liabilities.

'Each of us starts with a certain amount of physical capital. Merely as a personal business proposition, it is worth while to conserve it to the best of our ability. In infancy and in childhood, our physical resources, as a rule are safeguarded for us. As we grow older, the responsibility for doing so rests to a large extent upon the individual. The critical period for many comes in middle life with the sudden sharp realizaton that the physical capital is yielding diminishng returns in the way of physical well-being.

'The records of health departments and of insurance companies show that from ten to fifteen years have been added to the average length of life, or to what the statisticians speak of, as the 'expectancy' of life. But the same records let us see that a large part of the deaths reported every year, are due to what are known as the degenerative diseases of middle age, heart disease, other diseases of th circulatory system, diseases of the kidneys, cancer, diabetes and other ailments. Over half of the deaths that occur in Maryland, every year, are charged to these causes.

'Nearly all of these diseases have slow beginnings, and their onset can often be recognized, in the course of a thorough physical examination, be fore they have gained serious headway. In the majority, early detection of the menacing conditions with a readjustment of physical expenditures and a better budgeting of activities under the doctor's direction, will help to shift the balance from the unfavorable to the favorable side of the ledger.

'Let your doctor be your auditor. Then budget your resources as he directs.'

LOCAL MOONERS DEFY DEPUTIES

DEPUTIES SHOOT ONE AFTER BEING FIRED ON

EIGHT ARRESTS MADE IN MOONSHINE WAR NEAR ST. JAMES CHURCH

Six local residents are in the Wicomico Jail, one in Easton Hospital and one out on bail as a result of an attack on a Federal officer and two local deputies who were attempting to destroy a still on the farm tenanted by Mr. Charles Meekins on the road from St. James Church to Smithville Sunday afternoon.

The officers, William T. Roe, of Sudlersville, Federal investigator and Deputies John N. Bennett, Jr., and Archie Lesage went to the farm of Charles Meekins, known as the Thumlet farm, for the purpose of destroying a 750 gallon still which they had previously located in the woods. While making preparations to destroy the still and mash they were suddenly ordered to throw up their hands and saw seven shot guns pointing at them in the hands of seven masked men.

Th officers dove behind the wooden boxes containing the mash and shot rained over their heads and into the wooden boxes. They returned the fire and the masked men retreated, reloaded their guns and fired again and for the third time some of the masked men reloaded and fired.

All but two escaped, the officers arresting Merritt Meekins and John Clayton. The officers picked up 3 guns, 3 masks approximately 37 empty gun shells in the woods. After bringing the two prisoners to the Chestertown jail they received a tip that Albert Clayton, brother of John Clayton, had gone to Dr. Atwell's office in Still Pond for treatment of a bullet wound in his hip. He was brought to the Chestertown jail where he was treated by Dr. F. B. Hines and then taken to Easton hospital. Wilbur Rodney was arrested at his home here later that afternoon charged with being implicated in ownership of the still. On Tuesday three colored men John Wilson, Jeff Freeman and Ed Butler were arrested on a charge of being implicated in the shooting affair.

All of the accused were taken to the Salisbury jail where their bail was set at $5,000. Charles Meekins, tenant on the farm is out on bail, his bail having been reduced to $500. They are being held on Federal charges.

According to a statement made by Sheriff John N. Bennett, Albert Clayton approached him Saurday night and said that he was interested in a still in Kent county and that if he would leave it alone he would tell him where there were two large stills. Sheriff Bennett advised him to stay away from any still and have nothing more to do with it. Clayton then asked if local deputies would help raid the stills to which the Sheriff replied that the activity of the deputies was their own secret.

According to confirmed reports Clayton saw the officers at the still and organized the gang that fired on them.
