

ALL THE KING'S HORSES

Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis as they appear in a scene from Paramount's 'All the King's Horses,' coming to the New Lyceum Theatre.

A gay and tuneful romantic comedy about the king who had to take lessons in love to hald his charming wife, Paramount's All the King's Horses', starring Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis is coming to the New Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday, March 11 and 12.

Brisson, as the king, exasperates his romantic and loving wife with the grave affairs of state and the ancestral beard, which he refuses to shave until the queen leaves him to live alone in a Villa. She swears never to return until he has reformed.

When the Hollywood actor, Carlo Rocco, comes to his kingdom, the king persuades him to serve in his place while he dashes off to Vienna to learn about love and gaiety—all for the sake of the queen.

Comedy complications arise when the queen returns unexpectedly and mistakes the actor for the king, while the actor suffers from romantic yearnings for the queen. But the changed and happy king returns in the nick of time and the picture is brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

The screen story, adapted from the stage hit which was seen in New York and Chicago, has been embellished with songs by Sam Goslow, author of 'Cocktails for Two,' and elaborate and colorful dance routines by LeRoy Prinz. Two of the tunes, 'A Little White Gardenia' and 'When My Prince Charming Comes Along,' are already established as popular hits.

Frank Tuttle, director of 'Here Is My Heart,' handled the megaphone on 'All the King's Horses,' which features Edward Everett Horton. Katherine DeMille and Eugene Pallette in the supporting cast.

It is our guess that 'The Whole Town's Talking,' which comes on Wednesday and Thursday, March 13 and 14 to the New Lyceum Theatre, is at once a hit. Unsurpassed in entertainment value and boasting one of the outstanding performances of the year in the serio-comic characterization by Edward G. Robinson, 'The Whole Town's Talking' is a robust, exciting and hilarious comedy-drama. It is a decided success, and one that will keep the whole town talking for a long time.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, who also wrote Robinson's former great success, 'Little Caesar,' the film play has been deftly adapted to the screen by the two ace scenarists at the Columbia Studios, Jo Swerling and Robert Riskin. The result was to be expected from this collaboration of writing talent. Between them they have written 'It Happened One Night,' 'Lady For A Day,' 'Broadway Bill,' 'No Greater Glory,' and 'Man's Castle.' John Ford directed with consummate skill and artistry, mingling exciting action, drama and comedy with superb characterization.

The story concerns the hilarious adventures of an inoffensive, frightened little clerk who is mistaken for the country's most sought-after gangster. He is given a 'passport' by the authorities to identify him at all times. His gangster counterpart, however, frightens the clerk into hiding nights while he uses the 'passport' to carry on his criminal activities. Jones, the clerk, finally develops an under-nourished courage when his dream-love the lovely Jean Arthur, is kidnapped by the gangster. In a startling and sensational climax he captures the criminal, wins the girl and discovers to his own satisfaction that he's a man's man.

Others in the cast of this fastpaced, thrilling comedy drama are Wallace Ford, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Byron, Etienne Girardot, Donald Meek and John Wray. They lend excellent support to the principal players.

Traveling six thousand miles just to look at a tunnel seems an unusual form of entertainment. But Raoul Walsh, noted screen director, did just that as part of his preparation for 'Under Pressure,' Fox Film production coming to the New Lyceum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16 is part of a double feature program.

With most of the dramatic action of this Edmund Lowe-Victor McLaglen feature laid in the grimy depths of a vehicle tunnel, Walsh decided to get his atmospheric data at first hand.

Accordingly, in company with Borden Chase, co-author of the original story and the screen play, who has spent most of his adult years in tunnel-driving, Walsh went back to New York to see for himself what the real thing looked like.

There he inspected every detail of the Hudson Mid-town bore, which is being driven from Manhattan to the Jersey shore, learning by actual experience what a 'sand hog's life is like and watching the driving processes a hundred feet below the surface of the Hudson.

George B. Montgomery, general superintendent of Mason and Hanger, contractors for the big tunnel, personally saw to it that he missed nothing. As a consequence the picture will present a vividly realistic portrayal of the dangers and difculties involved in excavating the various railroad and automobile bores beneath our rivers.

A full-sized replica of an actual tunnel, nearly 500 feet long, was built at the studio. This setting contained every bit of apparatus used in actual tunneling operations and its realism aroused the admiration of engineers who visited it.

Besides the Lowe-McLaglen team, the cast of 'Under Pressure' includes Florence Rice, Marjorie Rambeau, Charles Bickford, Guinn ('Big Boy') Williams and others.

In the many years that Noah Beery has been in pictures, he has become established to his many devoted followers as the screen's most menacing 'bad-man,' but in 'The Trail Beyond,' the Lone Star production starring John Wayne, which opens at the New Lyceum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16 a part of a double feature program, he has the sympathetic role of George Newsome, who sends Wayne out on his dangerous mission in the north woods.

Beery was born in Missouri and began his career with a circus that was passing through his home town when he was 12 years old. He has been in the entertainment field ever since then and has been starred in many prominent stage attractions on Broadway.

It is interesting to note that in 'The Trail Beyond,' Beery is featured with his son, Noah, Jr. This is the first time that this notable father and son combination has appeared together in a picture.

PREDICTS PASSAGE OF RELIEF MEASURES

MARYLAND CONGRESSMAN FORCE OLD AGE PENSION AND UNEMPLOYED INSURANCE

The following letter presents another of the many problems which are confronting the Maryland Legislature and presents an unusual situation:

March 4, 1935.

Honorable Harry W. Nice
Governor of Maryland
Annapolis, Maryland
My dear Governor:

At the weekly meeting of the Maryland Delegation in the House of Representatives today, it was decided to communicate with you, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Delegates, the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate, and the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Delegates, concerning the matter and social legislation.

The Members of the Maryland Delegation have communicated with the appropriate Senate and House Committees, and are strongly of the opinion that the Congress will pass Old Age Pension and Unemployment Insurance legislation at this Session of Congress.

We are also strongly of the opinion that this legislation will require State cooperation in order to be effective.

In view of the fact that the Maryland Legislature will adjourn at the end of March, and that the Congress will probably not adjourn until July, and in view of the further fact that the Federal legislation may not pass until after the Maryland Legislature adjourns, it seems to us proper to suggest that the Maryland Legislature pass legislation that will enable it to cooperate with whatever the Federal legislation may be, in order that the people of Maryland may receive the full benefit of the Federal legislation.

The Members of the Maryland Delegation, House of Representatives, will be very happy to cooperate in every way to carry out the purposes of this letter.

Should you consider it desirable, we can arrange with the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate, and of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, for a conference with you and representatives of the Legislature.

All the Members of the Maryland Delegation attended today's meeting except Congressman Lewis, who was unavoidedly absent.

With kind regards, we are

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed)

T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH

COON DOG TRIALS HERE APRIL 7

FOX CHASE SCHEDULED IN ALL DAY PROGRAM

The coon dog field trials, scheduled to be held at Morgnec Bridge on Sunday, April 7th, promises to be one of the largest and most interesting events of its kind ever held in this section according to a statement made this week by Edgar E. Walls, President of the Eastern Shore Coon Hunters Club, which organization is sponsoring the affair.

The purpose of this club is to increase interest in corn hunting and the breeding of good coon dogs, and has a large membership in this section of the Shore. Coon dags owned by members of this club have made outstanding re-cords in field trials held in near-by States and the best of them are expec-ted to compete on April 27th.

The fox chase will be open only to dogs owned in the three counties barred, only fox hounds being eligable to compete the chase will be open only in the finals.

The afternoon program will be de-voted to the coon dog field trials. The morning program will consist of a fox chase at which coon dogs will be grouped in a pack from which the two winners from each pack will compete in the finals.

Doctors Know!

. . . and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.
