THE ELECTION OF officials of Chestertown last Monday resulted in the victory of all three of the new candidates. While the contest was spirited and very active there was very little evidence of bitterness and condemnation. As very few direct issues were at stake it resulted in the tax payers of Chestertown voting for their choice of those aspiring for office which makes for a healthy and cooperative town government. The defeated candidates have served well and the calibre of the newly elected officials promises the continuation of conservative and safe government. It is interesting to note that 472 of the 518 registered vote went to the polls last Monday which is an evidence that the people of Chestertown are interested in the affairs of the town which has been apparently lacking during past years.

THERE IS VERY little doubt that the problem of relief in Maryland is going to come directly home to the pocket books of the residents of Kent County and the entire State. Every indication points to a two per cent sales tax which will extract approximately six million dollars from the residents of Maryland as their share of the relief money to be expended in this sum the Federal Governmnt will add a large sum which sets up wholesale relief as a permanent burden on those who are willing to work. Those who have been receiving relief or dole whatever term one chooses to call it can cease to worry as to its permanency and rest assured that they will be cared for. When the Federal Government first started doling out both direct and work relief it was not apportioned to each locality but distributed out in direct proporton to the need which could be shown in each county. Consequently as it came from the Federal treasurer and was new money many counties set out to find need and uses for the funds with very good results. Many public improvements were made, many dollars were circulated and it proved a great asset. In spite of the lesson taught by the English dole it was easy money and grabbed on every hand. Too little thought was given to the future and the degrading moral effect it would have on the recipients of it. It momentarily appeared to be something for nothing which always proves to be very expensive in the end and the first real proof of that is about to be exhibited. If the sales tax passes and every indication points to its passage, or if any of the suggested substitutes in the way of special taxes are passel the residents of Kent County will start paying dearly for that something for nothing from now on. There will be no reason to make an effort to cut down on relief in Kent County now because it would merely mean more for some other locality. This spirit has always prevailed in the grab for public funds and will continue as long as government feels called upon to solve the problems of local communities. The efforts of local relief agencies to cut down this winter immediately brought protests from other agencies and so it goes. After interviewing fifty men from various parts of Kent County and some of the other counties this week we received the same reply that each community always had and always will take care of their need and general oppostition to relief was expressed. This will not however be necessary now as taxation will be forced on the people of Maryland for relief so wholesale dole is promised for some time to come. The value of voting relief can easily be appreciated by those who make laws as the vote of those on the receiving end is large but maybe too little consideration has been given to the value of the votes of those who will have to pay the bill.

To The Editor of The Transcript:

Dear Mr. Editor:

The MILK PRODUCER who wrote the letter published in last week's Transcript did not sign his name and therefore denied me the privilege of telling him in person my position. In reply I will state that I am aware of many of the statements made in his letter.

My reasons for opposing the Milk Control Board Bill, as written, were as follows:

1. Almost all of the milk produced on the Eastern Shore goes to Philadelphia.

2. They already have a Control Board in Philadelphia which has jurisdiction over our territory and as everyone knows, since that Board has been in operation, the restrictions and regulations have been much harder on our farmers.

3. If we add to that another Control Board in Maryland to make more restrictions and regulations, with the possible conflicts between the two Boards, the situation will be unbearable.

4. The admitted object of the Bill is to handle the Baltimore market in which we have no interest, yet they proposed to put a tax on every producer and distributor in the State to pay the salaries and expenses of the Control Board and its inspectors. Why should we pay their bills?

After the Control Board bill was abandoned in the committee, it was agreed to draw a new bill for the establishment of a Milk Arbitration Board which would only be called in to settle disputes and would only take over the markets where a substantial proportion of the producers request it. If this goes through we will be able to call upon the Board for help if we need it, but will not be required to pay for Baltimore's expenses if we do not need it.
