WHILE THE MARYLAND Legislature and Congress are looking for ways and means of raising millions of dollars for relief purposes, there is apparently too little thought given to ways and means of eliminating part of the relief burden. The recent request that the state appropriate $30,000 to establish a school to train relief workers is in the minds of the average citizen an indication that the large expenditures for relief purposes is to become a permanent thing and the tax payers are standing on the side line wondering what the end will eventually be. It seems that it would be timely for the formation of a strong organization to combat the spending spree which is constantly being pyramided by Federal and State employees who are on the receiving end. While the Legislaturt is no doubt doing their best to hold down this expense they are being besieged on every hand by advocates of the spending spree and are receiving too little support from those who will pay the bill. While it is the desire of every liberal minded citizen to help those who are actually in distress, it is apparent on all sides in all parts of the State that many who are now enjoying the hand out could be eliminated from relief rolls with a little individual effort.

Naval Guns of 1812 and Civil War Short Rangers

Naval guns of the War of 1812 were weapons of short range compared with some of the land guns constructed at an even earlier period. The American frigate Constitution and its British antagonist, the Guerriere, carried long guns capable of shooting a mile, and short guns, or carronades, with a range of a quarter to a half mile, says John A. Menaugh in the Chicago Tribune. The Constitution had 30 long 24-pounders and 22 carronades shooting 32-pound balls, while the Guerriere had 30 long 18-pounders and 16 32-pound carronades. But ranges meant very little to the naval heroes of old, who brought their ships together for close action, who maneuvered their vessels about to butt each other like billy goats, who ordered boarding parties to clear the enemy's decks with flashing cutlasses, and who often resorted to the firing of red-hot shot into the enemy's hold in order to set fire to his wooden decks and stanchions or explode his magazines.

The Civil war found naval engagements still carried out at fairly close quarters. The Kearsarge and Alabama, typical of naval development of that day, both carried smoothbore Dalgrens and rifled cannon, the extreme range of the most powerful of the weapons being about a mile. The Kearsarge had four short 32-pounders, two 11-inch pivot guns, and one 30-pounder rifle. The Alabama had six short 32-pounders, one 100-pounder rifle, and one 8-inch shell gun.

WOULD ELIMINATE MARYLAND MY MARYLAND

The following editorial, which appeared in the Leader, claimant of being the only Socialist and Workers paper in Maryland, gives the anti ideas which are working in the minds of those organizations. The State anthem, which is sung on all occasions by Marylanders without any thought of creating any antagonism by the words of the song. The Socialist editorial follows:

'MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND'
An Editorial

Threescore and ten years ago, Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomatox, and the struggle between the North and the South, it was hoped, had ended forever. Nevertheless, there are a number of self-styled patriots today who plan to revive that hatred anew. A bill introduced recently in the General Assembly of the Maryland 'free state,' has, so it appears, that purpose in mind.

This bill proports to make 'Maryland, My Maryland,' into the the legalized 'Maryland State Song.' Children in the public shools, and men and women in the movie houses, over the radio, and in fact at every public function, will be required to sing the song as a form of patriotic duty. It will become a part of the State tradition.

But why should we become so alarmed at such a procedure and practice? Because the song teaches hate! One of the stanzes of the song reads as follows:

'Huzza, she spurns the Northern scum!
'Maryland, My Maryland.
'She breathes! She Burns! She'll Come! She'll Come!'

What occasion s there for singing such a song at this tme? Why should Maryland BURN? Whom shall Maryland BURN? What shall Maryland BURN? Why are the Northerners scum? Is it necessary to stir up hatred toward our fellow countrymen?

To the average person the song seems innocent enough, for he hardly remembers the words. But now that the song, after these many years has been dug up from its dusty grave and brushed off for use, we can recognize the hate it embodies. There is enough malice and hatred in the world without adding more. To teach our children:

'The despot's heel is on thy shore,
Avenge the patriotic gore,
Thy beaming sword shall never rust,
Remember Howard's warlike thrust,
Virginia should not call in vain,
She meets her sisters on the plain.
'Sic Semper'- 'tis the proud refrain,
Better the blade, the shot the bowl.'

is but to teach them hate for their fellowmen.

Do the citizens of our State want their children to be taught intolerance and the glory of war, or do they want them to be taught the higher wisdom of goodwill and peace? There can be but one answer. Let the voice of the people ring out loud and clear; Maryland must not scar its record by making 'Maryland, My Maryland,' into its State song!

Let everyone write their representatives to vote against the passing of this bill!

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE
...use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.
