

YOUR DOG AND MINE

THE POMERANIAN

BY EDWARD C. LOUD, JR.

Arctic snows may seem a far cry in connection with the toy bred pomeranian; yet the pom clearly is a member of the general spitz family, which includes most northern dogs. The name is derived from Pomerania, a province in northern eGrmany. The immediate ancestor was the wolf spitz dog weighing 30 to 40 pounds. The pom ranks as one of the most popular toys both in England and America. Prices have well maintained and the breed is distinctive, well defined in type and will likely maintain its prestige far in the future.

Buoyancy and activity are mentioned in the standard as pom traits. This breed is ever on the alert, quick to detect sounds and therefore an excellent watchdog. Thy are jealous of their masters, notice everything that is happening, and find life interesting. They love exercise and can withstand cold and hardship well. Their brilliant coat and coloring combined with keen activity, make them a permanent favorate.

General appearance of the Pomeranian—In build and appearance should be a compact, short coupled dog, well knit in frame. His head and face should be fox like, with small erect ears that appear sensible to every sound; he should exhibit great intelligence in his expression, docility in his disposition.

Head of the Pomeranian—The head should be somewhat foxy in outline, or wedge-shaped, the skull being slightly flat, large in proportion to the muzzle, which should finish rather fine, and be free from lippiness. The teeth should be level, and on no account undershot. The head in its profile may exhibit a little stop, which must not be too pronounced, and the hair on the head and face must be smooth.

Eyes of the Pomeranian—The eyes should be medium in size, rather oblique in shape, not seen too wide apart, bright and dark in color, showing great intelligence.

Ears of the Pomeranian—The ears should be small, not seen too far apart nor too low down, carried perfectly erect, and like the head, should be covered with short thick hair.

Nose of the Pomeranian—Should be self colored in browns and blues. In all other colors, should be black.

Neck and shoulders of the Pomeranian—The neck should be rather short, well set in, and loin like, covered with a profuse mane and frill of long, straight hair. The shoulders must be tolerably clean.

Body of the Pomeranian—The body must be short and compact, being well ribbed up and the barrel well rounded. The chest must be fairly deep and not too wide.

Legs of the Pomeramian—The forelegs must be well feathered and perfectly straight, of medium length. The hindlegs and thighs must be well feathered down to the hocks. They must be fine in bone and free in action. The feet small and compact in shape.

Tail of the Pomeranian—The tail is a characteristic of the breed, and should be turned over the back and carried flat, being covered with long spreading hair.

Coat of the Pomeramian—Properly speaking there should be two coats, an under and over coat; the one a soft fluffly undercoat, the other a long, perfectly straight coat covering the whole of the body, being abundant around the neck and forepart of the shoulders and chest, where it should form a frill of profuse, standing off, straight hair, extending over the shoulders as previously described. The hindquarters, like those of a Collie, should be clad with long hair of feathering from the top of the rump to the hocks. The hair on the tail must be, as previously described, profuse and spreading over the back.

Color of the Pomeranian—The following colors are admissible: black, brown chocolate, red, orange, cream, orange-sable, beaver, blue, white and parti colors. The blacks, blues, browns, and sables must be free from any white, and the white must be free from any lemon or any other color. In parti colored dogs, the colors should be evenly distributed on the body in patches. A dog with white foot or chest would not be a parti colored dog.

DAVID COPPERFIELD FROM THE MOTION PICTURE COMING TO

Based on the Novel by CHARLES DICKENS

David is sent to school at Canterbury. He lives with the Wickfields, and little Agnes is his constant companion, while Steerforth is his best friend at school. He also meets Uriah Heep, Wickfield's clerk, whom he suspects is a scoundrel. Busy and happy now, the pleasant years slip by quickly.

David, now a young man, is in London bent on a career as an author. He has left behind him the Wickfields and his old friends, the Micawbers. By a strange coincidence Micawber has been given a position as assistant to Uriah Heep. In London with his friend Steerforth, David meets Dora Spenlow and falls in love with her.

One day, walking on the beach with Steerforth near Dora's home, David chances on the Peggotty boat-house. They pay them a visit and David again meets his dearly beloved nurse, Peggotty. But a few weeks later he is horrified to find that Em'ly, betrothed to Ham, has run away with Steerforth.

Soon, David's first story is published and he visits his Aunt and Agnes to tell them of his approaching marriage. Aunt Betsey disapproves but Agnes hides her broken heart. Then she tells him that Uriah Heep is now a partner in her father's firm and that he has some mysterious hold over Wickfield. What can it be? Watch for tomorrow's exciting installment.

FEEL TIRED, ACHY—"ALL WORN OUT?"

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

Is a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

WHERE'S ELMER?

He'S inviting his sweetie to go in town to the movies.

Elmer was pretty tickled when Pa put in a telephone.

It makes things rather soft for him, seeing that sweetie lives five miles away.

And does he use that telephone?

Someday someone will write an epic about young love and the telephone.

CONFERRED WITH LOCAL COMMITTEE

DR. JAMES WALLACE CONFERS WITH LOCAL HEALTH COMMITTEE

Dr. James Wallace, Field Director of the American Public Health Association, visited Chestertown on February 7 and conferred with the Health Committee of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce and the Deputy State Health Officer, Dr. R. G. Beachley, who is also chairman of the Committee. The members of the Committee are as follows: Dr. R. G. Beachley, chairman; G. Ellsworth Leary; Mrs. Nora C. Maxwell, Mrs. Nell C. Westcott, Supt. Louis C. Robinson, A. Sydney Turner, Jr., J. S. Kreeger, Dr. H. B. Simmons, Wilbur Ross Hubbard, Dr. G. H. Dana, Wroth Stavely, Dr. Gilbert W. Mead.

Dr. Wallace complimented the committee on having been selected from professions and businesses in the County, making it a very fine representative group and also was pleased with the interest shown by the Committee.

Heretofore, the Health Committee has entered Chestertown in the Inter-Chamber Health Conservation Contest. One year our county seat was highest in cities of its class (20,000 population and under) and each year since then has been an honor city in its group. This year the whole county is to be entered as a rural unit.

This is the first year rural units have been permitted to enter and 101 counties, or more than 50 per cent. of those eligible in the United States, have enrolled. In order to be eligible a county must have a countywide, full-time Health Department, a countywide Chamber of Commerce or civic body and that organization must be affiliated with the United States Chamber of Commerce. Kent happens to be next to the smallest county on the list.

This new contest, among the counties, was made possible by a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Michigan, which is greatly interested in promoting rural health work. The contest among the cities is financed by the various insurance companies throughout the country.

For the rural feature of the contest the United States is divided into six geographic divisions: three east of the Mississippi and three west. Maryland belongs to the mid-Eastern Division. Those scoring highest in each of the six divisions will be the winning counties. All Delaware, our neighboring State, is taking an active part: Wilmington as a city unit and each of the three counties, each being able to meet the requirements.

The final report of this County must be before the Grading Committee of the Insurance Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce by March 15 and the decisions will be reached within the month so that the awards may be made at the National Meeting of the U. S. Chamber early in May in Washington, D. C.

The reports from the County are ably compiled with much supporting data and forwarded in book form to the Grading Committee. These splendid reports from Kent have been used on various occasions throughout the country, having been in demand by some of the largest Universities for use in the Public Health work.

FIGHT CARD ANNOUNCED

THREE KENT COUNTY BOYS ON CARD. GONZALLES AND BOB COSDEN IN MAIN BOUT. TEX NICHOLS ALSO ON CARD. FIGHT WILL BE HELD ON WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY, FEBRUARY 22ND. WASHINGTON COLLEGE BOY TO FIGHT

Again Gonzalles will be in the main bout at the Centreville Armory. His opponent will be the old warrior, Bob Cosden, of Cordova. The bout is scheduled for 8 rounds and a real treat should be in store for the fans. Gonzalles and Cosdon met about 6 weeks ago and t was considered one of the fastest fights ever held at Centreville. Gonzalles knocked Cosden down twice in the first round nearly out once but Cosden staged a comeback and knocked out Gonzalles in the fourth. This is the return bout. Don't miss it.

A Washington College student will feature the first bout, a four round affair. Chick Chaffey a junior at Washington Collge will take on Kid Ewing, the tough boy from Cordova. Ewing trimmed Kid Smith, of Betterton, at the last fights. Chaffey thinks he can take Ewing measure. Ewing thinks different.

Our own Tex Nichols, of Betterton, who has no record to brag about either. Wild hay makers will the program. Tex always stages a good show.

A real fight is promised in the third set to. A. 6 round affair between Joe Obregon and Jerry Beadenkoff. This will be their third meeting. The first one resulted in a draw, the second Obregon's by a knock out. They were both good fights. What will be the result of the third meeting?

The semi-windup, 6 rounds, sounds, like an extra special. Reddy Shreeves, the popular fighter from, Onley, Va., and who has made quite a reputation at Centreville and elsewhere vs. Jack Stanley of Crisfeld, Md. Stanley has quite a reputation and is making his first appearance at Centreville. Stanley was scheduled to fight Gonzalles sometme ago but it was called off.

There will be no wrestling bout the extra fight being used as a substitute. Kent County fans should be particularly interested as many local boys will be seen in action.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularity by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative dose gives the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. Every druggist has it.
