

JAMES DUNN and SHIRLEY TEMPLE are once more buddies in Shirley's newest Fox Film starring picture, "Bright Eyes," dramatic story of an ace's orphaned daughter and her adopted dad. "Bright Eyes" is Shirley's biggest vehicle to date.

A character endeared to millions by the Saturday Evening Post stories and the books of Gilbert K. Chesterton assumes real flesh and blood and comes to life on the screen in Paramount's 'Father Brown, Detective,' coming to the New Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday, January 21 and 22.

As acted by Walter Connolly, he is the same amiable eccentric and foxy old character who catches thieves with kind words and intelligence where the police of the world had failed with their modern detection methods.

The story of 'Father Brown, Detective' is built about the Flying Star diamonds n Father Brown's possession and the efforts of Flambeau, notorious jewel thief, to get them.

Although Father Brown has the thief well within his grasp several times, he refuses to apprehend him and turn him over to he police until he has recanted of his own free will.

The fight for the diamonds thus resolves itself into a battle of wit and will, with a beautiful girl who loves Flambeau taking a hand in the fight.

At last Flambeau, convinced of the error of his ways, gives himself up freely to the police, hoping to recant his crimes and earn the respect of the girl he loves. And Father Brown plays the double role of sleuth and Cupid.

Paul Lukas and Gertrude Michael are cast in the principal supporting roles, and Robert Loraine, Una O'Connor and Halliwell Hobbes appear in the featured cast.

Directed by Edward Sedgwick, 'Father Brown, Detective' was produced by Bayard Veiller who has proven himself, in the past, a successful producer of mystery thrillers; notably, the recent 'Menace' and 'The Notorious Sophie Lang.'

Popular songs of more than 50 years ago are revived in 'Helldorado', Jesse L. Lasky's latest Fox Film production, which is coming on Wednesday and Thursday, January 23 and 24 to the New Lyceum Theatre.

'Oh, Susanna' and 'Oh My Darling Clementine' are the oldtime favorities, which like 'The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze' and other antique tunes, bid fair to be re-popularized by the screen.

In 'Helldorado' the entire cast, headed by Richard Arlen, Madge Evans and Ralph Bellamy, participate in singing the ancient songs. 'Oh My Darling Clementine' is a mining song, which originated in '49. 'Oh Susanna' was popular a generation later.

Both numbers have a swing and rhythm not unlike that of 'The Daring Young Man.' 'Oh, Susanna' lends itself particularly to clog dancing, and in 'Helldorado' Stepin Fetchit interprets the tune with his feet.

James Cruze, famed for his outdoor spectacles, in Western settings, directed 'Helldorado', from a script by Frances Hyland, Rex Taylor and Frank Mitchell Dazey.

Shirley Temple—most sensational film discovery of the year—will be seen at the New Lyceum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, January 25 and 26, in her latest and, according to all advance reports, her best Fox picture, 'Bright Eyes.'

'Bright Eyes' was conceived as a Shirley Temple vehicle by David Butler, who directed the film. The story was suggested to him, it is said, by a real life incident occurring at a commercial airport near Los Angeles.

Relating the idea to Sol M. Wurtzel, Fox Film producer, he found the latter at once fired with enthusiasm. Together with Edwin Burke, famous screen writer who adapted 'Bad Girl' and other hits, Butler was promptly put to work by the delighted producer, setting the idea down on paper. Then its adaptation was handled by William Conselman. Apparently it represents an entirely new type of vehicle for the remarkable child player.

Once more James Dunn is cast as Shirley's leading man—a fact which is said to have enchanted the young star. Jimmy appeared as her daddy in 'Stand Up and Cheer' and 'Baby, Take a Bow,' and Shirley has eyes for no one else, they say, when he is on the set.

Preview audiences in Hollywood are said to have greeted 'Bright Eyes' as the finest and most heart warming picture in which Shirley has been seen. A human and compelling story, that at moments brings the tears, is combined with thrills that will chill the spines of any audience. So runs the advance report.

LOOKING UPWARD

The Greek word for man is anthropos'; it means 'the upwardlookng creature.' From the ugliness of life in factory and tenement we look up to a beauty which ever haunts us. From the stains of life in remorse we look up, scarce daring to hope, to a purity which will 'not let us go.' From our imperfect knowledge we look up to a truth which ever beckons. We are born with this feeling for the eternal. The Spirit which broods over us is living—living enough to constrain our living spirits.—George A. Buttrick.

BLINDFOLDED! YOU CAN PICK OUR JANUARY CLEARANCE

Clearances may come and go. In big stores or small stores. But this January Clearance of 1935 stands out from all the rest like a ball of fire in a black sky. Blindfolded—you need only to feel qualities, hear prices and you'll say, "It's from NOLAND'S." This has been our greatest winter Clearance, and it isn't finished yet by a long shot. There are still hundreds of prices reduced to clear, and shoppers are enthusiastic as on the first day. So come along—blindfolded or eyes opened wide. You'll save much either way.
