Debs Turn Messenger Boys to Help Million Americans Say Happy Birthday to Roosevelt

With New England fishermen, western cowpunchers, northern lumberjacks and sedate metropolitan business men joining hands to stage Birthday Balls for the President in more than 5,600 cities and towns on January 30, the debutantes are doing their bit by turning messenger boys to help a million Americans say happy birthday to Mr. Roosevelt and thereby aid in the drive to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis. It's all made possible by a plan under which the Postal Telegraph Company, as its contribution, has offered to gather the names of all Americans wishing to aid the Birthday Ball movement and present these names to the President on the world's largest birthday greeting message. Postal officials throughout the country are accepting names at twenty-five cents each, the entire amount to be devoted to the war against infantile paralysis. Seventy cents of every dollar will return to the community raising it, the other 30 per cent going to the President's Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research, of which Col. Henry L. Doherty is chairman. Right and left, child sufferers who will be aided by the novel birthday greeting plan in every city, (center) Miami, Fla., debs rustling up names for the big message, and (below) American youngsters who will be spared the ravages of infantile paralysis if the disease is conquered in this country.

DAVID COPPERFIELD FROM THE MOTION PICTURE COMING TO

Based on the Novel by CHARLES DICKENS

1. Eight-year-old David Copperfield, lives in a pleasant vine-covered cottage at Blunderstone, England with his beautiful young mother. His father is dead. One evening, as David reads from his Crocodile book to Peggotty, his nurse, the door opens and his mother comes in with Mr. Murdstone, whom David secretly calls "The Black Panther." Distrusting him, David is rude and his mother is displeased.

2. The next day Peggotty takes David to her brother's boathouse at Yarmouth for a short visit. There he meets Uncle Dan, Ham and Little Em'ly. He loves the little fishing village with the proud sailing vessels in the harbor, but he is soon glad to be journeying home again to his mother. The door of his home opens to disclose a strange woman servant with a hard, forbidding face.

3. David enters the cottage and finds, to his horror, that Mr. Murdstone is now his stepfather. A new existence begins for him. "The Black Panther" and his sister Jane are cruel and merciless. Mr. Murdstone is harsh to Mrs. Copperfield and beats David for the slightest reason. A year later David's mother dies.

4. The Murdstones dismiss Peggotty and David tearfully bids her farewell, sure he will never see her again. Then Mr. Murdstone, threatening David with the cane, tells him he is a wicked boy and is being sent to London to work. How will little David fare in the great city? See tomorrow's installment of "David Copperfield."
